THE CLOCKS ARE GOING CUCKOO —Judy Rourke of 24 Montford Avenue, Mill Valley, feels a little cuckoo herself as she sets back clocks at Bell's Clock Shop in Mill Valley so the birds will cuckoo on standard instead of daylight saving time. One of the clocks, made in 1750, has a completely wooden movement (even on daylight saving). Tonight's the night to turn your clocks back, too. (Independent-Journal photo)

TURN BACK THE HANDS OF TIME

That time is here again—standard time, we mean.

Marinites who lost an hour's sleep in the annual change of clocks from standard to daylight saving time last April can get it back tonight.

The procedure is simple. Just before retiring, set the clock back an hour. Then, don't look at the clock, think, "oh, it's still early," and stay up another hour. Go to bed. You can wake up in time for church and still have an extra hour's sleep.

The actual change is set for 2 a.m. Pacific Daylight Time tomorrow—which will become 1 a.m., Pacific Standard Time. (This will enable bars to keep serving drinks for another hour.)

Western Greyhound Lines will convert bus timetables from daylight to standard time, so commuters riding buses will catch them at the usual hours Monday.

Russ Offer Cuba Pullout If U.S. Will Quit Turkey

Nikita Now 'Admits' Caribbean Toehold

MOSCOW (UPI) — Premier Nikita Khrushchev, in the first Soviet admission it had missile bases in Cuba, offered today to withdraw them if the United States would withdraw its missiles from Turkey.

President John F. Kennedy rejected the proposal barely an hour later.

The Khrushchev offer held out hopes of an early agreement on banning nuclear tests and on other controversial cold war issues such as Berlin. But it carried with it the implied threat that Soviet technicians in Cuba would fire the missiles if the United States invaded Cuba.

Khrushchev's proposal was made in a letter to Kennedy with a copy to acting U. N. Secretary General Thant. The Kennedy rejection, made after consultations with his key strategy advisers in Washington, came before he had received an official copy.

The Soviet premier called for urgent negotiations on the withdrawals within two or three weeks, "not more than a month," and suggested the U.N. Security Council appoint observers to go into Cuba and Turkey to see that the missiles were withdrawn.

(Western observers said the Khrushchev offer appeared designed to strike at the heart of the NATO concept of building up a deterrent against Soviet nuclear strikes. The belief in some quarters was that acceptance would have meant the beginning of the end of NATO.

(The United States is believed to have about 30 intermediate range missiles in Turkey. About the same number have been reported in Cuba but a U.S. Defense Department spokesman said today "there is no slightest indication" the Russians have slowed down construction of the Cuban bases.

HAVANA SAYS WAR PLANES DRIVEN AWAY

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Havana radio said today unidentified war planes have been driven from western Cuba by Cuban anti-aircraft batteries.

The government communique broadcast by the radio did not say whether the batteries actually opened fire.

The phraseology was that the batteries forced the planes to flee.

Kennedy Rejects Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) —The White House declared today Russia must stop work on its missile sites in Cuba, render offensive weapons in Cuba inoperable and cease shipping arms to the Castro government before the United States can consider any proposals to settle the crisis in this hemisphere.

The White House thus replied to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's offer earlier today to withdraw offensive weapons from Cuba if the United States would pull rockets out of Turkey.

Work on missile sites is proceeding "at a rapid pace" in Cuba the White House said.

"The first imperative must be to deal with this immediate threat under which no sensible negotiation can proceed," the White House said.

As for Khrushchev's call for removal of missiles from Turkey, the White House said the Western Allies have long "taken the lead in seeking properly inspected arms limitation on both sides."

It added:

"These efforts can continue as soon as the present Soviet-created threat is ended."

Khrushchev's proposal was reported in a Moscow radio broadcast. It said the information was contained in messages sent to President John F. Kennedy and U Thant, acting secretary general of the United Nations. It proposed that Thant act as an agent in carrying out the necessary negotiations.

President Kennedy thus did not reject Khrushchev's proposal out of hand but did establish firm conditions for any negotiations between Washington and Moscow. In effect he challenged Khrushchev to demonstrate good faith by dismantling missile bases in Cuba before the United States and the Soviet Union consider any plan to settle the hazardous dispute.

Press secretary Pierre Salinger said Kennedy had not yet received from Moscow the text of Khrushchev's proposal but had examined it on the basis of news reports.

Kennedy had received a separate message from Khrushchev late last night, but Salinger said it differed from the one broadcast today from Moscow.

AIR-RAID DRILL

Novatans Take CD Into Own Hands

Fifty-two Novato residents decided to take civil defense into their own hands "because nothing is being done by any government civil defense agency."

They are led by a carpenter, Thomas McDonagh of 5 Gothic Drive. McDonagh, a Scotsman, spent many weeks in bomb shelters during World War II, and he said, "I've seen what can happen."

He and his neighbors, 30 homeowners and their families on Gothic Drive, had their first practice air-raid drill today.

"It worked very well," McDonagh said. "Nobody had any advance warning. I went out and sounded the alarm by blowing the car horn. Within 20 seconds everybody came out of the houses.

"Men, women and children were carrying blankets and water jugs. One fellow had a transistor radio. Then everybody went into the basements, which make very good bomb shelters."

McDonagh said homes on Gothic Drive are built of prefabricated aluminum siding and have concrete-block basements.

The Gothic Drive do-it-yourself civil defense unit was organized by McDonagh Thursday when he became disgusted with what he calls "d--- little" official civil defense preparations.

"When I heard the president's message—which, by the way, we all agree with here—I got concerned," he said. I rang up the Novato General Hospital and found they had no preparation at all. I called the city and the Novato Police Department, and nobody could give me any information.

"I called the courthouse in San Rafael, and nobody was there who could tell me anything. I called the Novato schools and they were very weak.

"So I decided we could do something for ourselves.

2 More Indian Positions Fall To Red Hordes

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Two more Indian positions have fallen to Red Chinese troops fighting through the eastern Himalayas toward India's heavily populated plains despite stiffening resistance, a defense spokesman said today.

The government called on the Indian people for greater sacrifices and Prime Minister Nehru told some members of his Congress party India is making arrangements to obtain weapons abroad to fight the invaders. He also called on India's millions to make personal sacrifices to aid their country.

In Moscow it was announced that Nehru told Premier Khrushchev today that he would agree to negotiate a border settlement, but only on condition that the Chinese withdraw behind the breakthrough line of Sept. 8.

Fears grew that the invasion would spill over from the disputed border lands into a full-fledged advance into India's Assam Province, which never has been in dispute.

A Defense Ministry spokesman said Indian troops withdrew from Jang, a village five miles east of the important monastry town of Towang, which the Red Chinese captured Wednesday. The Chinese continued an advance along a jeep track southeastward toward Assam.

Authoritative sources indicated two battalions totaling more than 1,000 men would try to fight a delaying action where the jeep track crosses the 13,940-foot Se Pass, 14 miles east of Towang. The Chinese force in the area was reported to be about 10,000 men.

Another outpost near the center of the northeastern frontier also was abandoned. The loss of two posts in that area had been announced previously.

Russians 'Are On Treadmill,' Appeared Grim To Thierbach

By RICHARD CARBONEAU

"They don't smile much," said George W. Thierbach, summing up his impression of the Russian people.

"They are a people who, if they knew they were doing for themselves, would do a lot better . . . hardworking, but like they were on a treadmill."

Thierbach, of 128 Hillpath Lane, Corte Madera, is a director of the Marin Municipal Water District and a retired railroad man.

But he didn't see much along either of these lines while in the Soviet Union with the Marin Executive Delegation. He did, however, gain a broad picture of the USSR—impressive but drab.

Thierbach became ill with flu for two days in Moscow, right at the time scheduled for a tour of a Russian waterworks. So he missed that visit.

"It was so cold I was really miserable," he said.

"The hotel, which was 20 stories, was falling apart, it was so poorly constructed. The lobby was like a big barn; it was poorly furnished and had only two elevators."

Moscow itself, said Thierbach, is "immense—but there is no beauty to it." People stand in long lines at food stores; churches are becoming a thing of the past and eventually will become "museums," he believes, because the congregations are old. No young people are going to church, he said.

"As I understand it, they are god; there is no more God; they have reached the ultimate," Thierbach commented on the atheistic dogma of communism.

Many women—in some cases more women than men—work at heavy labor in

Disabled Cars Blamed For 2 Injury Crashes

Disabled cars caused two injury accidents on Highway 101 in Marin County yesterday and early today, according to the California Highway Patrol.

In one case the driver made no effort to coast to the shoulder of the road, officers said. In the other, the driver was trying to coast to the shoulder when his car was hit.

Robert Gregory Biedma, 27, of Daly City told officers his car stalled in the middle southbound lane as he was going up the Waldo grade near Rodeo Avenue at about 3 a.m. today.

As he was backing the car downhill, Biedma said, it was struck by another southbound car driven by Elbert Allen, 37, of San Francisco.

A broken wire in a generator yesterday resulted in a three-car collision on Highway 101 south of Corte Madera.

A truck hauling dirt in the Civic Cetner area yesterday hit a Pacific Gas and Electric Co. power pole at 2 p.m., causing a power failure in Santa Venetia and the Puerto Suello Hill area.

District manager George Henderson of Pacific Gas and Electric Co. said power remained off in some areas until 3:30 p.m. Radio station KTIM, whose transmitter is located on the Smith Brothers ranch in Santa Venetia, did not get back on the air until 4:45 p.m.

Route Of San Rafael-West Marin Freeway Aired: No Decision Yet

Possible routes for a new highway from San Rafael to West Marin were described yesterday at a public hearing, but state engineers said it would be at least two years before a route is selected and five years before construction begins.

Nearly 50 city and county officials and residents attended the hearing in the San Rafael High School cafeteria.

It was the first public hearing in the proposed road which would alleviate traffic congestion on existing roads leading from Highway 101 through San Rafael, Greenbrae, Kentfield, Ross, San Anselmo, Fairfax and the Gallinas Valley.

Haig Ayanian of the San Francisco district office of the State Division of Highways said planning studies have been started but no decision has been made yet whether the new highway should be built along existing routes or should be re-located.

Area of the route studies, which Ayanian indicated on a big aerial photograph, includes these existing routes:

1. Sir Francis Drake Boulevard from Highway 101 at Greenbrae to the "hub" in San Anselmo and through Fairfax to Highway 1 at Olema.

2. Fourth Street-Red Hill Avenue or parallel streets such as Second Street, Third Street or Fifth Avenue from Highway 101 in San Rafael to the "hub" and out Sir Francis Drake Boulevard to Olema.

3. A combination of Lucas Valley Road, San Geronimo-Nicasio Road and Point Reyes-Petaluma Road from Highway 101 north of San Rafael to Point Reyes Station.

Ayanian said the highway would most likely be a freeway—at least that part of it in the San Rafael area. "It's too early, of course, to say whether it would be elevated or depressed," he said.

The highway would be about 18 miles long and could eventually be a full freeway con-

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Mrs. FDR 'Holding Own'

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who had been ill for a month, was described as "holding her own." yesterday.

The 78-year-old former First Lady is confined to bed in her Manhattan apartment. She is receiving nursing care in addition to daily visits by her doctor.

Mrs. Roosevelt entered a hospital Sept. 26 for what was then described as a routine checkup. Later it was reported that she had a lung infection and a form of anemia. She left the hospital Oct. 18.

De Gaulle Win Predicted

PARIS (UPI) — Political observers predicted today Gen. Charles de Gaulle will win 60 per cent of the vote in tomorrow's national referendum and remain as president.

They were confident France would not reject de Gaulle during a period of increasing world tension.

TEEN-AGE MISS — Darla Banks of Fresno smiled as she held back tears after being crowned "Miss Teen-Age America" in Dallas, Tex., last night. Darla, 16, is a brunette with brown eyes, five feet, four inches tall and weighs 120 pounds. (AP Wirephoto)

Ole Miss Make Up

OXFORD, Miss. (UPI)—University of Mississippi students who missed classes during the integration crisis will have to make up the work on their own.

The university academic council voted yesterday not to extend the current semester to make up for sparsely attended classes during Negro James Meredith's first week here.

"All classes continued to meet throughout the disturbance," a council member said. "The students are expected to make up work missed as they would with any other absence."

Lord Snowdown Ailing

LONDON (AP)—Lord Snowdon, 32, husband of Princess Margaret, today was reported suffering from a stomach complaint in a London hospital. He was admitted to the National Hospital for Nervous Diseases last night for what was officially described as a routine check. A hospital spokesman said Snowdon would be discharged either today or Sunday.

Firemen Die In Blaze

NEW YORK (UPI) — A two-story brick wall collapsed four minutes after a five-alarm fire had been declared under control last night, killing six firemen and injuring at least seven others.

The dead and injured were trapped on a corrugated metal shed attached to the blazing Sefu Fat and Soap Co. in the Maspeth section of the Borough of Queens.

The fire department said the common wall between the two structures collapsed and the firemen were crushed beneath the debris. Several others crawled to safety from under the rubble.

Escape In Berlin

BERLIN (UPI)—Nine East German refugees in two groups dodged the bullets of Communist border guards to escape into West Berlin during the night, Western authorities said today.

It was the biggest escape total in several weeks. West Berlin police said some of the regugees were out scrambling through barbed wire, but that none was wounded by bullets.

Traffic Death Record

CHICAGO (UPI)—More persons were killed on America's highways the first nine months of 1962 than ever before in a similar period, the National Safety Council reported yesterday.

The council said 29,600 persons died in traffic accidents during the period, an increase of 9 per cent over the 27,000 deaths recorded for the first nine months of /1961.

TV's 'Beulah' Dies

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Television's "Beulah"—veteran character actress Louise Beavers—died yesterday in Cedars of Lebanon Hospital, following a three-year illness.

In addition to portraying "Beulah" on the television series of the same name in the 1950s, Miss Beavers had been a movie actress for some 40 years.

She played the mother in the "Jackie Robinson Story" and appeared in such other films as "My Blue Heaven" — before talkies — and "Mr. Blandings Builds His Dream House."

Formerly a resident of Cincinnati, Miss Beavers became an actress at the age of 6.

Hoffa On Tour

The government calls its first witness Monday. The entire first week of the federal court trial was spent on a struggle over seating a jury, arguing motions and making opening statements.

Homecoming Queen

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — The reigning queen at the University of Colorado's homecoming this weekend is Mary Elizabeth Mothershed, 19, a Negro from Shreveport, La. She was chosen in a student election over five other finalists.

Benson Is Bircher

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—The eldest son of former Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson announced yesterday that he has been named John Birch Society coordinator for Utah—with his father's blessings.

Reed A. Benson, 34, who ran unsuccessfully this fall for the Republican nomination for U.S. congressman, said he joined the society after a year of investigation.

Students Suspended

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Six students were suspended from Florida State University yesterday for throwing Molotov cocktails at a Jewish fraternity house.

The soft drink bottles filled with gasoline were thrown from a car but missed Tau Epsilon Phi Fraternity's house. The students pleaded guilty to "a prank that got out of hand" and were ordered by the court to clean and paint the sidewalk, the house porch and the steps.

4 Die In Air Crash

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI)—A Strategic Air Command (SAC) reconnaissance aircraft crashed and burned early today while taking off on a routine mission from Kindley Field, Bermuda, SAC headquarters here announced. All four crewmen were killed.

CALIFORNIA CANDIDATES

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

California voters were assured today that the ballots they cast in the Nov. 6 election would be secret and untraceable.

Secretary of State Frank Jordan made a public statement on the secrecy of the ballot because, he said, his office had received numerous telephone calls from persons who were "alarmed by intimidation rumors that marked ballots can be traced.

"There is no way for any person other than a voter to know how he has marked his ballot," said Jordan. "Although each ballot has a serial number, the stub showing such number is removed and handed to the voter at the time his or her ballot is dropped into the ballot box."

In the gubernatorial phase of the campaign, Gov. Edmund G. Brown cut off his activities to fly to Washington, D.C., and attend a governors' conference on civil defense in connection with the Cuba crisis.

Republican guberatorial nominee Richard M. Nixon campaigned in Northern California today.

Roger Kent of Kentfield, Northern California chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, and Mrs. Elizabeth Gatov, also of Kentfield, former U.S. treasurer, charged there is "a skillfully planned and massively conducted campaign to smear Governor Brown as a left-winger, a pro-Communist and a Red-appeaser. They sent a formal complaint to the bipartisan fair campaign practices committee. The committee said no action would be taken on the complaint until Monday.

Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel (R-Calif.), back on the re-election campaign trail after a quick trip to Washington for a briefing on Cuba, said he saw "some kind of hope that the Soviet Union will respond to this country's demand that it remove offensive weapons in Cuba."

State Sen. Richard Richards, said he was in "close touch" with the White House and predicted no war will result from the current Cuba situation. Richards charged Kuchel with "misusing the crisis to imply that he has the support of President John F. Kennedy. "I have the support of President Kennedy," said Richards.

Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk, Democratic candidate for re-election, stepped up the tempo of his campaign with two speeches scheduled today—before a united steelworkers rally in Los Angeles, and before an evening meeting of the brotherhood of railroad trainmen at Long Beach.

Nation Shivers Under Snow

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Portions of the Northeast and northern Ohio began digging out from under more than a foot of snow today, unleashed by an autumn storm that snarled traffic and caused hazardous highway conditions.

Other parts of the nation shivered in near record low temperatures—and winter is still almost two months away.

The Northeast—specifically the New York and New England areas—and northern Ohio were covered by up to 13 inches of snow.

At least seven traffic deaths in New England were attributed to unfavorable highway conditions.

Several schools were closed and mammoth traffic jams were caused in northern Ohio, where 12 inches of snow pelted the area, mostly in the form of snow squalls.

The main traffic route between Cleveland and Akron, U.S. 21, was clogged for several hours yesterday with an estimated 2,000-3,000 stalled cars.

New York's rural snowbelts were exactly that as 13 inches covered the ground. Crisp cold weather accompanied the snow storms that covered parts of New England with 11 inches of snow.

Clearing during the night and early morning brought relief to most areas and clear skies replaced the snow-laden clouds. But the cold snap that hit many areas Friday with record low temperatures continued.

One of the coldest was the 15 degrees in Elkins, W. Va. Ashville, N.C., had 23, Raleigh 24 and Greensboro 25.

London, Ky., reported 19 and even Florida was chilled with 33 degrees in Cross City and 35 in Tallahassee.

The 30s and 40s were prevalent elsewhere in the East with some 50s along the immediate Gulf coast. The 40s and 50s spread over the area west of the Mississippi and the 50s were registered in Southern California and the bulk of Texas.

Financier Who Fled To Brazil Returning

NEW YORK (AP) — Financier Edward Gilbert, who fled to Brazil when shortages of nearly two million dollars turned up in his firm, will return to the United States Monday to face federal and state charges, his attorney said today.

The lawyer, Arnold Bauman, has made several trips to Rio de Janeiro to confer with Gilbert. He said the former president of E. L. Bruce Co., Inc., will end his self-imposed exile in a country from which he could not be extradited.

Bauman said Gilbert will surrender to federal authorities on charges of making unauthorized withdrawals from the Bruce firm, the nation's leading maker of hardwood flooring.

Gilbert resigned the Bruce presidency June 12 when the firm's board of directors learned of his action. He fled to Brazil that same day.

Later, in Rio, the fugitive New York financier told newsmen he had taken the funds solely to help Bruce gain control of Celotex Corp., a manufacturer of building materials.

He explained that he had put up all his Bruce and Celotex holdings as collateral on Celotex stock. When the stock market collapsed, he said, he had to put up money to satisfy his creditors and so delved into the Bruce funds.

Federal and state grand juries returned indictments against Gilbert after he fled the country. The federal charges alone provide up to 74 years in prison and fines totaling $82,000.

He is accused of misappropriating Bruce funds, and using the mails and wires for fraudulent purposes.

Corte Madera Firemen: No Banner Day

The town of Corte Madera has cracked down on an eight-year-old tradition by ordering the Corte Madera volunteer fire department to remove a 15-foot long illegal banner.

The banner hangs across Tamalpais Drive near the Corte Madera recreation center to advertise the firemen's ball Nov. 10.

Town building inspector William McBride wrote the fire department that the banner "is not permitted and does not come within the provisions of the zoning ordinance."

McBride said the town clerk wrote him that "Rev. Gerald Moyer protests the banner across Tamalpais Drive as on July 16, 1962, the town council denied him a similar privilege." Moyer, pastor of the Corte Madera First Baptist Church, had applied to hang a banner in the same area to advertise a Baptist convention.

"If the sign is not down by Monday morning I will have town forces cut it down."

Yell Leader Trial Raises Legal Point

Ken Robin, head yell leader at Tamalpais High School, was tried in impeachment proceedings yesterday by the student congress; but on conclusion of the trial it was uncertain whether he would be removed from office.

The question was raised as to whether impeachment is provided under the student constitution, which sets forth rules for recall but not impeachment.

The judicial council met after the hearing to try to decide the legality but took no action, postponing decision to Monday.

Secret ballots were cast by the student congress members as to whether senior classman Robin should be removed for an "act unbecoming an officer" on campus Oct. 16. However, this vote is to be effective only if proceedings are held legal. Its result was kept secret pending the judicial council's decision.

The students initiated impeachment proceedings under the recall section of their constitution. Robin, meantime, was suspended by school officials for infraction of campus rules. He is to return to classes Monday.

Greg Corey, judicial chairman, opened the meeting by asking everyone to stand and give the pledge of allegiance to the American flag on the wall.

Corey then said the defendant had admitted the charge and the student congress was to decide on whether he should keep his office.

Corey acted as judge, Jerry Dreyfus as defense attorney, and Steve Long and Roddy Pinto as prosecution attorneys. The congress of about 60 students sat as the jury on tiered seats for the orderly hearing in room 52 of Keyser Hall.

Dreyfus told the students, "I do not feel it would be just to take away his elected office for this 'misconduct'."

A jurist asked, "Is this trying to determine the punishment or whether he has broken a rule of the school?"

Corey replied, "There is no set rule in the constitution which outlines the conduct of an officer." He explained that impeachment is removal from office for not doing one's moral duty, recall for not doing one's job.

Vice Principal Charles Crawford told the judge that 160 persons had signed a petition for an impeachment hearing. It was reported the signatures were verified.

"In the constitution there is no provision made for impeachment trials," said Brock Allen, who is on the judicial council.

"Are you a member of the student congress?" asked Bill Rice, student body president. "No," Allen answered. "Sit down," said Rice.

Student adviser Cyril Beattie then said he thought the judicial council should interpret the constitution.

John Johnson suggested a vote be taken and that the judicial council review the constitution later for its legality as to impeachment. This was put into a motion and was carried. Allen then suggested that results of the vote not be released until after the judicial council met.

In addition to the student congress, Tamalpais High has a student court which holds court twice a week at lunch hour. It tries students for such offenses as walking across the lawn, smoking on campus, or littering campus.

Nine College of Marin coeds have been nominated for queen of the annual homecoming celebration next week.

The event will have an international theme. Foreign flags will be flown on the campus in honor of the students from abroad, said counselor Wanda Glass, who is working with the Associated Students and the Inter-Club Council in arranging the events.

Nominees for queen were introduced at a student rally in Olney Hall. The girls and the groups sponsoring them:

Sue Jacobs, 17, of Mill Valley, Atheniums; Karen Hopkins, 17, of San Rafael, Pep Club; Darby Stevens, 18, of San Rafael, Associated Women Students; Irene Lunding, 18, of San Rafael, International Relations Club; Mikel Devine, 19, of Petaluma, Engineers Club; Jean Shekel, 17, of San Rafael, Block M Club; Cecily Merrill, 18, Art Club; Kathleen Lonsford, 19, Corte Madera, football team; Thelma Le Glynn Wilkes, 19, Mill Valley, public relations club.

On Tuesday, students will ballot to pick five finalists. Wednesday they will vote to select the queen; the four runners-up will be princesses. The queen will receive her crown from college President Stephen E. Epler at a rally at 12:20 p.m. Thursday in Olney Hall. Charles Lampkin, motion picture and television singer, actor and musical director, will entertain at the rally.

The same day at 5 p.m. a car parade will leave the campus, with a trophy awaiting the driver of the best decorated vehicle. The car caravan will go via College Avenue and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard over Wolfe Grade to D Street and then Second Street, San Rafael, then along the Miracle Mile to Drake Boulevard in San Anselmo and back to the campus.

A bonfire will be built at the baseball diamond at 7 p.m. There will be a "mixer" in the cafeteria at 9 p.m.

Friday at 8 p.m. on the college field, the College of Marin football team will play the homecoming game with Napa Junior College.

The final event of the weekend will be the homecoming dance starting at 10 p.m. Saturday in the gymnasium, with music by the Owens Dance Band.

Olema Sundberg Inn Sold, Changing Name

The Sundberg Inn at Olema, operated for 19 years by Mrs. Stella Sundberg, has been sold to Clay Wright, formerly of Walnut Creek.

Wright, who has been a construction equipment salesman, said he is changing the name to the Farmhouse and will operate it as a bar and cocktail lounge. He expects to serve a limited food menu on Friday nights and Saturday and Sunday.

He said the inn has a large dining room and kitchen and he hopes by next spring to serve lunches and dinners. He plans on extensive but gradual remodeling of the premises. An adjoining one-acre lot has been leased for parking with possible usage later for picnics and barbecues.

The Farmhouse will be open seven days a week from 10 a.m. until late at night. On weekends it will remain open to 2 a.m.

Mrs. Sundberg, now on vacation, is expected to continue making her home in Olema.

Fairfax Lutherans Set Two Meetings

Two stewardship meetings at Christ the Victor Lutheran Church in Fairfax have been scheduled for November by the Partnership in the Gospel Committee of the church, co-chairmen Carl Carlsen and Donald Jessup announced.

The Nov. 2 meeting will begin at 8 p.m. and will consist of a Bible study led by Rev. John T. Rotto. A loyalty dinner will be held on Nov. 9 at 7:30 p.m. at which Dr. Hunter Smith, a Lutheran medical missionary from Nigeria will speak.

Harvest Dinner Set

St. Cecilia's Catholic Church, Lagunitas, will hold its annual harvest dinner Nov. 3 at 7 p.m. with games and an auction to highlight the activities.

Music Program At Episcopal Church

The first in a series of music appreciation evenings at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, 1123 Court Street, San Rafael, will begin tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the Parish Hall.

The family nights on Dec. 2, Feb. 24, and Marchc 31, in addition to tomorrow night, are designed to lead to a wider appreciation for types of music used in the liturgy. Barrett Mineah, director of music at St. Paul's, will conduct the series.

"The Healing Mission of Christian Science" will be the topic of a lecture by Naomi Price of London, a member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship, at 3 p.m. tomorrow at the Outdoor Art Clubhouse, Throckmorton and West Blithedale avenues, Mill Valley. Her talk is being sponsored by the First Church of Christian Science of Mill Valley.

Civil Defense Questions Answered

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Director Allan K. Jonas of the California Disaster Office gave these answers to what he called the most frequently asked questions about civil defense:

At the same time, he urged people to stay "calm and self-disciplined and at the same time seek information for making family emergency plans in case they are ever necessary."

He said there has been no indication from federal authorities the state should embark on a crash civil defense program but if it does, the people will be informed immediately.

1. Where can I get information? Local civil defense offices or local government agencies.

2. What foods should I store? Two weeks supply of foods that don't need refrigeration, don't spoil easily and do not have to be cooked. Special diet foods and infant supplies should be kept on hand.

3. Is there anything else needed? Water in cans or sealed non-breakable containers, seven gallons a person. Radios, first aid kit, medical handbook, battery radio, eating utensils, tools, toilet facilities, blankets, time pieces, maps.

4. Where are shelters? Local defense officials can tell you.

5. What about children in school? The schools all have civil defense plans.

6. What about evacuation? In general, stay put and find the best shelter available.

7. Are any good pamphlets available? "Fallout Protection" and other pamphlets are available at local civil defense offices.

8. Is there any quick way to build shelters? Your civil defense office can supply you with shelter construction information.

Professor Says Castro Supported

STANFORD (UPI)—A Stanford University professor of Latin American history said yesterday that Fidel Castro "still has the firm support of the young people of Cuba."

Prof. John J. Johnson, appearing on a campus panel, warned, "if the United States plans an invasion of Cuba, it must anticipate a bloodbath even if conventional weapons are used."

He said Cubans would bitterly resist any American move against the island nation.

Losses From Storm Might Be Deductible

Residents of Marin County who suffered property damage from the recent storm can deduct casualty losses on federal income tax returns under certain conditions, it was announced today.

Joseph M. Cullen, director of internal revenue for the San Francisco District, said deductible casualty losses include loss of property resulting from fire, storm, flood, automobile accident or similar events. A deductible casualty loss can result from an identifiable event of a sudden or unusual nature.

$150,000 Suit Filed In Car Death

A young mother and her 2-year-old daughter are suing for $150,000 damages for the auto accident death of their husband and father in San Rafael a year ago.

Jeanne Marie Watson and her daughter, Sheri Denise, filed the suit yesterday in Marin Superior Court for the death of Thomas Duane Watson, 20, of Marin Town and Country Club in Fairfax. Watson died in a two-car crash at B and Bayview streets in San Rafael on Nov. 25, 1961.

Watson and Larry Raymond Blankenship, 18, of San Rafael, were passengers in a car driven by Ronald Sauer, 20, of 103 La Brea Street, San Rafael. Both Watson and Blankenship died from injuries when their car clipped a fender of another car and hit a tree.

Named as defendant in the suit is the driver of the other car, Larry Francis Kenyon, 19, of 103 La Brea Street, San Rafael.

According to San Rafael police, Sauer tried to pass Kenyon's vehicle and went into a skid. Sauer's vehicle crashed with the fender of the other car, then slammed into a tree.

Drake Seniors Selling Subscriptions For Ball

Sir Francis Drake High School's seniors are selling magazine subscriptions on the campus in San Anselmo to help finance the Senior Ball and other activities.

Those who sell most subscriptions will get prizes which include a transistor radio, bongo drums, stuffed animals and others.

Sen. Kuchel Arrives In Marin Monday

Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel is scheduled to arrive in downtown San Rafael at 9:30 a.m. Monday to begin a day of re-election campaigning in Marin.

Plans for a breakfast for the senator at the Edgewater Inn in Corte Madera at 7:30 a.m. and an appearance at the Woodlands Restaurant in Kentfield have been cancelled, Kuchel's Northern California headquarters announced today.

The Republican senator, who is opposed on the Nov. 6 ballot by State Sen. Richard Richards, Los Angeles Democrat, will visit the county courthouse at 10:15 a.m.

From 11 a.m. to noon, there will be a reception for Kuchel at the Mill Valley Tennis Club, hosted by the People-for-Kuchel organization.

Course In Christian Arts Starts Tuesday

A six-week course on Christian art will be held, starting Tuesday, at 8 p.m. in Scott Hall of San Francisco Theological Seminary, San Anselmo.

Jane D. Karlin, a recent lecturer at Drew University who received a Rockefeller Foundation grant to study in Europe, will conduct the course. She is the wife of Dr. John Dillenberger, professor of Historical Theology and dean of graduate studies at the seminary.

The course, offered by the Layman's School of Religion, will trace the Christian faith as reflected by art from Byzantine art to the present.

Lutheran Services Note Reformation

Two Lutheran churches in Marin County have announced services tomorrow commemorating Martin Luther's posting his 95 thesis to the church door at Wittenberg on Oct. 31, 1517.

Rev. Robert Goeser, professor of Historical Theology at Pacific Lutheran Theological Seminary, will preach the 11 a.m. festival service at Faith Lutheran Church, Terra Linda.

A service of worship commemorating the Reformation will be held at the 11 a.m. service of Grace Lutheran Church, at 1787 Grant Avenue, Novato.

In addition, a joint service by Bay Area Lutheran churches will be held in Grace Cathedral in San Francisco at 3 p.m.

Unitarians Install Own Minister

Members of the Unitarian-Universalist Church of Marin County will conduct their own ceremonial welcome for their new minister, Rev. Karel F. Botermans, tomorrow at the 11 a.m. service in the auditorium of the Tamalpais Centre Women's Club, Kentfield.

Representing their fellow members, four persons who serve on the board of directors of the church will deliver the charge to the minister who will respond. New members will be welcomed into the church following Boterman's formal installation.

Those who will deliver the charge to the minister and congregations are Raymond Loen, president of the Pacific Central District for the denomination; Stephen Kaufman, for the local membership; Mrs. Edward Pierce, for the children and youth; and Fred Gunsky, for the church's outreach in the community. Scott Nicoll, president of the board, will deliver the charge to the congregation.

Novato Church Raising Money

Funds for construction of a multi-purpose building for the Novato Community Methodist Church total more than $13,000, according to Lee Wise, chairman of the fund raising committee.

The funds collected represent contributions from one-fifth of the families who are members of the church, Wise made his report at a recent meeting of the church membership.

Tomorrow at the 11 a.m. worship service new members will be received into the church. At the 7:30 p.m. service Rev. Warren W. Peters will show slides of his trip to Japan in 1960.

Billy Graham Film

"Shadow of the Boomerang," a Billy Graham film, will be shown at the First Baptist Church of San Anselmo on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Officials To Speak At Dinner

A civic testimonial dinner to honor the Rt. Rev. Daniel McAlister, administrator of St. Raphael's Church and a recently appointed monsignor of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of San Francisco, will be held Nov. 8.

The dinner, planned "in appreciation and acknowledgement of Monsignor McAlister's high position of leadership and of his contributions to the welfare of so many," will start at 7 p.m. at Dominic's Harbor Restaurant, San Rafael. About 500 are expected to attend.

Richard A. McGee, head of the State Department of Corrections, and San Rafael Mayor John F. McInnis, will speak. The monsignor worked with McGee when he served as chaplain at San Quentin Prison before being named administrator at the church.

Louis Freitas of San Rafael will act as master of ceremonies, and Monsignor John McGarr, dean of the county, is expected to attend the dinner in a rare public appearance, according to Earl Grady, in charge of arrangements.

The main committee for the dinner includes Harry Albert, Walter Castro and John F. McInnis, all of San Rafael, and Jack Craemer of Greenbrae.

St. Raphael's choir will sing during the evening.

Tickets may be purchased through Mrs. Arthur V. Fay at 10 East Mission Avenue, San Rafael, the reservation chairman, or from the Mission Gift Shop or the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce.

Jewish Adult Forum

The fourth in a series of eight Adult Forums, sponsored by Congregation Rodef Sholom, will be held at the temple at 170 North San Pedro Road, Santa Venetia, Wednesday at 8:15 p.m. Guest speaker will be Rabbi Elihu J. Steinhorn of Congregation Beth Jacob in Oakland who will speak on "An Orthodox View of Torah."

NOT ALL BAD

Religion In Suburbia May Be Missionary Challenge

By LOUIS CASSELS

To find any signs of health and vitality in suburbia is a very unfashionable thing to do these days. It's getting so you can hardly pick up a church periodical without encountering a Jeremiad against the "materialism," "parochialism" and "shallowness" of suburban Christianity.

It is a little startling, therefore, to find the Rev. Mr. MacGill saying boldly in the Living Church Magazine:

"Despite the prophets of suburban doom, the church is still mediating Christ's salvation . . . even in status heights. And it is doing so remarkably well, in my opinion.

The Rev. MacGill served until recently as vicar of what he describes as an "arch-typical" suburban parish — the Episcopal Church of the Nativity, Indianapolis, Ind. He is now on the staff of the National Council of the Episcopal Church.

He acknowledges that the average suburban congregation is far from being the dedicated body of Christian disciples that it ought to be. But with all of its shortcomings, suburban Christianity is not as "dreary and foolish" as its critics paint it.

In suburbia, the Rev. MacGill says, "The gospel is being proclaimed and received by men and women who want badly to know that there is Good News with power to save.

"The historic creeds are staking out blazing areas of eternal truth for lonely, transient and skeptical folk whose uniformly college - educated minds still clamor for the few simple certainties of life.

"The food and drink of the Eucharist are penetrating the lives of worldlings who know acutely what it is to hunger and thirst in the midst of cocktail-and-cookout plenteousness."

Instead of scorning suburbia as a wasteland of Pharisaism, the Episcopal minister says, churches should recognize that it "may well be the greatest missionary challenge to Christianty in America today."

From his own ministry in the suburbs, the Rev. MacGill has elarned two lessons which he commends to all clergymen who are assigned to this "missionary" frontier.

The first is that "suburbanites do not need the church for picnics, parties and the like . . . they have their own resources for leisure and recreation."

"The effort spent in so many churches on organized outings and social affairs is an essential waste," he says, because it merely provides another opportunity for human relationships on an "artificial level."

"What people want is the chance to know other Christians in some depth. Adult study programs of an unabashedly religious nature—and especially those with lay leadership—are the obvious alternative."

The second lesson is that "suburbanites are painfully self-conscious Christians because, despite their high level of book-learning, they are essentially ignorant about the Christian religion."

"Too often we ask a church member to accomplish the impossible task of being a Christian without giving him basic instruction in what Christianity is all about.

"In the transient world of suburbia, a terrifying number have never had that introduction. They do not know the Bible. They don't know why the Church is as it is, and does as it does. And they are ashamed and self-conscious because they don't know."

His remedy—which worked wonders for the Church of the Nativity at Indianapolis—is to provide adults as well as children with systematic, basic instruction in the "content of the Christian faith."

To provide this instruction, the Church of the Nativity worked out an "unshamedly old-fashioned curriculum" in which the Bible was the principal textbook.

"Modern religious educators will probably scream," says the Rev. MacGill, "but this was the moment when these suburban Christians began to lose their self-consciousness and to become properly conscious of Holy God."

"I am convinced that there is a major key to the life of the church in suburbia."

Novatan Conducts Stake Conferences

Elder Sterling W. Sill, an assistant to the Council of Twelve Apostles of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, will preside over a quarterly conference of the Santa Rosa Stake today and tomorrow in Petaluma.

General sessions of the conference will be conducted tomorrow at 10 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. by stake president Weston Lawrence Roe of Novato. Elder Glen L. Rudd, a member of the church's general welfare staff, will accompany Sill to the conference.

MARIN'S SOCIAL WHIRL

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

The Corinthian Yacht Club is having its final dance of the season tonight at the clubhouse. Guests are coming from many different yacht clubs in the Bay Area and Charles Weaver, chairman of the club's race committee, is awarding the trophies. Ninety-four winners will receive silver engraved bowls. Many yachtsmen vied for the Corinthian, Buckner and Tornberg trophies and for each there were several classes.

Tomorrow the mid-winter regatta will start. Among those at tonight's dance will be Commodore Robert Evans and his wife, W. Burbeck Johnson, port captain, and Mrs. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Thompson (she is president of the Women's Auxiliary of Corinthian Yacht Club) and her husband, the Charles Weavers, Donald Springsteds and Ted Steigers.

MR. AND MRS WILLIAM BRANTMAN are entertaining at a dinner Nov. 14 at their recently redecorated home in Tiburon. Their home has a wonderful view of the bay on which the deck fronts and the Brantmans hope the night of the dinner will be clear of fog.

HAPPY TO BE back in Marin are Huntley and Alice Bennett and their two daughters, Anne and Nancy, who were in Minneapolis, Minn. for a year and a half. The Bennetts, hoping to buy a house in Ross, were unsuccessful, so they have leased a house at Upper Toyon and Makin Grade. The children are back in the Ross School, renewing friendships. Huntley is now with Johnson and Lewis Advertising Agency in San Francisco. Alice, who was one of the most active members of Marin Unit of the Junior League, will resume her activities as soon as her home is settled. She says "We've been playing musical houses ever since we came back from Minneapolis." The family lived in different Ross houses while owners were vacationing.

A NEW ARRIVAL in the Ross home of the Howard Wilders (Nancy Phelps Wilson) is a son born Oct. 14 at St. Joseph's Hospital in San Francisco. He has been named Howard Andrew. He is the brother of Bill and Edward Wilder and grandson of Mrs. Louis Benoist of San Francisco. He is the half brother of Jill, Sally and Stephen Wilson and of Ann, Kim and Craig Wilder.

MRS. FRANCIS OWEN of Kent Woodlands and her daughters, Mrs. Edwin Schwartz (Elisa Escamilla) and Mrs. John Elwin (Roberta Escamilla) were among the staffers at the huge rummage sale at the Hall of Flowers in Golden Gate Park Thursday. It was a benefit for the Girls Recreation Club. Mrs. Owen worked in the shoe department and her daughters in notions. The crowd was huge, the sales stupendous and the workers mighty weary when the day was over.

MRS. LOUIS BABST of Mill Valley is taking reservations for the luncheon to be given by Sigma Alpha Iota alumnae on Nov. 3 at the luncheon at the home of Mrs. Paul Morton, 1530 Euclid Avenue, Berkeley. Miss Henrietta Keizer, Sunnyvale music supervisor, will report on the national triennial convention of the professional music fraternity for women held in Chicago. Following her report a musical program will be given.

SHARON ANN KANE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kane of San Rafael, was one of the freshmen receiving a student Nurse Cap in the traditional candlelight ceremony at Kaiser Foundation School of Nursing in Oakland.

MR. AND MRS. PAUL BISSINGER recently returned from five weeks in the Orient. They flew to Japan and Formosa. The Bissingers, who have a home in Kent Woodlands, are spending the winter in their San Francisco place.

MR. AND MRS. Leander Philip Auby Jr., are pictured following their wedding in St. Cecilia's Church, San Francisco. The bride, the former Catherine Anne Skinner, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Skinner. She was graduated from San Rafael High School. (Milton Mann photo)

'If Going To Wear Jewelry, Wear Jewelry,' Says Designer

By GAY PAULEY
UPI WOMEN'S EDITOR

NEW YORK (UPI) — The standard, and safe, jewel accessory of two or three-strand pearls throws Arthur King into a tizzy.

King, bearded specialist in off-beat jewelry designs, finds the traditional in jewelry "dull, most boring. If you're going to wear jewelry, wear jewelry.

"Gold, for instance. I think of gold as a rough, nuggety, heavy metal . . . I resent gold made thin. Why rob it of its richness?

"Jewelry is savage, pagan. Man wore jewelry before he wore clothes. We've thought too long of jewelry in a velvet-cushioned, gilt-framed setting.

"I love to work with baroque pearls . . . never change their shapes. A diamond has to be cut. I'll do diamonds of course, but I won't put them in those 'claw' settings just so a woman can show how much money instead of taste she has."

King's designs, made by him and 25 other goldsmiths, all are one of a kind. They have a sculptured, rugged look — "they move," said King.

"I won't make sets of things," he said. "I won't even match earrings. We live in a mechanical, regimented age. The part of one toaster fits another. That may be all right for toasters, but not for jewelry. Each gem calls for its own setting.

"That wedding band you're wearing (plain gold) looks like it was designed by a lathe."

King's theory that jewelry should have "virility" has brought him such customers as Lena Horne ("she has a fabulous collection"), Elizabeth Taylor ("Mike Todd used to buy for her"). Van Johnson (cuff links), Pierre Balmain, the Paris couturier (cuff links, gifts for customers), and assorted European royalty, he said.

Customers can spend $35 for a wedding band, go on up to the $1,000's for brooches, bracelets and rings. He currently is working on a white and yellow gold chess set with gem-studded chessmen. It will cost about $200,000, he said, and has been commissioned by a doner who plans to give it to a British museum.

Born 41 years ago in Los Angeles, Calif., King did radio and road show acting until World War II when he joined the Merchant Marine.

"I always had an interest in metalwork," he said. "I used to haunt museums looking at armor. In the Merchant Marine, there often were long stretches to kill . . . I began to fool around with metal and stones."

After the war, he opened a small shop in New York, but eventually closed it to move operations to Miami and Havana, Cuba.

"I grew this long before Castro had his," said King, fingering a heavy dark thatch of whiskers.

When Castro came to power in Cuba, King's two Havana shops were confiscated, he said. He moved to his Miami adjunct. He and his wife have a home at Cocoanut Grove, Fla. King said he was his own architect and his love for the unusual shows in use of old coral, marble and tiles salvaged from a hotel which in turn had gathered materials from an ancient Spanish monastery.

Now reopening in New York, King's shop reflects his rebellion against that velvet-cushioned look.

CARVING THE PUMPKINS

Working on decorations for tonight's Halloween Costume Party at the Rafael Racquet Club are, from left, Mesdames Robert Deming, chairman; James Coleman and Thomas Newton. The party will get underway with a cocktail hour at 7:30 p.m., followed by a buffet at 8:30 o'clock. Dancing will conclude the evening's activity.

Marin Bridge Players Hawaii Bound

A delegation of women bridge players from Marin County will leave for Hawaii Monday to vie for points and prizes at the Hawaiian sectional bridge tournament Wednesday through Sunday.

Those who plan the Hawaii trip include Mesdames Victor Hern, Henry Mogler and Alma Sparrow of Greenbrae; John Jenkins, Harry Fink, Arion G. Monti, and Bernard Keating, all of San Rafael; Mesdames Erna Long, Martha Postel and E. J. Graham, Mill Valley; Sim Dever and Carroll Snyker of Ross; and Sayde Reiser of Fairfax.

A Hot Tip

If you plan to use a plastic handled percolator over an open flame wrap it in aluminum foil to keep it from burning.

Ballet Aquacade Branch Elects New Officers

Mrs. Fred Enemark was re-elected chairman of the Ballet Aquacade Branch of the Marin General Hospital Auxiliary at a meeting held at Peacock Golf and Country Club Tuesday.

Mrs. William Upton was chosen as treasurer and Mrs. Jane Pike, secretary.

At the meeting Mrs. Fred Drexler, president of Marin General Hospital Auxiliary, introduced branch chairmen, Mrs. William Pemberton and Mrs. Sam Schonwasser, and public relations chairman, Mrs. Harrison Leppo.

Chairmen of the annual Ballet Aquacade held last June gave their reports and recommendations and a discussion of next year's Aquacade was held. Mrs. Ralston Hodgson, production director and choreographer, gave a brief outline of the 18th Ballet Aquacade to be held in June, 1963.

Fashions With View To Have Jewel Theme

Harper's Bazaar Bay Area representative, Jean Barker, joins "Fashions With a View" Thursday at the Ondine in Sausalito for the 12:30 p.m. fashion luncheon. Fashionable jewels of the season will emphasize "individuality with accessories."

American designer fashions will be shown in a salute to the 10th Jewel Ball of the San Francisco Junior Auxiliary to the Stanford Convalescent Home.

Mrs. H. Bruce Bernhard of Marin, president of the Auxiliary, and Mrs. Wayne McCoy, chairman of the ball, will be special guests.

HANLEY

If the impaired vision of Orlando Cepeda's right eye had not been accidently discovered during a routine renewal of the Bull's automobile driver's license, would his blurred vision been uncovered at all? Ultimately, of course, it would have. But would it have been discovered before the 1963 baseball season?

The Giants pride themselves on running a meticulous organization. Yet, the organization has no detailed health charts on its baseball players except those dispatched to doctors for obviously needed medical repairs. And even in injury cases, such as twisted ankles, insteps or knees, there is only limited diagnosis of the ailing area—not a complete medical checkup.

Joe Pignatano, the old Dodger catcher who came to the Giants last January by way of Kansas City, called this to our attention before the Giants sent him to the Mets. Pignatano didn't make a particular point of the issue. It just happened to come out during a conversation in which we asked Joe to compare the Giant and Dodger operations.

"I'VE BEEN with the Giants such a brief time that I don't know too much about them," said Pignatano. "But I was surprised when I reported to spring training that I wasn't directed to a doctor for a complete checkup. That's the first order of business with the Dodgers."

Pignatano then cited the cases of several Dodgers who would have taken latent hernias and other ailments onto the ball field except for exhaustive, precautionary medical checkups.

"THE DODGERS," said Pignatano, "are fully aware that some ball players will try to saddle a club with all of their medical expenses. However, Buzzie Bavasi (Dodger general manager) feels this is the lesser of two evils, the greater evil being the possible collapse of a key player in midseason from a hidden ailment."

WE FORGOT all about our talk early in the season with Pignatano until Willie Mays collapsed in Cincinnati during the last road trip of the Giants. Then, we told Chub Feeney about it. The vice president of the Giants replied that Mays would undergo a complete checkup after the season, one that Willie should be getting any day now.

But what about Cepeda and the other members of the ball club?

Mariners Pick Up Fifth Straight Win This Year

by PAUL MILLER

The 49ers were clobbered last night .

The Yuba College 49ers, that is, by coach Dick Read's undefeated College of Marin Tars at Kentfield. The 28-6 victory, gave the Mariners their fifth straight win this season and their seventh straight, with last year's carryovers. Marin is now 2-0 in the Golden Valley Conference.

The Tars cranked off their TDs to the count of one in the first period, two in the second period and a final in the third. Yuba scored after a series of pass plays in the second quarter.

Marin quarterback Curtis Embry, halfback Ray Edwards and fullback Scott Moriarty were the Tars' point making trio in the contest. Marin used Moriarty to throw a hard right TD hook to Yuba following a 90-yard assault after the opening kickoff.

Marin's defense didn't fool around last night. Jim Londsford, 190-pound back, was knocking off Yuba ball carriers as if they were rubber highway markers. The six-foot veteran made a spectacular interception at the Marin goal line in the fourth period. Other standouts on defense were back Cusimano, and lineman Bob Ruzick, Don Ippolito, and Frank Gallardo.

QUICK START

Moriarty got the point makers' club off to a start after Marin's 90-yard march in that first quarter. Big Scott went over his own left guard spot on a third-down-and-goal situation with six minutes left in the period. This first tally and the next one early in the second period were set up by Embry-Jim Lucas pass plays. The Marin quarterback hit end Lucas with a 25-yard aerial to place the ball in striking position at the Yuba 24 in the first period and in the second quarter a 45-yard pass to Lucas put the leather on the Yuba eight yard line. From there on the subsequent play, Embry ripped around his own right end to give Marin a 12-0 advantage. The PAT attempts were failures on both touchdowns.

Yuba's only digits came late in the second quarter after 49er quarterback Dick Hoffman let fly a long one to back Jim Clegg for 38 yards from the Yuba 15; on the next play flipped a 19 yarder to hard playing fullback Del Thornsberry, and on the next down at the Marin 25 yard line handed off to Yuba's Archie Noreiga. The 152-pound driver went in for the score over his own left guard. A PAT pass from back Manuel Luna to end Cliff Hanks gave the 49ers their next two points.

Three plays after the Yuba kickoff, Marin's Embry hit Ron Cole with a screen pass, and thanks to a key block by guard Don Burrows, rumbled on to the Yuba 48. From that mark, on a second and nine situation, Embry excellently and with precise timing dropped a short pass over Yuba defenders and into the hands of Ray Edwards, who was at the sidelines and about eight yards out. Edwards, a springtime thinclad outclassed six 49ers along the sidelines. He scored standing up.

The Tars finally succeeded in a PAT attempt with an Embry-Lucas pass combination.

INTERCEPTION

With the score 20-8 for Marin at the outset of the second half, Marin's veteran end, Bill Buffalow let the air out of any hopes Yuba's coach may have built during the intermission. Buffalow picked off a pass by 49er field boss Hoffman at the Yuba 26. On the next play, Marin's Embry fired a long jump pass on a right end option to end Randy Petrini. Petrini made an equally skillful catch as he was brought down hard at the Yuba two yard line. Marin's mauler Moriarty halftracked around his own right end for the game's last TD. Moriarty, still hungry, picked up the maximum PAT points on a rumble around the opposite end.

Cadets Passes Defeat Deaf Gridders, 14-0

The sharp-shooting pass combination of quarterback Lonnie Matthews to wingback Roger Ulrich struck twice for touchdowns yesterday as the San Rafael Military Academy Cadets blanked the California School for Deaf, 14-0, at Berkeley.

Matthews hit Ulrich for five yards in the second quarter and did an encore for 14 yards in the third period. Gary Smith kicked conversions after both scores.

The win lifted SRMA into a second place tie with Lick-Wilmerding and CSD in the Bay Counties Athletic League, each with a 2-1 record. St. Vincent's of Petaluma is on top with a 2-0 mark.

Matthews hit 10 for 19 passes yesterday for 103 yards, bringing his season total to 35 for 69 for 590 yards and four touchdowns.

Crucial Contest Slated Tomorrow In Warner Grid

The first place Terra Linda Junior Trojans will battle second place Novato in the top Marin Pop Warner football game tomorrow when the two teams meet at 2 p.m. on the Novato High School field.

In other Pop Warner contests tomorrow, the Mill Valley Junior Indians will clash with the San Anselmo Junior Pirates at 10:30 a.m. on the Strawberry Recreation Feld and the San Rafael Junior Bulldogs take on the Redwood Junior Giants at 2 p.m. at College of Marin stadium.

After the league ends, the Marin All-Star game will feature the stars from Terra Linda, Novato and San Rafael against the stars from San Anselmo, Redwood and Mill Valley in a contest Nov. 17 at College of Marin stadium.

Ralph E. Peters Jr. of the Marin Boys Club announced, in addition, the winner of the Marin league has been invited to play in the San Diego Pop Warner Football Bowl in December.

San Rafael Frosh Gridders Win 13-6

The San Rafael frosh footballers whipped the frosh gridders of Redwood High School Thursday, 13-6. Scoring touchdowns for San Rafael were Rocky Shone and Tom Gagan. Vance Salhea scored the lone Redwood TD. The victory gave San Rafael a 2-1 record.

Builders Battle Alameda 'Sports'

The Billings-Hutchison Builders will battle the Alameda Sports Goods team tomorrow at 1 p.m. in Alameda's Washington Park.

The Builders hold a 2-2 record in the rough Alameda Winter League. The starting lineup for the Builders will be:

Laver, Emerson Top Prospects For Cup

BRISBANE (AP) —Rod Laver and Roy Emerson became the top prospects for the Australian Davis Cup challenge round doubles when they beat Wimbledon champions Fred Stolle and Bob Hewitt 6-3, 6-1, 6-2 in the final of the Queensland doubles tennis championships today.

Three major state titles are still to be contested and the winning pair of these doubles is expected to represent Australia in the challenge round here Dec. 26-28.

PREP SCORES 68 POINTS IN ONE GAME

BARDSTOWN, Ky. (AP)—Herbie Phelps of Old Kentucky Home High School became the highest scorer in state prep football history with a 68-point single game performance last night.

He streaked for 10 touchdowns and scored eight extra points as his team beat Aquinas Prep of Louisville 75-6. His scoring runs included jaunts of 79, 60 and 55 yards. He carried the ball 20 times and gained 392 yards.

Cocky 'Hurricane' Meets Fernandez In TVer Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — Rubin "Hurricane" Carter, a cocky newcomer from Paterson, N.J., feels the middleweight division's top 10 needs some new blood. He is firmly convinced he can make the rankings by spilling some from Florentino Fernandez' nose tonight.

The two clash in a television (ABC-TV, 7 p.m., PDT) 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden.

Although he is unranked and a pro only 13 months, the mustachioed Carter is rated only a slim, 6-5 underdog to the experienced, fifth ranking, displaced Cuban.

The reason for the narrow odds are Carter's powerful left hook and the battering Florentino's nose has absorbed in the past 10 months.

Carter, 25, has a 12-2 record, including 10 knockouts. When he connects with his left hook it usually means goodnight for his opponents.

Fernandez, noted for the power in his own left hook, has a 31-5 record, including 25 knockouts. This year he has nosed into plenty of trouble.

Detroit Tigers Whip Tokyo '9'

TOKYO (AP) — The Detroit Tigers opened a 17-game baseball barnstorming tour of Japan today by shellacking the Daimai Orions from Tokyo 12-1. Jim Bunning held the Japanese to four hits.

A crowd of 25,000 in the new Tokyo Stadium watched the American Leaguers break out with an eight-run first inning.

The Orions, fourth place finishers in Japan's Pacific League, were just no match for the Tigers, who finished fourth in the AL in 1962.

49ers Battle Rams

By JACK STEVENSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Los Angeles Rams, facing the prospect of their worst season in the National Football League, invade San Francisco tomorrow to battle the 49ers at Kezar Stadium.

Odds favor the home club by two touchdowns yet 49er coach Red Hickey gives the impression of a worried man.

"You can throw out the odds and you can throw out past performances when these two teams meet," says Hickey. "This is a rivalry you can be sure will bring out the best in both teams."

The Rams have hit a low mark with six straight league losses. Reports have the job of Coach Bob Waterfield in jeopardy—some even going so far as to say he's out if the Rams don't win this one.

When the clubs met in their pre-season battle, the 49ers won 19-3 and are 3-3 in league play.

Los Angeles hasn't scored a touchdown in Kezar since 1958 and physically the 49ers appear in better shape.

A crowd of 50,000 is expected at the 1:30 p.m. kickoff.

Hickey made no changes in his starting lineup except to send Bobby Gaiters, the former New York Giant, into the left halfback position replacing injured Billy Kilmer. Billy may play but his status is doubtful.

Rodriguez Claims He Is Avoided

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Luis Rodriguez, top-ranked by the World Boxing Assn. as a welterweight contender, claimed today that champion Emile Griffith is avoiding him in signing for a Dec. 8 bout with fourth-ranked Jorge Fernandez.

Rodriguez wrote to Fred Aaronson of the Miami Beach Boxing Commission, a WBA member:

"I believe this match is a gross injustice to me, as I have been the top-rated contender for many months.

"I hope that you and your commission can get the winner of this fight to post a bond or cash forfeit so that he will have to fight me in 60 days."

Seals Stampede Calgary Skaters

EDMONTON, Alta. (AP) — San Francisco's rebounding Seals can move into undisputed possession of first place in the Western Hockey League's Southern Division with a win over Edmonton tonight.

The Seals ran roughshod over Calgary's Stampeders last night, 6-1, bringing their record to 4-5 and 8 points to tie the idle Los Angeles Blades, who also do not play today.

Giants Tell Stockholders Good News

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (UPI)—The parent firm of the San Francisco Giants has reported to its annual stockholders meeting that the National League champs struck it rich at the box office as well as on the baseball diamond.

Horace Stoneham, president of the National Exhibition Co., said that the season was the most financially successful since the company was organized to operate the Giants in 1891.

The stockholders meeting was held in the law offices of O'Mara, Schuman, David and Lynch here. About 20 persons were present. Stoneham, president of the parent firm since 1936, was unanimously re-elected.

GG DAILY DOUBLE PAYS $3,299

ALBANY (AP) — Jesse's Invader ($4.40) took the feature race at Golden Gate Fields yesterday after Genial Ruler ($75.40) and Knit One ($69.60) had scored in the first two races for a whopping $3,299.60 daily double payoff.

Lakers Open Home Season Tonight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers, who have won only one of their first five games in the National Basketball Assn. race, open their home season tonight in the Sports Arena against the Detroit Pistons. Detroit is winless.

"I have an idea we'll snap out of our slump in these four games we have at home," said Laker Coach Fred Schaus. "In our first three defeats we played well and a key basket here or there would have turned against Chicago, but we had been on the road 18 days, and it should do the team good to be home for a while."

Terra Linda Student Wins Hole-In-One

Craig Lentzinger, a student at Terra Linda High School, won first place in the Terra Linda Hole-In-One contest held last weekend, it was announced today.

Lentzinger got his ball seven inches from the hole which was 75 yards from the tee to win first prize of a $100 savings bond, top prize of 17 awards. Proceeds of the contest were to go to the bleachers fund at Terra Linda High School.

S.F. State Wins

DAVIS (AP) — Halfback Tom Manny ran 83 yards to a touchdown last night, giving the San Francisco State Gators their first Far Western Conference football victory this season, a 12-7 squeaker over previously undefeated University of California at Davis.

Tam Whips S.R. Bulldogs 21-0; Third Straight Victory

By RALPH CHATOIAN

The Tamalpais Indians are settling down to a pattern of scoring three touchdowns per game and not allowing any from the opposition.

They did it again last night as the warriors came out of their tepees long enough to invade the lair of the San Rafael Bulldogs and literally run off with a 21-0 victory.

It was the third victory without a defeat for Tam in the Marin Athletic League and kept alive their streak of shut out games. The Indians opened the season with a 19-0 victory over Marin Catholic and won their second game by whipping Terra Linda 20-0. In all three games, it has been a story of three touchdowns to zero.

And in all three games it has been a story of running and more running with the attack led by powerful Warren Domino.

Domino, the league's leading ground gainer, picked up 114 more yards last night to run his total to 311. He picked up his 114 yards in only eight carries for a fabulous 14.3 average.

The powerful Tam offense picked up a total of 291 yards rushing and passed only once but made it good for 34 yards.

And the rough Indian defense allowed only 28 yards from San Rafael's top back Mike Shafer, although the workhorse carried the leather 17 times.

Tam's first touchdown came early in the opening period on a drive made possible by a San Rafael fumble. On the second play of the game from scrimmage, San Rafael's John O'Donnell fumbled after picking up 10 yards making it to his own 45-yard line. Tam recovered and promptly ran seven plays in a 45-yard march which was hampered by a 15-yard penalty.

It was quarterback Cedric Collett who drove in the end zone from the one-yard line on a quarterback sneak. Domino added the extra point on a line smash.

Then in the second quarter the fighting Bulldogs started a drive going after picking up a Tam fumble on the San Rafael 35. San Rafael stuck to the ground and gained three first downs in a march which took the gridders to the Tam 18.

Then San Rafael quarterback Tom Zunino made the mistake of going to the air and the drive sputtered and died on the 18 after three straight incomplete passes.

After intermission, Tam came back to score a pair of touchdowns, one in the third quarter and another in the final stanza.

The third period score was a play which the Tam coaching staff would like to patent. It happened this way:

Domino started crashing through left guard from his own eight-yard line when the ball squirted out of his arms and started rolling towards the end zone where guard Donn Johnson scooped it up and fell across the goal for six points. It was only right to have halfback Don Johnston (sounds alike) run the extra point, giving Tam a 14-0 advantage.

Later that quarter San Rafael threatened by driving 56 yards in 13 plays to the Tam 10-yard line. But a four-yard loss by Zunino, a five-yard illegal procedure penalty and another nine-yard loss by the quarterback as he tried to move back for a pass pushed the ball back to the Tam 28 where the Indians took over.

The last Tam six-pointer was on a burst over left end by Domino from the three. He scored standing up as he shook off two tacklers. Domino added his eighth individual point as he ran in the extra point.

Drake, Marin Vie Tonight

Marin Catholic Wildcats hope to make their homecoming game a successful one tonight when they take on the Pirates of Drake High at 8 o'clock in College of Marin stadium.

The Marin Catholic line will be bolstered with the return of Hank Ryan from the disabled list, who will take over his starting spot at center. Another shift in the Wildcat line will see Chuck Clay start at left guard, replacing Joe Crotty, who will be used exclusively on defense.

Head Coach Doug Damaschino of Marin made some other shifts in his defense in an attempt to bolster his over-all attack. He said he will try to platoon more tonight than in the past. He also worked on strengthening his pass defense which has been too vulnerable.

In the offensive department, Damaschino and his staff went back to fundamentals in hopes of shaking up his offense. "We definitely will score against Drake," Damaschino declared. "Our offense has improved."

BOVARD HURT

Head grid mentor Bob Franceschini at Drake had only one change in his starting offensive alignment. Roger Bovard, one of the roughest tackles in the league, will not be able to play because of a shoulder injury suffered on the opening kickoff of last Friday's game against Redwood. Replacing Bovard will be 260-pound John Wallace.

The Drake gridders have been working on their running game to augment their passing attack which has produced 149 yards in their first three games.

Franceschini said he will use Mike Kemp at the running halfback position more this game because of his running ability. Kemp has been seeing duty at the quarterback spot, replacing good-throwing Hamish Tyler, who has passed for 119 yards. Kemp will be a threat on option plays.

RUNNING GAME

Drake's running game is paced by halfback Tom Tanzi who has picked up 169 yards and fullback Tom Kolbe who has rushed for 106 yards.

The starting offensive lineup for Marin Catholic:

The starting offensive lineup for Drake:

Rookie's Clutch Foul Shots Pace Warriors In Overtime

CHICAGO (AP)—The San Francisco Warriors move into Chicago tonight, hoping to retain their undefeated record and the lead in the National Basketball Association's Western Division.

Clutch free-throwing by rookie forward Wayne Hightower in overtime cinched a 132-131 Warrior win last night over the Detroit Pistons.

San Francisco now is 2-0, while St. Louis is second in the division at 3-1 and Chicago follows at 2-3.

The Warriors blew a 17-point lead before pulling it out in their second San Francisco appearance since coming west from Philadelphia.

The score was tied eight times before the Pistons' Willie Jones sent it into overtime at 121-all with a jumper 10 seconds before the end of regulation play.

But with seven seconds remaining in overtime, and the Warriors ahead by a single point, Hightower was fouled. He sank both free throws, making it 132-129 San Francisco. Jones sank a last second basket.

Tomales Wins Grid Game 7-6

The Tomales High gridders last night defeated Kelseyville 7-6 in a North Bay League division 2 contest at Lower Lake. The victory gave Tomales a 1-2 record.

Tomales scored its touchdown in the first quarter on a run by Bob Franceschi. Don Russell picked up the extra point. Kelseyville scored its TD in the third quarter and missed in their PAT attempt.

Pair Tie In Orange Open

COSTA MESA, Calif. (AP)—He shattered the course record with a 63 the first day, but Bob Rosburg of Portland, Ore., had to share first place in the $22,500 Orange County Open Golf Championship at the start of the third round today.

Tied with him at the half way point with 133 was George Bayer of Miami, Fla. Bayer came up with a 66 yesterday. He had a 67 in Thursday's first round. Rosburg slipped seven strokes over his first round for 1-under-par 70 over the Mesa Verde Country Club course.

Tony Lema of San Leandro was only a stroke back in third place. Tony's putter started working and he finished the second round with a 66 and a 36-hole total of 134.

S.A. Merchant Action

S.R., Novato Game Slated Thanksgiving

San Rafael-Novato high school football game, postponed by the storm of Oct. 12, has been rescheduled for Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 22, it was announced today by Angelo Colombo, athletic director of San Rafael.

The game will start at 10 a.m. at San Rafael's gridiron, Colombo explained, so that players and spectators will have all afternoon to spend with their families for Thanksgiving dinner.

The junior varsity game has been rescheduled for Wednesday, Nov. 21, at 4 p.m. at San Rafael, Colombo added.

The Novato-San Rafael game will give the Marin Athletic League two games on Thanksgiving Day. The Redwood-Tamalpais contest, also rained out from the storm Oct. 12-13 weekend, will be made up Thanksgiving at Kentfield starting at 11 a.m.

Hearron Stars At Greenbrae

Tom Hearron, of the Greenbrae 900 Classic League, shot a masterful 268 game, giving him high-game honors for the week at Greenbrae Lanes. His 643 series, which included games of 194 and 181, brought him a second place in series play.

Topping Hearron was Sanford Anixter of the Monday Men's Handicap League who bowled a beautiful 654 series with individual games of 246-188 and 220.

Proving the bowling ability for the fairer sex, Lillian Scotto rolled a remarkable 257 game. Her series total of 591 included games of 169 and 165.

Results were:

Argentine Welter To Get Title Shot

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Argentina's Jorge Fernandez has signed for a 15-round title bout against welterweight champion Emile Griffith in Las Vegas, Dec. 8.

Griffith, of New York City, has met and defeated Fernandez twice, by decisions, but the Argentine earned a title rematch, the Silver State Sports Club announced, by beating Charley Scott here Sept. 29.

PRO GRID ROUNDUP

A Tough Test For Amazing Redskins

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

This is the Sunday when the undefeated Washington Redskins find out just how good they really are.

The amazin' 'Skins, whose record of four victories and two ties is the surprise of the National Football League, take on the New York Giants at Yankee Stadium. And the Redskins are 7-point underdogs.

Tomorrow's schedule also inincludes two games involving four of the top teams in the N.F.L.'s Western Division. The champion Hornung-less Green Bay Packers, with six straight victories, are the choice by 13 points over the Colts at Baltimore and the Detroit Lions are favored by 7 points at home over the Chicago bears.

In other Sunday games: The Dallas Cowboys are picked by 7 points at home over the St. Louis Cardinals; the Cleveland Browns are the choice by 4 over the Steelers at Pittsburgh; the San Francisco 49ers are favored by 13½ over the winless Rams at Los Angeles, and the Minnesota Vikings and Philadelphia Eagles are rated even at Minneapolis-St. Paul.

The Redskins (4-0-2) cannot drop out of first place in the Eastern Division whether they win, lost or tie the game against the second place Giants (4-2). Ties are not counted in computing the won-lost percentages in N.F.L. standings.

TOUGHEST TEST

This game, however, will be the toughest test of the season for the Redskins. The only "upper crust" team they have beaten thus far is Cleveland.

Yankee Stadium holds a painful memory for the 'Skins and their fine young second-year quarterback, Norm Snead. In last year's game, Snead was thrown for two safeties as the Giants scored a 53-0 rout.

This is a far different Redskin team than its predecessors which won only one game in each of the 1960 and 1961 seasons. For one thing, Giant Coach Al Sherman emphasizes, Snead absorbed "three seasons of experience" during the trials of his rookie year.

The acquisition of Bobby Mitchell has made Washington a powerful air threat. And other players obtained in trades —like Billy Barnes, Bob Pellegrini, Bobby Freeman and John Nisby—have instilled a winning spirit.

"This is no Cinderella team," says Sherman. "We are preparing for them as we would the Packers."

With the return of pass-catcher Del Shofner to full-time duty with the Giants, both teams are in good shape.

The Lions and the Bears, both with 4-2 records, meet in a game to determine which will go on and challenge the Packers for first place in the west.

Coach George Wilson of the Lions gave his team a tongue-lashing following last Sunday's defeat by the Giants.

"Some of our players were coasting," Wilson charged. "There was a general breakdown in our blocking. This can't continue. If they don't like it, they can leave."

Flanker Terry Barr should be ready to rejoin Detroit but linebacker Joe Schmidt may have to sit out Sunday's game because of bruised ribs. The Bears also have a doubtful starter in defensive end Maury Youmans.

Green Bay was established a surprisingly big favorite over the Colts (3-3) despite the fact that Paul Hornung may be unable to play again because of a sprained knee. Tom Moore filled in more-than-adequately last Sunday. The Colts, spotty this season, now have Lenny Moore back for full-time duty.

Dallas, with a respectable 3-2-1 record, goes into the Cards game as favorite for the first time since its 1961 season-opener against the Vikings.

We Hope Reds Understand We'll Stand Up To Our Line

Today closes an historic week in American history.

As we sit here now, it is still undetermined whether the strong stand taken by our country and our President has kept us from war or brought us closer to it.

For a few hours we felt pangs of concern, fear almost. The President's statement was so blunt and final-sounding; jokes about "dusting off the old khaki" had a hollow ring.

In the days since, we have personally relaxed, looked with approval, pleasure almost, as Russian ships turned back or, upon going ahead, submitted unprotesting to our search before being allowed to continue to Cuba.

Most Americans, it seems to us, approve our President's action. That we are behind him, there is no doubt.

Yet right now is a danger time for us. We must realize that the situation is not settled, everything is not all right again.

The blockade, even though it is 100 per cent successful, did not and can not solve the problem of Cuba and Fidel Castro. The Communist missile launching pads are still in place, their "birds" standing ready to take off in flight.

We can be sure that the Soviet Union will not accept such an affront by the United States in plain view of the world. How and when she will retaliate, no American can guess with any assurance. But we can be certain the Kremlin will answer.

The unanimity of the Western world and particularly the Western Hemisphere in support of our stand is encouraging. But we must remember that this is the support of governments. It doesn't indicate that the problems of the people of South or Central America have been solved. It is a drawing together closer in time of danger.

The United States has finally drawn a clear line, similar to one we have drawn in Berlin. There is satisfaction in such a line because it has substance; we know what we are for and what we are against. Gone is the uncertainty of shifting policies and wavering goals.

But a line also has dangers and responsibilities. We appreciate this and are willing to stand up to them both. We hope the Russians understand our determination.

MARIN LOOKS AT POLITICS

By CHAPIN A. DAY

'CHIP' DAY

All is not political peace and contentment on the campus of the College of Marin. Youthful Democrats and Republicans have traded insults by adapting literary excellence to their own purposes. Last week the College Young Republicans issued a mimeographed sheet paraphrasing the 23rd Psalm, entitled "The Brown-Kennedy Frontier Credo." It said:

The state is my shepherd, I need not work,
It alloweth me to lie down on good jobs;
It leadeth me beside still factories,
It destroyeth mine initiative;
It taketh me in the paths of a parasite for politics' sake.
Yea, though I walk through the valley of laziness and deficit spending,
I will fear no evil, for the government is with me.
It prepareth an economic Utopia for me out of the earnings of my grandchildren.
It filleth my head with security,
My inefficiency runneth over.
Surely the state shall care for me all the days of my life,
And I shall dwell in a fool's paradise forever."

WEDNESDAY at the speaker's hour on the campus lawn, Russ Michelsen of Greenbrae, 21, read an effort paraphrasing Lincoln's Gettysburg Address. It said:

"Four score and a hundred monopolies ago, Rockefellers brought forth on this nation a new system, founded in inequality and dedicated to the proposition that power justifies all action.

"They are now engaged in a great propaganda battle, in order to sustain the oligarchical rule which they have thus far so successfully advanced.

"We are now here to dedicate a small portion of this battlefield to the Common Man. That this nation was founded on life, liberty and the pursuits of happiness for all its people is a concept given only lip service by these special interests.

"However, a fact that this oligarchical dynasty so blindly overlooks is one of the basic principles upon which this nation rests; this is to promote the general welfare of all its people and not to protect the dynastic order of the industrial tycoons—that we here highly resolve that these travesties on the public welfare shall not be sustained and that government of the plutocrats, by the plutocrats and for the plutocrats shall soon perish from this earth."

THAT U. S. SENATOR Thomas Kuchel is back in California again after his emergency call to Washington in the Cuban crisis and as of this minute, his visit to Marin Monday morning is still on.

But he is on 8-hour call of the President.

He has cancelled breakfast with the Republican Alliance at 7:30 a.m., but will attend a 9 a.m. coffee break at The Woodlands in Kentfield; at San Rafael Courthouse at 10:15 and at Mill Valley Tennis Club reception at 11 a.m. sponsored by the People For Kuchel group. You're welcome to meet and greet him.

MAX RAFFERTY will be in Marin Sunday to greet a group of voters aboard a boat.

The Barbary Coast, cruise boat of Cruise With Lewis Tours, will be the locale for a meeting which Rafferty will address between 1 and 2:30 p.m., according to Veda Lewis. The Barbary Coast is moored at the Lewis dock near The Spinnaker in Sausalito.

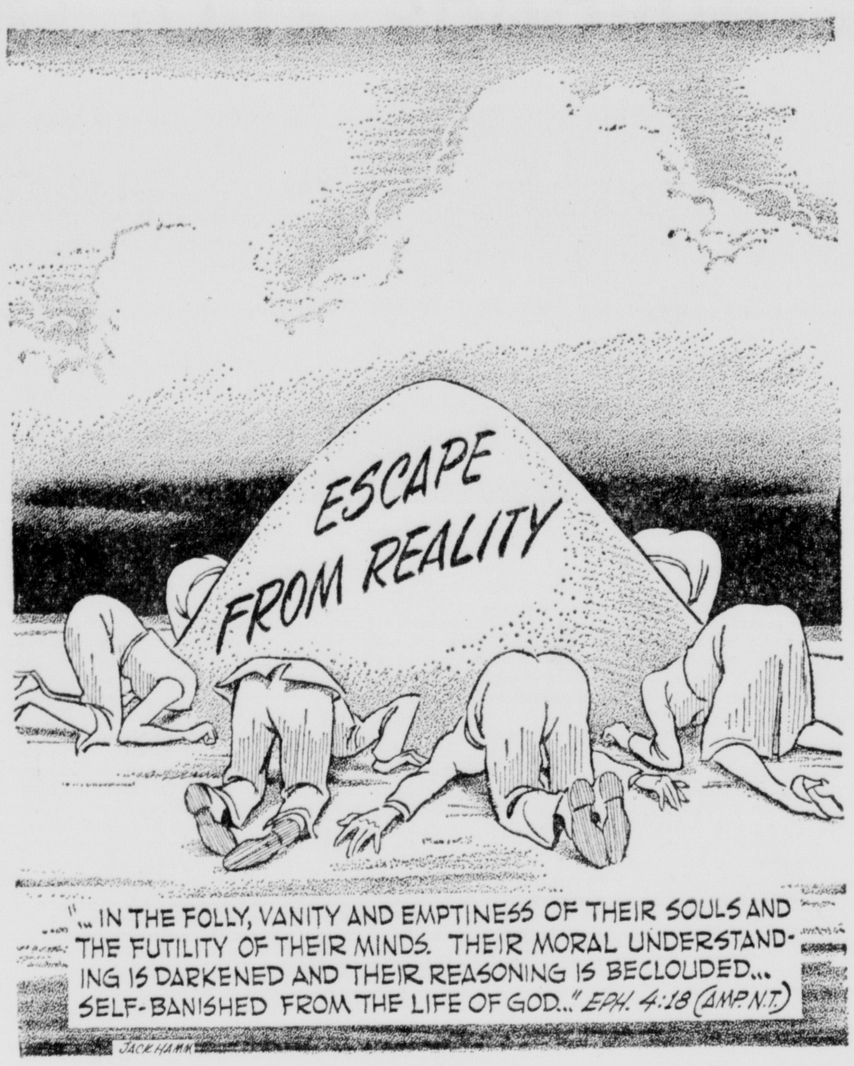
NO TIME FOR SUCH A TREND



THREE MINUTES A DAY

LAD YEARNS FOR OLD AGE

To live to a really ripe old age—of 2,296 years—is the unique ambition of an 8-year-old New Orleans schoolboy.

In a classroom composition, he wrote that if he succeeded, he "would be the world's oldest man."

Then he added: "I would spend all my life sitting in a chair smoking a pipe, reading, eating and that kind of stuff."

The emphasis on leisure time in modern life sometimes misleads adults as well as children.

While a secure old age is something to be desired, more stress should be put on what each of us can do now to do good rather than take it easy.

Look at the fleeting years, months and days of life as a prelude to an eternity with God and you will find opportunities around you that you never saw before.

Doing hard work will produce dividends not only here, but also in the hereafter.

"A thousand years in Your sight are as yesterday, now that it is past, or as a watch of the night." (Psalm 89:4)

Make me more concerned, O Lord, with how well I spend my earthly pilgrimage than with how long it may be.

She's Enraged, Not Engaged

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

I'm not enraged, but I'm annoyed and irritated that you should have made an error in printing my letter and changed the word "enraged" to "engaged." These words are certainly not interchangeable! I don't think my manuscript is that illegible.

The sentence should be: "I have been enraged and shocked by the merciless intrusion on the part of reporters and photographers . . ."

I would appreciate your making a note of this correction.

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

I'm sorry to see your "bold type" stand on Prop. 22 in Tuesday evening's paper. I can't help but wonder what opportunities you've taken to become acquainted with the opposition.

The osteopathic profession has been serving the people of California for 65 years—and—serving them well. Approximately 50 per cent of these men were graduates of osteopathic colleges outside the State of California, yet, the proponents of Prop. 22 claim that by denying any and all licensing of new DOs in California, California will have medicine entirely under their control so the present DOs gradually die out.

This legislation is not only wrong, but it is unnecessary. This issue is morally wrong aside from what it will do to the thousands of people relying on the osteopathic profession.

Who are we to deny the practice opportunities to anyone wishing to move to our wonderful state?

There is much more to be said on this subject but I appreciate the time you've given in reading this. Please read the enclosures for concise remarks covering other points.

I'd better add that I'm not an "out-of-stater," I'm a graduate of California schools (and of course a resident) since grammar school. I am a resident of California for 37 years. I am 43 years of age and a resident of Marin County since 1945.

Community Unit Should Be Used

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

I guess I've been laboring under a false impression—but I always thought the reason the people put up a community center was to promote community, recreational, and cultural activities for the community's benefit.

Instead, I hear of a bridge club that wanted to use their facilities and were quoted such an outrageous price they had to withdraw. Then a Terra Linda Little Theater Group is putting on a play and trying to get a start, and again the cost is prohibitive. I hear there's even a $25 additional cost to use the little kitchen one night. Now little theater groups never do make any money as they're lucky to break even.

If this community building is to be a money making proposition fine, let's incorporate it and issue stock so we all can get a chance to make some money on it.

I'd like to hear from the board that runs this. Surely there must be some reason for this.

My neck is out, but my dander is up, so fire away.

Edith Head, famous Hollywood dress designer, bemoans the fact that the glamour girls on the screen in 1962 don't seem to care much about style. "In the good old days," recalls Miss Head, "our big stars had enough sense to have a trademark. Jean Harlow and her white satin dresses. Dietrich and her tailored slacks. Garbo and her slouch hats and trench coats. Colbert and her Peter Pan collars. Crawford and her tailored suits. Nowadays? Bah! They all buy the same dress and wear it at the same party and no one even gets angry!"

Howard Lindsay tells of a chum who saw a cat in the topmost branches of a tree, and climbed aloft to rescue the poor thing. It turned out to be a wildcat. Recalled the rescuer later, "I never got so tired of one cat in all my life."

Nothing New In Civil Defense Preparations, Just Same As Before

When the American and Russian ships were reported "on collision course," we hurriedly picked up all the Civil Defense literature to get the latest on where to hide and how far to dig.

But the survival procedures appear to be about the same as the ones that were circulated a year or two ago. Any shelter, even a car, is better than none. The most central room, preferably in a basement with concrete walls, with the least windows, is the safest in a home.

Large buildings give good protection. Plan to be on the lowest floor, in the center of the building.

If you want to go further, you can stock up an emergency supply of food and water, first aid kit, flashlight, portable radio, matches, old newspapers, garbage can, etc.

And here's an interesting item. It's a good idea to have water in closed containers because once water becomes contaminated, you can't sterilize it by boiling. Boiling will kill germs but not radioactivity.

NOW FOR some brighter news. From next week, it won't be quite so dark when you get up to go to work. Daylight savings ends tomorrow and you set your clocks back one hour.

As one fellow put it: "You get up an hour lighter and come home from work an hour darker."

IS THERE ANY truth to the rumor that New York Yankees first baseman Bill Skowron is thinking of going into a restaurant partnership in Marin?

A WOMAN with her pet dog walked into the Herzog-Rake Building to visit the D.A.'s investigator Bill Bemiss. She pushed the elevator button and busied herself with the contents of her purse while she waited.

In the meantime, the door opened, her dog walked in. Before she realized what had happened, the door closed on her dog. A gentleman on the fourth floor pushed the button. Up went the elevator and the dog. Imagine the man's surprise when the elevator opened, and out marched a lone dog.

Shaking his head, the man rode to the first floor, where an excited woman asked: "Did you see a dog up there somewhere?"

"Yeah," he replied. "Pretty smart dog, isn't he!"

LOOKS AS if Nick Giampoli is pretty serious about running for police chief in San Rafael next year.

They tell me he's thinking of asking for a leave of absence.

DON AND HELEN Hasha of 621 Davidson, Novato, take their Christmas vacation seriously. They've "adopted" an Aztec family of eight in Mexico, for whom they will play Santa Claus for the fourth straight year.

If you have any durable clothing for children ranging in age from 1 to 17, the Hashas will be glad to get them. They'll leave for Mexico Dec. 7.

THIS CAMPAIGN against slow driving in the fast lane can go too far.

Attorney Fred Robbins got a client the other day who was charged with going too slow in the fast lane. The ticket showed he was going "60-plus" on Hwy. 101 south of Novato.

Robbins convinced the judge that even in this age of speed, going 60 miles per hour isn't driving too slowly.

It Is Not Too Late To Continue Negotiations On Way To Clear Cuba

WASHINGTON—The President's proclamation of a selective blockade has gone into effect. We are now waiting for the other shoe to drop.

There are those, for whose judgment I have profound respect, who think that it is now too late for this country to influence the decisions of the Soviet Union and that the President is now irretrievably committed to a course which can end only with a total blockade or an invasion of Cuba.

They may be right. But I have lived through two world wars, and in both of them, once we were engaged, we made the same tragic mistake. We suspended diplomacy when the guns began to shoot.

IN BOTH WARS as the result, we achieved a great victory but we could not make peace. There is a mood in this country today which could easily cause us to make the same mistake again. We must in honor attempt to avoid it.

I see danger of this mistake in the fact that when the President saw Gromyko last week and had the evidence of the missile build-up in Cuba, he refrained from confronting Gromyko with this evidence. This was to suspend diplomacy.

If it had not been suspended, the President would have shown Gromyko the pictures, and told him privately about the policy which in a few days he intended to announce publicly. This would have made it more likely that Moscow would order the ships not to push on to Cuba.

BUT IF SUCH diplomatic action did not change the orders, if Khrushchev persisted in spite of it, the President's public speech would have been stronger. It would not have been subject to the criticism that a great power had issued an ultimatum to another great power without first attempting to negotiate the issue. By confronting Gromyko privately, the President would have given Khrushchev what all wise statesmen give their adversaries—the chance to save face.

We have, we must note, made two separate demands. One is that no more "offensive weapons" shall be brought into Cuba. On this demand, we shall soon have a showdown. Considering the unanimity of the other American states, considering the strategic weakness of the Soviet Union in this hemisphere, there is reason to hope that the quarantine of Cuba will work, though we must expect retaliation elsewhere.

BUT THE PRESIDENT has laid down a second demand, which is that the missile installations already in Cuba be dismantled and removed. How this is to be done is a great question, even supposing that there is no shooting conflict at sea. And it is here, I believe, that diplomacy must not abdicate.

There are three ways to get rid of the missiles already in Cuba. One is to invade and occupy Cuba. The second way is to institute a total blockade, particularly of oil shipments, which would in a few months ruin the Cuban economy. The third way is to try, I repeat to try, to negotiate a face-saving agreement.

3 Congress Elections To Test New Frontier, 'Birchism'

By BOB BARNES

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Three bitter races for Congress in one of the nation's largest metropolitan centers promise an intriguing test of current political leanings.

Seldom are voters' choices so sharp as in California's newly revamped 25th, 27th and 29th Congressional districts:

Republican or Democrats? Outspoken conservative or outspoken liberal? More government in Washington or less?

These issues, clearly defined by the six candidates will provide tests of both the New Frontier and of the John Birch Society, controversial anti-Communist organization.

The contests match three stoutly conservative Republicans — members and defenders of the Birch Society and sharply critical of the Kennedy administration —against Democrats who support the New Frontier and attack what they call Birchism.

At stake are two Republican seats in the U.S. House of Representatives. The third seat is in a new district.

Both sides predict victory. The overwhelmingly Democratic California Legislature drew the districts with Democratic voter registration margins of 60 per cent and up.

But more is involved than party lines. Analyses of returns from these sprawling districts north and east of Los Angeles will be studied to see if they can provide answers to such questions as:

How many Republicans believe the Birch Society is extremist, as its critics charge, and prefer the New Frontier to Birch philosophy?

How many Democrats find Kennedy doctrines too far left, causing them to vote Republican?

Taking the races one by one:

25th District—Once represented in Congress by Richard M. Nixon, the district was redrawn recently with 153,000 registered voters—98,000 Democrats, 55,000 Republicans. It is in the San Gabriel Valley east of Los Angeles. Republican incumbent John H. Rousselot of Baldwin Park seeks a second term. His opponent is two-term Democratic Assemblyman Ronald Brooks Cameron of Whittier.

Rousselot, 34, says the overriding issue is "survival of our constitutional republic and our capitalistic-free enterprise system as we have known it . . . I do not think my opponent is a true liberal. A liberal fights for maximum individual freedom, but he leans toward the collectivist approach—massive government, bureaucracy and federal control."

Cameron, 35, an accountant, says Rousselot's Birch membership is a major issue, adds: "The man's not competent to be a Congressman . . . There are very few things on which I differ with the New Frontier stand on such things as education, medicare and the total foreign picture as it affects public morality."

27th District—A smaller district north of downtown Los Angeles in the San Fernando and Antelope Valleys that Republican incumbent Edgar W. Hiestand of Burbank has represented for five terms. The 173,000 registered voters include 104,000 Democrats, 65,000 Republicans, 4,000 unstated. Opposing Hiestand is Democratic Los Angeles City Councilman Everett G. Burkhalter of North Hollywood.

Hiestand, 73, says conservatives are "under vicious attack by the leftists and the so-called liberal extremists . . . unless the people show they want the present unbelievably harmful and dangerous policies abandoned. These policies will be continued and the consequences are certain to be disastrous."

Burkhalter, 65, goes down the line with the Democratic Party position and is pledged to back medical care for the aged. He contends Hiestand "wraps himself in the flag." He says the Cuban problem was developed during the Eisenhower administration and that present policies are far better than those of the Republicans.

29th District—A new, spread-out district, largely in the San Gabriel Valley, with about 90,000 Democrats and 50,000 Republicans. Republican H. L. Richardson, a Temple City advertising consultant, opposes Democratic Assemblyman George E. Brown of Monterey Park.

Richardson, 34, campaigns as a conservative, calls for a firmer stand against the Communists and elimination of what he calls "piecemeal surrender." He has followed this tack announced at the start of his campaign: "I am going to discuss the evils of Communists and their bedfellows—the Socialistic ADA'ers (Americans for Democratic Action) who are trying to play God with men's lives and the new robber barons, the bureaucrats who are robbing the average taxpayer through pressure groups, special interests and lobbyists."

Brown, 41, was a one-time conscientious objector who wound up as a second lieutenant in the Army in World War II. He pledges to support the committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy (SANE), whose endorsement he has.

"I do strongly support all efforts at disarmament but I am convinced we can only achieve political acceptability of that on the basis of universal disarmament, not unilateral, and on the basis of agreements offering the fullest protection in inspection," he says.

Denying what he says is his opponent's charge he is "ultra-liberal, soft on Communism." Brown contends his program is the only way democracy can be defended and that Richardson's would destroy democracy.

ALLIANCE PROGRAM IS MOVING SLOWLY

By BEN F. MEYER

WASHINGTON (AP) — There's one very unusual thing about the Alliance for Progress:

Everybody admits it is not doing nearly enough.

This goes for what the Latin American nations are doing—or not doing—to help speed the big program aimed at their economic and social development and it goes also for the U. S. government, which is bearing the lion's share of the cost.

Rep. Otto E. Passman, (D-La.) noted for his caustic comments about the way this country handles its foreign operations, declared recently:

"The Alliance program is not progressing as we had hoped it would."

One thing which many economists blame for Latin America's slow economic and social progress is that in many countries, the best lands and the largest tracts have been owned by a few people.

Another charge has been that Latin Americans generally, and particularly the rich, pay little or no taxes, either on lands, or on earnings from other sources.

It is not unusual that the rich, and the big land owners, either run governments in some countries, or have a powerful voice in how they are run.

Puerto Rican Teodore Moscoso, boss of the U.S. Alliance for Progress agency, says, the Alliance "has not yet had a chance." It will be two or three years hence, he said, before a hard look can be taken and a decision made whether the alliance has been, as he puts it, "successful or otherwise."

The United States promised to commit one billion dollars in the first year of the Alliance. "We fulfilled our commitment," says Moscoso.

The U.S. Alliance for Progress agency is a part of the U.S. Agency for International Development.

For many months, the U.S. Alliance agency had all the appearance of chaos. The whole AID organization was undergoing reorganization and it seemed to affect particularly the Alliance agency. Just when it seemed to be settling down to more or less normal business, a recommendation in the State Department for integration of department and Alliance officials brought moving days again for everybody.

Meanwhile, commitments did not mean that projects were getting under way. Alliance officials say that progress is being made now, but that political and other problems have delayed things in many countries.

De Gaulle Again Will Be A Target

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG

PARIS (UPI)—When the last ballot boxes are emptied and the final votes counted in France's constitutional referendum, President Charles de Gaulle will return to the lonely vigil he keeps each day under threat of sudden death.

This threat is a major reason for the nationwide voting this weekend, and one of the issues in it. De Gaulle is asking France to amend the constitution to provide for a strong successor in case the assassins who haunt him should finally hit their target. He wants the nation, and not an electoral college, to choose the successor.

With ironic generosity, the terrorists who marked de Gaulle for death because of his Algeria policies decreed a two-week "reprieve" during the referendum campaign. The unsought respite expires after this weekend.

De Gaulle has walked too long in the shadow of the killer and had too many narrow brushes with death to let it make any dent in his icy, Olympian aloofness.

At least six times in a little more than a year de Gaulle has narrowly escaped assassination by bomb or machineguns. Aides say he has no fear of death, just of the chaos into which his assassination might plunge France.

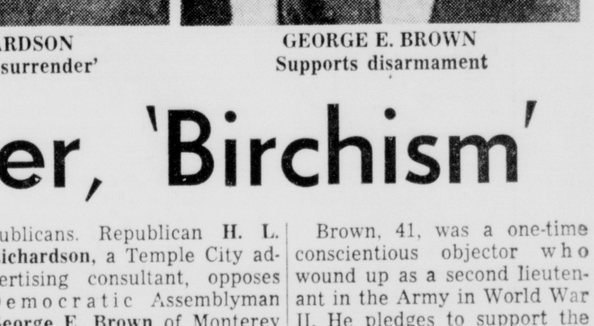
The planned methods of killing de Gaulle were both elaborate and ingenious.

One was that a sharpshooter armed with a rifle and telescopic sights should kill him from a window of a building facing the Elysee Palace as he left for the provinces.

Another plan was to run a car loaded with explosives across a grade crossing just before the arrival of de Gaulle's motorcade.

A third idea was send dogs booby-trapped with explosives into the crowds surrounding de Gaulle.

De Gaulle is convinced there will be other attempts on his life. He takes the fatalistic view that one might succeed, and that is why he is so anxious to leave France with a "strong man" president to replace him.



SOLE MASTER—A cartonist for Humanite, official organ of French Communist Party, lampooned President Charles de Gaulle during his visit to a navy base. The caption read: "The sole master on board holds the tiller alone, keeps radio messages to himself, modifies the log book as he wants—in short, runs the ship as he sees fit." (UPI photo)

Stevenson Wins Round At U.N.

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

When Adlai Stevenson made his first bid for the presidency in 1952 he captivated the nation with the brilliance of his oratory.

Often he spoke with biting sarcasm. On many occasions he turned a neat phrase. He demonstrated a keen sense of humor.

When Stevenson made a token bid to unseat President Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1956 his speeches lacked the bite of his 1952 oratory.

Stevenson

But in the hushed chambers of the United Nations Security Council this week, Stevenson made the most significant remarks of his career.

This time the target was Valerian Zorin, deputy foreign minister of the Soviet Union.

Taking off the gloves of diplomacy, Stevenson lashed into Zorin, demanding that he deny that the Soviet Union had established and equipped nuclear launching pads in Cuba, a furtive action that caused President John F. Kennedy last Monday to set up a naval blockade of Castro's bastion.

Zorin evaded the demand with the bland statement that he was not on trial in an American court. Stevenson replied tartly that Zorin was on trial in the court of world opinion. He said he would wait "until hell freezes over" for Zorin's answer.

Stockholm — John Steinbeck won the Nobel Prize for literature. He became the sixth American to win the coveted award, the other laureates having been Sinclair Lewis, Eugene O'Neill, Pearl S. Buck, William Faulkner and Ernest Hemingway.

Oxford — Some students at Ole Miss jeered James Meredith, one group which called itself the "rebel underground" said it would resist Meredith's federally forced enrollment at Ole Miss "by every effective means from now on."

New Delhi — A state of emergency was declared in India where its troops are fighting invading Communist Chinese in disputed border areas. Both sides admitted heavy losses.

Honolulu — The United States fired a nuclear device from 30 to 40 miles above the Pacific Ocean near Johnston Island.

South won the first trick with the king of diamonds and led a spade to dummy.

Then he returned a heart and wondered what to play from his hand.

FROWNING

After much frowning and chin-stroking, South finessed with the jack of hearts. By this time West knew what was going on, so he won with the ace of hearts to lead South astray.

Declarer won the diamond continuation with the ace and led another spade to dummy. He was sure East had the queen of hearts, and he wanted to finesse through it.

Unfortunately, East produced a club, and South saw that he'd been had. West was sure to get his second trump trick, and South was obliged to lead clubs from his own hand. Down one.

PROBABILITY

South had an even chance of finding the queen of hearts in the East hand.

He even had a slight extra chance, since if he lost the first trump to the queen he would still be able to reduce the club loss if East had both the king and queen.

This was not as good as playing for the clubs. In three-quarters of the cases East will have one or both of the missing club honors. South should therefore finesse in clubs rather than in trumps.

ENTER DUMMY

South should enter dummy with the first spade and return the jack of clubs through East. If East covers, South can win and get back to dummy to lead a trump.

If East plays a low club, South is willing to lose the finesse and try another club finesse later.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, Oct. 27, the 300th day of 1962 with 65 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning stars are Mercury and Mars.

The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1871, Wiliam Mercy Tweed, better known as "Boss Tweed," political boss of New York City's Tammany Hall, was arrested on charges of defrauding the city of millions of dollars.

Woman, 85, Attacked; Fairfax Man Arrested

The suspect, John Henry Bopp Jr., 42, of 67 Spruce Road, was jailed under $10,000 bail.

The victim told deputies she was asleep and the lights were off when the attacker broke into the house through a window.

She was awakened as he clamped his hand over her mouth and warned her repeatedly not to scream or he would kill her.

The victim, who was hysterical when sheriff's officers arrived at her home, said the intruder raped her and forced her to submit to an unnatural sex act.

After the man left she called San Anselmo police, who notified the sheriff's office. A radio bulletin giving his general description was broadcast.

Frank Costa of the Vierra Radio Patrol, Corte Madera, reported he saw a man later identified as Bopp near the San Anselmo city limits shortly after the bulletin was broadcast. Costa lost sight of the man in a wooded area, however.

Inspector Bowen Bridges and Sgt. Ed Levine of the sheriff's office spotted Bopp walking rapidly along Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in San Anselmo. Bopp was taken into custody at 3:32 a.m., less than an hour after the woman was attacked.

The suspect was placed in the rear seat of the patrol car in which the victim was taken to Marin General Hospital. Deputies said the woman identified Bopp's voice as that of the rapist.

Examination at the hospital indicated the woman had been criminally assaulted, deputies said. She was not otherwise seriously injured, however, and was released to go to the home of a friend.

Bopp denied any knowledge of the attack.

He was placed in the neighborhood shortly before the woman's report by both Officers Howard Bailey of Corte Madera police and Jerry Mattos of Larkspur police.

RUSSIA

Russia, said Thierbach. Most streetcars are operated by women; on many road construction jobs, women share in the work.

Thierbach did not have much opportunity to see Russian trains, except to ride on them or see them at a distance. The Red Arrow from Moscow to Leningrad had good equipment, but "the roadbed was terrible," he said. Most railroad equipment was crude—coal-burning engines and four-wheeled cars, not the larger, heavier cars seen in the United States.

Thierbach was impressed, however, with the Metro subway system, which he said was efficient, fast, well-kept and lighted, but rather drafty.

Much of modern Russian building is crude, "slapped-up" construction, Thierbach said.

Thierbach flew from Leningrad to Kiev by Aeroflot, the Soviet airline, which he said was "all right . . . but not up to Sabena or ours." At Kiev the Americans were kept on the plane until their transportation arrived, and "there was much military around."

Although he found the Soviet Union interesting, Thierbach said, "it was good to get out of it.

"Thank God I'm living here; I appreciate it much more now. There is no freedom of expression in Russia."

Non-Support Case Put Off 3 Months

McDonald Huffman, 36, of San Rafael, accused of failing to support his two children, won a three-month continuance in Marin Municipal Court yesterday.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson set Jan. 24 as the date for Huffman's next appearance in court. Deputy Dist. Atty. Thomas T. Storer indicated that if Huffman keeps up his support payments, the district attorney may recommend that the non-support charge be dismissed.

Huffman was in the news last March when fire destroyed his San Anselmo home. His 10-year-old daughter perished in the blaze. Huffman was charged with setting the fire but was found innocent.

Flowers Shows In Full Bloom

The Garden Society of Marin opened its 16th annual fall flower festival (featuring chrysanthemums) at 10 a.m. at the Frances Young Gallery of the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

Four hours later, the Chrysanthemum Society of Marin opened its 14th annual show at the Crocker-Anglo National Bank, Fourth and B streets, San Rafael.

The Ross show will be open until 6 p.m.; the San Rafael show, until 9:30 p.m. Both will be open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. tomorrow.

Salesman Faces Check Charge

An unemployed salesman, accused of buying two cars with bad checks, faces a preliminary hearing in Marin Municipal Court next Wednesday on a felony bad check charge.

He is Gerald Douglas Farrand, 34, from Southern California, who was arrested Thursday by Asst. Chief Sam N. Serio of San Anselmo police.

Farrand, who called himself "Capt. Edward Wynn" of the Air Force, is accused of writing two checks on the Crocker-Anglo Bank of San Anselmo to buy two cars.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson yesterday appointed Public Defender Peter Allen Smith as Farrand's lawyer and set 9:30 a.m. Wednesday for a preliminary hearing. His bail was reset at $3,675.

Fine, Jail Term For Drunk Driver

William DeWitt Taylor, 38, of 726 Bradley Avenue, Novato, paid $276 fine and must serve five days in county jail for his third drunken driving conviction.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Municipal Court sentenced him yesterday for driving while intoxicated along Highway 101 last June 20. He also loses his license for at least six months.

Taylor had prior convictions in 1955 and 1961.

Harry Hunter Dogan Jr., 39, of 230 Edgewood Avenue, Mill Valley, drew $303 fine and six months probation. He was arrested on Highway 101 at Marin City on Thursday.

Dirt Removal Permit Gets City Renewal

The San Rafael Planning Commission yesterday approved renewal of a use permit for six months for dirt removal from the hilltop at Professional Center Parkway and Channing Way by D. M. Christensen.

Commissioners noted that there were no plans for apartment development of the hilltop submitted yet but that dirt would be hauled over private property to the Northgate Shopping Center. "Skyscraper" apartments have been approved for the hilltop.

Blasting and hauling was limited to the hours between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. No dirt bank over three feet tall may be left standing.

The San Rafael Planning Commission also:

1. Gave architectural approval to construction of a garage by Carlo Gnemmi at 585 Irwin Street.

2. Approved an addition to the administration building at Marin Bay of Latipac-Perini Co.

necting the Highway 101 freeway with the proposed Shoreline Freeway in West Marin.

"Development of the Point Reyes National Seashore is now something we have to consider," Ayanian said. "And the growth of Marin County will be accelerated by the potential water supply from the North Bay Aqueduct. We want to settle on a route as soon as possible to avoid costly acquisition of improvements."

"How can we expedite this as soon as possible?" asked Fairfax Mayor W. E. Radtke. 'We're getting strangled with traffic now."

Ayanian replied that the hearing itself indicated the matter was being expedited, but further studies "will take time." Although the proposed highway, known as Legislative Route 69, has top priority on the county's list of requested state highway improvements, it is far down on the list for new state highways, Ayanian said.

Persons at yesterday's hearing — probably the first of many hearings — included Supervisors Walter R. Castro and William D. Fusselman, county public works and planning department members, San Rafael Planning Department members, and officials from the Marin Junior College District and cities of San Anselmo and Fairfax.

Bridge Guarded During Crisis

Security precautions have been taken by the Army to guard approach roads to footings of Golden Gate Bridge towers during the Cuban crisis.

A spokesman at the Presidio of San Francisco said today that a security guard had been placed on the road to Fort Point on the San Francisco side of the bridge.

General manager James Adam of the Golden Gate Bridge District said yesterday that the road to Lime Point in Marin County had been blocked off at the request of a security committee of bridge directors.

He said the Army and California Highway Patrol had cooperated in organizing the security of the bridge structure.

President Signs Miller Vet Bill

A bill introduced in Congress by the late Rep. Clem Miller (D-Corte Madera) to aid residents of the California Veterans Home in Napa County was signed into law last week by President Kennedy.

The law provides that no deduction will be made from federal payments to a state veterans home because the home receives funds for activities of residents from the estates of deceased members of the home.

Miller died in a plane crash near Eureka on Oct. 7.

KTIM Vote Poll Gives Nixon Big Marin Lead

Tally yesterday showed Nixon with 434 to Gov. Edmund G. Brown's 248.

The poll is taken by KTIM employees by passing out selection slips which are marked and returned.

In other races being polled, William T. Bagley (R.) had 545 while Robert Carrow (D.) had 121 for Seventh District Assemblyman. For the First District in Congress, the late Clem Miller (D.) had 288, and Don Clausen (R.) 376.

In the Marin treasurer-tax collector race, Stanley Fontez was leading Russ Lauterwasser, 361 to 271. For state superintendent of schools, Ralph Richardson had polled 335 to Max Rafferty's 255.

Mrs. Swanson suffered cuts on her forehead and right foot; Rainford, severe cuts on both knees; and his son, Raymond James Rainford, 29, cuts on the right knee. All were treated at Marin General Hospital.

Liquor License Denials Urged

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The state department of alcoholic beverage control announced it has denied two applications for licenses in Marin County.

The application of Harbor Liquor Store, Inc., 553 Redwood Highway, Mill Valley, for an off-sale general liquor license was denied on grounds the corporation failed to cooperate with the department by refusing to provide necessary documents.

The application of William Paterson and Jerry D. Miller for an on-sale beer license for Gasworks No. 2, 2 Gate Five Road, Sausalito, was denied following a hearing on grounds the premises were located in the immediate vicinity of a school and playground, in an area where there are too many licenses, and where it is difficult for police to exercise control.

Greenbrae Spooks March Wednesday, Never On Monday

Greenbrae School children will stage their Halloween parade under auspices of the Greenbrae Property Owners Assn. on Wednesday evening—not Monday evening as incorrectly reported in yesterday's Independent-Journal.

The parade will start at 6:15 p.m. at Via La Cumbre and Eliseo Drive, and proceed to the schoolgrounds, where costumes will be judged, William G. Fleckles, property owners association president, said today.

Cider, doughnuts and hot dogs will be served to the children.

India is still hesitant about repudiating its policy of nonalignment. Indian officials hope the fact of aid can be disguised by some form of deferred payment.

American and British officials have said they would consider giving aid to India if it is asked.

OBITUARIES

William Reynolds Rites Set

Graveside services for William Ward Reynolds, 74, a Marin resident since 1942, will be held at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday in Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno. Martin and Brown Mortuary of San Francisco is in charge of arrangements.

Reynolds died Thursday in a local hospital after long illness. He resided at 365 Johnstone Drive, Marinwood.

Born in Shellmound, Miss., Aug. 2, 1889, Reynolds spent much of his life in Denver and Salt Lake City. He came to Marin in 1942 and was employed during World War II at Marinship and Mare Island Navy Yard.

He served in the Army in World War I. Self-employed during most of his career, he engaged in various pursuits, including installation of score boards for athletic events and other mechanical devices.

He was a member of Mare Island Metal Trades Union Local 127, the Dixie Stamp Club of Marinwood, the American Legion, and the Methodist Church of San Rafael.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Ethel Randall Reynolds, at the Marinwood home, and two daughters by a former marriage, Mrs. Margaret Frederickson of Murray, Utah, and Mrs. Betty Netz of Altadena.

The family prefers that tributes be memorial contributions to the San Rafael Methodist Church building fund.

PETER HUMPHREY

Funeral services will be held Monday for Peter L. Humphrey, 53, Strawberry resident and former Borden Co. executive, who was killed Thursday night when his car rammed into the rear of a truck on Waldo Grade on Highway 101.

A native of Paw Paw, Mich., Humphrey operated for the last 14 years the P. L. Humphrey Co., a cheese, butter and egg brokerage firm in San Francisco. He lived for the last 10 years at 2355 East Strawberry Drive.

Humphrey was a member of the Pacific Dairy and Poultry Assn., the California Cheese Assn., and the Strawberry Yacht Club.

He is survived by his wife, Dorothy; two daughters, Harriet and Patricia; one brother and two sisters, Joseph Humphrey and Mrs. Eleanor Blough of Chicago and Mrs. Marie Riggle of Riverside.

Independent-Journal

Statement of Policy

Regarding Political Advertising

The Independent-Journal does not aggressively solicit or render copy writing service for political advertisements that are argumentative in content. Political advertisements are construed to be all assertions subject to public controversy, whether or not a public election is involved

Any political advertisement that is not clearly the personal appeal of the elective candidate or candidates involved must show the name of the sponsoring group together with the name or names of one or more persons officiating for such group.

Political advertisements must be submitted in complete and explicit form, ready for the printers, and clearly marked as to size and date of appearance. All political advertisements are payable in advance. Charges are figured at the regular rate.

Advertising deadlines are 4 p.m., two days preceding publication. As example: Tuesday advertisements must be in Friday at 4 p.m.; Monday advertisements must be in the preceding Friday morning. Any intervening holiday advances the deadline by a day.

No responsibility to show printer's proof is assumed under the above schedule.

If a proof is desired, advertisement must be submitted substantially in advance. Corrections, if any, must be ordered by 4 p.m., two working days preceding publication. Any changes from original copy will be charged for on basis of printing work involved.

On the last publication day before an election no political advertisement other than a simple statement of advocacy will be printed. As example: "Vote yes on proposition three," or "Elect John Jones," together with facts as to nature and time of election and, if desired, candidate's party affiliation or occupational identity.

Nearing a public election, no advertisement introducing a new controversial subject will be accepted to run later than the fourth publication day preceding the election. If any new statement or issue should be introduced on the fourth publication day preceding the election, attacking the opposing candidate or issue involved, the newspaper may, at its discretion, make allowance under this rule for the opposing side to answer.

Necessity for the newspaper's disinterested handling of political advertisements is readily apparent. These terms and conditions are adhered to in spirit of fairness to all.

PROJECT NO. 2452

MARIN COUNTY DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed Proposals will be received by the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin, State of California, until November 13, 1962, for:

Resurfacing and constructing channelization of Sir Francis Drake Blvd., from Drake Market to the Hub.

The work shall be done in accordance with official plans and specifications prepared in reference thereto which may be seen at the office of the Department of Public Works, County of Marin. Request for forms or information shall be addressed to the Department of Public Works, County of Marin, 1711 Grand Avenue, San Rafael, California.

Plans, Specifications (but not including Standard Specifications or other documents included by reference), and Proposal Forms may be obtained by prospective bidders upon payment of a deposit of Ten Dollars ($10.00) (cash or check made payable to the Department of Public Works, County of Marin) to guarantee safe return of the plans and specifications within ten (10) days after bid opening. Failure to so return the plans and specifications will cause forfeiture of the deposit to the County.

All bids must be submitted on the Proposal form obtained from the Director of Public Works and shall be accompanied by a Proposal Guaranty of at least ten (10) percent of the bid. Guaranties shall be in the form of a certified or Cashier's check or a Bidder's bond. Failure of the successful bidder to execute and return the contract, or to file acceptable bond, as required, within the time allotted shall be cause for the annulment of the award and the forfeiture of the Proposal Guaranty. All guarantees not so retained by the County shall be returned to the bidders within fifteen (15) days after the award of the contract.

Proposal shall be filed with Clerk of the Board of Supervisors, Court House, San Rafael, California.

Said Proposals will be opened and read by the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors at 1:30 P.M. on the day specified above for receiving bids, or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard. The Clerk will read only the total amount bid and not specific items going to make up said total unless written request for reading of each sub totals and individual items of the bid is requested in writing at the time of the submission of proposals. Bidders will be at liberty to inspect and review bids in the Office of the Director of Public Works to which they will be removed for this purpose of checking after the opening and reading of the totals by the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors.

Bids are required for the entire work described herein, and neither partial bids nor contingent bids will be considered.

The Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

GEO. H. GNOSS, Clerk

3.25 ACRES
Two Fawns Playing Tag

In the Southern heart of S.R., back to back with KENTFIELD'S DEL MESA is this tree studded horse - shoe - shaped 3.25 acres. When we first walked into this idyllic haven, 2 fawns were happily playing a graceful game of tag across its gentle upper rim. This could be your private close-in hidden-glen estate, or, for the investor or builder zoning has been granted for six individual home sites. (min. 20,000 sq. ft. each). EXCLUSIVE!

on getting engaged:

engaging a real estate broker is like engaging to be married. neither is absolutely essential, but both seem vital to happiness and today's well being. you search for a congenial person, honest and reliable, worthy of friendship and respect, one you believe will be devoted to your best interests, happiness, and general good. the max kimball office will concentrate all its might, mind, and interest to a few listings to bring about the quickest sale, for the best price, on the best terms. the staff will dedicate its talents, interest, and loyalty to your good as a buyer or seller of real estate. (we think a small office can function in this better than a large office). please let us serve your real estate needs, and you may look for your own wife.

111—Used Imported and Sports Cars for Sale

What to look for in a used car

We sell new Volkswagens, mainly, but our customers have put us in a thriving used car business with their trade-ins. And we like our used car customers to go out of here as satisfied as our new Volkswagen owners.

The check list below is for your convenience. A car that rates 100% we'd call "factory clean." Of course you can't ask for perfection in a vintage economy model. But you can make sure you know what you're getting for whatever you're paying.

Besides price, year, color, style, make and model, you can look into a few less obvious points to assure yourself of the car's worth with this check list.

We'd rather have you satisfied—than just sold.

On the lot, look for:
- ☐ Tires with evenly worn tread.
- ☐ Tight windows and doors.
- ☐ Lights and accessories that work.
- ☐ Clean, undamaged upholstery and flooring.
- ☐ Spare tire, jack, tire iron.
- ☐ Good radiator hose, fan belt, distributor, cables, wipers.
- ☐ Tight hubcaps.
- ☐ Locks that work.

Check these points in road test:
- ☐ Good springs and shock absorbers.
- ☐ Comfortable steering that doesn't pull to either side.
- ☐ Firm brakes that don't pull to either side.
- ☐ Effective emergency brakes.
- ☐ Speedometer and other gauges that work.
- ☐ Smoke-free exhaust.

Look out for:
- ☐ Rust around fenders and seams.
- ☐ Loose tail pipe or muffler.
- ☐ Loose bumpers.
- ☐ Water spots inside — possibly from leaks.
- ☐ Frame out of line.
- ☐ Corroded battery housing.
- ☐ Loose chrome strips.

And look out for these:
- ☐ Jerky transmission.
- ☐ Slipping clutch.
- ☐ Air leaks — around doors, windows, vents.
- ☐ Rattles.
- ☐ Overheating.
- ☐ Wobbly front wheels.
- ☐ Tendency to stall.
- ☐ Brake pedal that goes down too far.

We have all kinds of used care on the lot today. Some nearly new; some fairly old, all worth investigating.

Prayers For Peace To Be Offered In U.S. Tomorrow

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Prayers for peace will be offered tomorrow in Protestant and Catholic churches throughout America.

Calls to prayer in the Cuban crisis have been issued by the National Council of Churches, the National Catholic Welfare Conference, the United Presbyterian Church, and state councils of churches in many parts of the country.

The National Council of Churches, representing 31 major Protestant and Orthodox denominations with 40 million members, urged Americans to pray particularly for President John F. Kennedy and all who share his "awesome responsibilities" for decisions affecting world peace.

"Let us pray that through the agonies of the present crisis, God may lead nations to constructive ways of developing a world more in keeping with His will for peace with justice and freedom," the council said in a statement over the signature of its layman-president, J. Irwin Miller of Columbus, Ind.

The National Catholic Welfare Conference, in a statement signed by the five U. S. cardinals and other bishops who are members of its administrative board, asked all Catholic parishes in the nation to observe this Sunday as a day of prayer for President Kennedy and other government leaders.

"We urge our Catholic people to implore Divine Providence to grant that peace with freedom and justice be preserved," the statement said.

Leaders of the United Presbyterian Church, including the Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, state clerk, and the Rev. Dr. Marshal L. Scott, moderator, asked that all churches of the denomination observe tomorrow as "a day of prayer and renewed dedication to the will of God as He may make it known to us."

"Praying as loyal citizens for our own nation and our own safety," the Presbyterian leaders said, "let us also remember that as Christians we cannot accept as right and final the establishment of barriers between Christians and Christians, and nations and nations.

"There is a loyalty that must transcend our patriotism, a loyalty to the human race that extends to all mankind, whether friend or foe as the political lines are drawn.

"Let us, therefore, not pray lightly. Let us wrestle with God in intercession, not for ourselves alone, but for our fellow Christians in Cuba and the Soviet Union; for all the nations of the world and for those who in the providence of God rule them.

"Finally, let us remember that these times, as all times, are in God's hands. In dependence upon Him, let us approach the throne of grace in faith."

GOP Suggest Cuban Crisis Is Over Votes

WASHINGTON (AP) —Republican campaign leaders have suggested President John F. Kennedy was more concerned with votes on Nov. 6 than with Soviet missiles when he announced a blockade on arms shipment to Cuba.

The Republican Congressional Campaign Committee said in a newsletter yesterday that "the New Frontier's kid gloves policy toward Cuba for the past 21 months just did not jibe with the president's tough words about Cuba."

FALSE SOUND

The statement added that Kennedy's speech, citing the presence of Soviet offensive missiles as the reason for the arms blockade, "sounded brazenly false inasmuch as this had been known for months."

The committee advanced several reasons for questioning whether the president really intended to "crack down hard" on Communist Cuba.

Among them, it said, was the fact that 72 hours after Kennedy announced the blockade Monday night, no Soviet ships had been halted by Navy ships.

TURNED BACK

The Defense Department has reported that 12 of some 25 Russian ships believed headed for Cuba turned back after the quarantine on missiles, bombers and other offensive weapons was announced.

A Soviet chartered freighter was stopped and searched yesterday, then allowed to continue to Cuba when it was found that it had no offensive weapons aboard. A Russian tanker was allowed to proceed to Cuba Wednesday after the Navy reported it was carrying petroleum, which is not on the prohibited list.

"Undoubtedly," the committee said "a successful isolation of Cuba would distract attention from the innumerable foreign policy failures of his administration and from the record of inaction by the Democratic Congress. But it also would leave many Democratic office seekers in a stew of sizzling political grease."

'NO COMMENT'

A Democratic party spokesman, Samuel Brightman, said there would be no comment on the Republican letter.

In California former Vice President Richard M. Nixon said he would make a "statement of major importance regarding Cuba" in a statewide television address tonight.

PROTEST IN MOSCOW — A big demonstration was staged today in front of the U. S. Embassy protesting the Cuban blockade, and a band of youngsters plastered the front of the building with red, green and purple ink. A number of windows were broken by ink bottles hurled by the younger participants in the demonstration. Around 300 police swarmed around the embassy and trucks carrying about a hundred soldiers were parked on a side street not far from the building, apparently to reinforce the police if necessary. Heavily Fortified Florida Keys Steel Fingers Aimed At Communists

KEY WEST (UPI)—The Florida Keys, probably the most heavily fortified area in the United States, today was a finger of steel aimed at the heart of communism in the Western Hemisphere.

Clusters of cigar-shaped antiaircraft missiles line the beaches. Target-finding radar constantly sweep the horizon to the south.

Operating under the tightest cloak of security since World War II, military authorities deploy their battle-equipped troops, trucks, arms and equipment all along the 165-mile length of the keys.

This is operation buildup and the intense war preparations were beginning to show on the civilian population.

While soldiers in fatigues with carbines slung over their shoulders guard the lone ribbon of pavement that connects the string of islands with the mainland, Navy wives openly admit they are afraid.

"I'm scared and I'm getting out of here before the Cubans blow up one of the bridges on the keys and leave us stranded here," one woman said.

"I believe anyone in their right mind is afraid of what might develop from the Cuban situation," said Mrs. John H. Garner. "But, I'm much more afraid for my husband who is on a sub in the blockade."

While tension mounts, the buildup goes on.

Six-wheeled Army trucks roared down the highway throughout the night bringing ammunition and supplies to support the huge concentration of military might assembled here.

Heavy air traffic which started last week doubled yesterday and early today.

Yesterday the Army pulled up signs proclaiming "George A. Smathers Public Beach" and sealed off the waterfront area, missiles, radar and communications equipment were positioned beside the blue Caribbean waters.

There was no sign of the thousands of Marines who moved in from troopships and planes several days ago.

ENLISTMENTS UP IN MARIN SINCE CRISIS

Inquiries about enlistments in the armed services have increased sharply in Marin since President John F. Kennedy's announcement Monday of the Cuba blockade, San Rafael recruiting officers reported.

The Air Force Recruiting Office will remain open weekdays until 7 p.m. and Saturdays until 5 p.m. because of "doubling of the number of inquiries during the past three days," said Sgt. James Kauzlaric.

Army Recruiting Sgt. F. J. Toner said his office has had a "40 per cent increase in questions."

Navy Chief Robert L. Petzhold said he has been busy answering questions but hasn't noticed any rush to enlist.

Exile Government For Cubans Urged

CLINTON, S.C. (UPI)—Ashley Halsey Jr., a Latin American authority, told a Presbyterian College group yesterday that Cubans should elect a government-in-exile.

Halsey said he does not believe there will be war.

Cuban Blockade Opponents Whip Up Riots, Bombings

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Opponents of the U.S. arms blockade of Cuba whipped up riots and terror bombings in Latin America and demonstrations elsewhere in the world last night and today.

In most cases, the violent anti-American outbreaks appeared to have been fostered by Communist-led students and unionists. They had been comparatively quiet since President John F. Kennedy announced the blockade Monday, apparently either laying plans or awaiting instructions.

The worst violence occurred in La Paz, Bolivia, where at least five persons were killed and 26 wounded in three-way clashes involving pro-Communists, anti-Communists and police.

A mob of about 3,000 anti-Americans mustered by the Cob Union Federation paraded through the streets of La Paz, firing guns in the air and burning a U.S. flag.

Caracas and Buenos Aires also were hit hard yesterday, and disorders in both cities continued last night.

A bomb blast in the basement of the building where Pan American World Airways has its Caracas office caused considerable panic and snarled traffic on the city's main street, but caused no casualties and only slight damage.

In Buenos Aires, a U.S. government exhibit at the Palermo fairgrounds, numerous American business offices and the plant of an anti-Communist newspaper were fire-bombed. Gunmen in a passing car shot up the headquarters of a British-owned power company.

Cars were stoned in the big Ecuadorean port of Guayaquil, causing an undetermined number of casualties and 10 arrests.

In Mexico City, a bomb planted in a hotel where a number of anti-Castro Cuban refugees live was discovered by a janitor and disarmed by police.

A pro-American speech in the Italian parliament started a shouting match that threatened for a time to explode into violence.

Muggsy Spanier Plays A Lot Of Horn

See Page M-2

Marin Can Claim A Jazz Great

By FRED WYATT

In the shifting world of jazz, an art spawned in the United States that has spread over the planet in 60 or so years, Muggsy Spanier is a constant.

Certain once-top jazzmen can't blow with their earlier gusto or regularity. Others have died prematurely or left the field. But cornetist Muggsy Spanier of Sausalito is still playing like an upcoming young star.

After more than 40 years in jazz, he still is beloved on both sides of the Atlantic for the unmistakable bite of his plunger mute phrasing and his equally original and entrancing style on open horn.

HIS EVERY number is a new and pretty tune.

On the bandstand, usually under a hot spotlight, the bantam Muggsy blows his entire being into his horn, whether in staccato ensemble with his sidemen on the rapid "Dipper Mouth Blues" or "Dinah," soloing in more legato style on the measured "Someday Sweetheart," the wailing "Black and Blue," or his own hit blues, "Relaxin' At The Touro."

As an artist creating basic jazz or what loosely is called Dixieland, a label for New Orleans jazz via Chicago, Muggsy has weathered the eras of swing, bop, cool and progressive styles (themselves still extant and at times overlapping) and the nameless, virtually atonal sounds of saxist Ornette Coleman.

WHEN BING CROSBY visited San Francisco in 1958, he made it a point to look up longtime friend Muggsy Spanier. Bing has long been an ardent fan of jazz as performed by Spanier. Next to Muggsy in the photo is another "big name" in the entertainment world, Phil Harris. Spanier is a close acquaintance of many show business celebrities.

The indestructible jazzman, Marin's leprechaun transplant from the Midwest, was born near the Gold Coast in Chicago Nov. 9, 1906, as Francis Joseph Spanier. He wrapped his fingers around his first horn at the age of 9.

It was a beat up cornet bought in a pawn shop for $5 by his father, William Spanier. (Muggsy never switched to trumpet, the more brilliant version of the horn, preferring the more nearly human-voiced sound of the cornet.)

THE ELDER Spanier would like to have done better by his son, whose interests veered painfully between baseball and the strident, controversial, emerging form of music played from the heart called jazz.

But William Spanier had to support his wife and a brood of nine—seven boys and two girls. His income as a certified public accountant and concert pianist had limits.

Today Muggsy's first horn is in the New Orleans museum founded by Dr. Edmond Souchon, excellent surgeon, president of the Jazz Club of New Orleans and a recognized jazz guitarist. The museum contains the first instruments of the ranking jazzmen.

With that horn, while listening to records by Joe (King) Oliver and Louis Armstrong, known only to a hard core of fans, Muggsy gave himself his first music lessons.

On that horn Muggsy began developing a style that excited listeners as far back as the 1920s.

Among fans he acquired when he visited England and France in 1930 with the Ted Lewis band was a wistful young man, then the most eligible bachelor of the world, the globe-trotting Prince of Wales.

At the same time or earlier Muggsy met another person who became a lifelong admirer, a young man from Spokane, Wash., Bing Crosby, first known for his singing on Paul Whiteman records in the words "with vocal refrain." Bing, who had recorded with the legendary, late cornetist Bix Beiderbecke, finally got together with Muggs on a record cut during World War II called "Yes, Indeed." The "Chowderhead" referred to by Bing on the record is Muggs.

At age 15 Muggsy was playing in North Clark Street cafes for $2.50 a night plus tips, usually with groups including piano, sax, violin and drums.

TO DO THIS Spanier had had to decide between baseball and jazz. When he was 13 and 14 he was playing semi-pro ball and received overtures from the New York Giants.

The team then was managed by John (Muggsy) McGraw, from whom Spanier got the Muggsy tag.

Still alive in Chicago and able to recall an anecdote from this period is Sister Mary Bibiana, one of his teachers at Holy Name Cathedral on State Street where he was educated.

Muggsy, described by Eddie Condon as so Irish that his face was "tied together with shamrocks," had trotted into mass one Sunday in his baseball rig. A priest ordered:

"Spanier will leave the church with those spiked shoes."

Muggsy's mother, Kate, who died not long ago, recalled that she gave him an assist with his music. She used to hide his horn in a basket on the back porch so his older brother William could not confiscate it.

Bill, who later became a financier, was believed to prefer that Muggsy chose baseball rather than the music that had originated in bawdy houses and flourished in speakeasies.

"I was not about to let his brother take that horn," said Kate. "It would kill the boy." The boy at that time used to practice with the horn on the shore of Lake Michigan.

MUGGSY FIRST heard Oliver and Armstrong in person when he was 14 as they played in the Lincoln Gardens on Chicago's East 31st Street. A year or two later Oliver and sideman Armstrong would have Muggsy sit in and play with them.

Not until he was in his 20s did Muggsy begin five years of lessons under Noah Tarantino. Under him Muggsy continued to develop his embouchure (the shaping of the lips, tongue, etc. in developing musical tone).

One teaching aid was the intricate lip and finger exercises written by Moe Scholburg, a teacher so celebrated that Toscanini took him to Europe in 1930 because he had given lessons to every member of Toscanini's brass section. Muggsy still uses the exercises.

Muggsy rocketed to musical maturity in the headiest times of Chicago jazz—in the early days of prohibition when the city was wide open and no one questioned minors providing the entertainment.

He played with the legendary, late clarinetist Frank Teschemacher, the late equally fabulous Dave Tough, who drummed for one of Muggsy's bands, trombonist Miff Mole who died in 1960, Pee-Wee Russell, Benny Goodman, Jess Stacy, Eddie Condon, nearly everyone else who mattered. Drummer George

After playing with Elmer Schoebel in 1921 at the Blatz Palm Garden, he spent from 1922 to 1924 with Sig Meyers; played in the bands of Charlie Straight, Charles Pierce and Floyd Towne in 1925 and 1926; and toured with Ted Lewis from 1930 to 1936 and Ben Pollack from 1936 to 1938.

AS A STAR in the Ben Pollack band Muggsy lived it up so much that he suffered a nearly fatal physical collapse in 1938.

Many termed his recovery a miracle.

All the manager of the De Soto Hotel in New Orleans knew was that a very sick man was in a room upstairs and he didn't want him to die there. He drove Muggsy to Charity Hospital, where no doctor would touch him.

Muggsy, a salty character even on the brink of death, managed to gasp: "What the hell! I'm not a charity patient. Get me to a hospital."

A bright young intern suggested Muggsy be taken to the Touro Infirmary run by Dr. Alton Ochsner, who was fascinated by the case and would not think of failure.

Muggsy was found to be a victim of a perforated ulcer, lobar pneumonia, veins collapsed so severely that both legs were paralyzed and an abdominal area obstruction so critical that he was immensely bloated.

A separate profile could be written about this crisis in Muggsy's life. It was well recorded and photographed by Dr. Ochsner and his assisting doctors. Ochsner, who has crews of doctors work on a patient simultaneously in lightning fast manner, is credited with originating recovery rooms. Today he has a foundation hospital and clinic under his name that are world famous and draw patients from Europe and Latin America.

MUGGSY DIDN'T recognize Ochsner for days and eventually had to be pulled suddenly off sedation lest he become an addict. To this day Muggsy, who fought his own battle with the bottle before renouncing it, will have nothing to do with persons addicted to drugs, even marijuana.

Doctors had to puncture a vein in a foot to give him 17 blood transfusions. After nearly five months at the Touro, Muggsy spent several months in a hospital in Chicago to which his brother William had brought him.

"Relaxin' at the Touro," Muggsy's theme song, written by him and pianist Joe Bushkin, and his "Oh, Dr. Ochsner," are tunes in tribute to the doctor. "Touro," a blues, has sold more than a million copies, unusual for a jazz record.

When Muggsy and his wife, the former Ruth G. O'Connell, toured Europe in 1960, they found the "Touro" record being sold on a bootleg or pirated label called "Storyville," issued in Denmark.

This tour, in which Muggsy played with native jazz bands in several countries, was to have lasted one month but he was such a draw in every city he visited that he extended the tour to three and one-half months.

Mrs. Spanier reports that in every city fans asked Muggsy, "Why don't we get more records by you?" As musicians and jazz fans know, jazz acquired an intelligent and continuous following in Europe some years before the general public in the United States gave it much support.

FOLLOWING HIS recovery from his great illness, Muggsy organized a small band to play straight jazz or what was then called "hot jazz" as distinct from the more popular and novelty numbers featuring the leader's singing in the Ted Lewis band and the arranged (written-down) Dixieland repertoire of the Ben Pollack band.

Muggsy called his outfit the Muggsy Spanier Ragtime Band and opened in the Sherman Hotel in Chicago on April 29, 1939. Sidemen included trombonist Georg Brunis, pianist George Zack (succeeded by Joe Bushkin) and the late clarinetist Rod Cless. This memorable engagement open-

One Of Giants Of Jazz

Bantam Muggsy Is A Big Man In Music World

THE TELEVISION SHOW "This Is Your Life," devoted to Dr. Edmond Souchon, founder of a New Orleans museum containing first instruments of top jazzmen, brought this crew together in Hollywood in 1960. Guitarist Eddie Condon here plays banjo, the instrument he started on; on guitar is Dr. Souchon; Muggsy Spanier plays cornet and next to him is Matty Matlock on clarinet and behind them is drummer Ray Bauduc.

Show business was electrified.

The Spanier band was to have stayed one month but was continued to six and one-half months and management nearly wept when he cut out. As result of the crowds he drew, the Sherman later brought in the bands of Count Basie, Harry James (with singer Frank Sinatra starting out), Bunny Berigan, Gene Krupa, Fats Waller et al.

Muggsy's Ragtime band cut 16 sides for Bluebird, a label that sold for 35 cents. In later years these records sold for as high as $7.50 apiece, jazz critic Ralph J. Gleason has told me. RCA Victor reissued them as a long-playing record in 1956.

Later in 1939 Muggsy appeared at Chicago's State-Lake Theater with Fats Waller in "The Battle of the Bands." After taking turns the bands played together in a jam session to close their act.

Some Bay Area fans, including this reporter, first heard Muggsy live in 1940 when he came to San Francisco as a member of the Bob Crosby band and as leader of its small combo, the Bobcats. The band was a big Dixieland jazz crew.

THE BOBCATS nearly tore the ceiling out of the Golden Gate Theater with a number called "Smoky Mary," recorded on Decca and now out of print.

Muggsy at this time was preparing to form a new crew of his own, a big band to play the same brand of up-from-New Orleans music. He formed this band in New York in February, 1941, and went on tour, exciting dancers and music fans. A big band needs arrangements, for section work, and Muggsy's man for this job was Deane Kincaide, saxist and composer who had played and arranged for Crosby, Pollack and Tommy Dorsey.

This band, termed by critic Leonard Feather "one of the best big bands ever to feature Dixieland style," stayed together until 1943. Sidemen included Mel Powell, the late clarinetist Irving Fazola and trombonist Vernon Brown. They were a sensation in New York's Arcadia Ballroom and other spots. They cut only four sides, for Decca, now out of print.

The war years and other factors were too much for Muggsy and many other leaders trying to keep big bands together when men were hard to keep and profits hard to acquire. Since then he chiefly has led small combinations, touring coast to coast and in Canada.

In his move to the Bay Area in 1957 Muggsy was signed to do a few months with the Earl Hines crew in the Hangover in San Francisco and stayed two and one-half years. Doc Dougherty has closed the Hangover and retired to Fairfax.

MUGGSY AND his wife, the widow of a Chicago banker, were married in Chicago on St. Valentine's Day, 1950. A short time later semanticist and jazz fan S. I. Hayakawa, now of Mill Valley, featured Muggsy and his music on a Chicago FM radio station. Muggsy was playing the Blue Note at the time.

A 1950 tour after their honeymoon included San Francisco's Hangover and the Tiffany Club in Los Angeles, where Muggsy again paved the way for other jazz crews including Louis Armstrong. This band of Muggsy included clarinetist Darnell Howard, who had played with Oliver and Armstrong, and bassist Truck Parham, who had played with Earl Hines and Jimmie Lunceford.

Before moving west in early 1957 the Spaniers wired a friend to find a San Francisco hotel that would accommodate their beagle hound Glenview Lady Dewes, now called Nibs, a pet with 21 field champions in her bloodline. The Gaylord Hotel said, "Yes," and they stayed there until settling in Sausalito a few months later.

The Spaniers now have a house up the steep incline from South Street. Muggsy, who shops in slacks, sweater and a discolored old pork pie hat that a fan gave him, is already a happy legend among local merchants. Nibs, who has crossed the country twice with the Spaniers, now is 7 and has a daughter Terry 3. Mrs. Spanier broke an ankle last year when her foot caught in a hole on the hill where they live while she was exercising the dogs.

The Spaniers listen to certain classical music but Muggsy has no plan to switch from jazz playing. They back the Democratic Party and anti-discrimination, they are great baseball fans and keep up with new books and they're devoted to their beagles—but jazz is their life. Muggsy plays it and Ruth is his No. 1 fan. It was his music that brought them together. Her son, Buddy Charles, a singer, heard Muggsy and demanded that she hear him. She's never been the same since.

MRS. SPANIER, slim and not unremindful of Marlene Dietrich in appearance and vibrancy, helps Muggsy with publicity and other business affairs. She told me in 1951: "In matters concerning Muggsy, I am a cobra."

By now she knows many of Muggsy's anecdotes, numerous of them unprintable.

Muggsy, like guitarist Eddie Condon and pianist Art Hodes, with whom he grew up, is highly articulate. Friends recall that when Ted Lewis complained he played too much in the middle register, Muggsy retorted: "If you want high notes hire a piccolo player!"

In a night club in West Third Street in Greenwich Village, New York, that Muggsy and another bandleader opened in 1954, listeners thought all had gone smoothly. But later Muggsy told friends a player in the other band, whom he had known for years, had started to drink. This player is a musician who just falls apart in one set if he drinks. Muggsy said:

"I told him, 'You stop that drinking right now or I'm gonna use your nose in that sidewalk for a plowshare.' "

Muggsy reported the anger of the late drummer Sid Catlett toward a white musician in his cups who had been unkind to him. "I had to step in and cool Sid down. He was gonna hit him in the throat with his cymbal and serve his head like John the Baptist's."

And so on.

THE SPANIERS are delighted with the Bay Area, which is why they've settled in Sausalito. But they can't quite completely let go of Chicago. They still have many possessions stored there. They still have a checking account at the National Boulevard Bank of Chicago.

With 40 years of jazz behind him, Muggsy Spanier might be thought to be one of Marin's retired citizens. Not so. He recently returned from a strenuous engagement leading a small band in Las Vegas. In June he cut a long-playing record called "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean" for Fred Astaire's label, Choreo Records, in Hollywood with a 17-piece band made up of musicians expert in the Dixieland idiom including ex-Bob Crosby sidemen Eddie Miller and Matty Matlock.

For the recording, directed by drummer Jackie Mills, Choreo head, they used the Deane Kincaide arrangements written for Muggsy's old big band but not recorded previously. Mrs. Spanier had had them shipped in several heavy cartons from Chicago. Neil Hefti, Gordon Jenkins and other musical figures visited the studio during the recording session and cheered.

Muggsy told Anson Weeks the album opens "with the darndest 'Royal Garden Blues' you ever heard." "Columbia," from which the album gets its title, was scored by Kincaide the day after Pearl Harbor.

So many reported their enthusiasm to Kincaide that he phoned his joy from New York. The program notes were written for the album, due out soon, by Leonard Feather, who says: "Muggsy remains one of the imperishable individualists of jazz."

Muggsy interrupted his rest from Las Vegas to play in the Hollywood Bowl Jazz Concert last Sept. 8 in a crew including clarinetist Barney Bigard, who long was a Duke Ellington sideman, and drummer Mel Lewis, who recently toured Russia with Benny Goodman.

Soon Muggsy will sound a bugle call for his recent Las Vegas crew to reassemble to open a new engagement in the Bay Area or begin a new tour. As Duke Ellington said of himself in 1952 Muggsy Spanier might well say of himself in 1962:

"I am a young bandleader starting out all over again."

WATCHING THEIR MOTHER, Mrs. Lawson (Janet) Jones as she works upon a design for a poster for the Christmas Gift Gallery of the Family Service League of Marin are daughter Alison, 8, and son Douglas, 5. A Christmas Card Helps Agency Serve Families Of Marin

Design By Artist Janet Jones Is Slated For National Distribution

By JO STUBBLEBINE

When Janet Jones accepted the assignment of designing a Christmas card to benefit the Family Service Agency of Marin, she approached the task with the experience of a commercial artist and the skill of a prize-winning painter.

She did her job so well that the Family Service Assn. of America has ordered 10,000 of the cards for national distribution.

To achieve her design, she first thought of an angel in flight as being a non-sectarian symbol of the holiday season that would have a universal appeal. The next stop was to develop the design in a style which would appeal to those who like traditional cards as well as those who like a fresh, more contemporary type.

JANET IS FOND of calligraphy and its unique design quality. By the use of a chisled pen in a calligraphic lettering style, her angel became a modern embodiment of the medieval spirit of honesty and directness.

Before she put pen to paper, however, she had checked the standard envelope sizes (to have her design the right proportion), and the available paper samples for color and texture. Her choices were a medieval (brick) red with touches of gold on a buff, heavy textured paper.

Then the experimenting began. The process of sketching, adding, subtracting and refining — until the final design was born.

Her familiarity with printing procedures enabled her to see it through the final production stage. By working in close cooperation with the printer and by an appreciation of his problems, she could anticapate and avoid them. On the other hand, he was sensitive to the effect she wished to achieve and was helpful in arriving at a mutually satisfying result.

Janet Schrock Jones, as she signs her work, received a Bachelor of Arts Degree with honors from the California College of Arts and Crafts in Oakland in 1952. Her major was commercial art and she was employed in the art department of a San Francisco advertising agency until the birth of her first child, Alison, now 8 years old. Three years later, a son, Douglas, was born.

While at home with her family, Janet turned to the fine arts, first winning prizes for her watercolors, and more recently with her oils.

A member of the Marin Society of Artists, she won first prize in watercolor in their annual exhibit at the Marin Art and Garden Fair in 1959. In 1961 she won the first prize in oil in the same show with an additional prize for the "most creative" work in the show. In 1962, she again took first prize in oils.

HER WORK has hung twice in the San Francisco Museum of Art. In December, 1961, she won honorable mention in the exhibit of San Francisco Women Artists there. More recently her oil, "Hot Landscape," was accepted for the San Francisco Art Institute annual exhibit in April of this year.

She has exhibited extensively in other group and one-man shows in the Bay Area, at the California State Fair and the Golden Chain Exhibit in Sonora, where she has received several awards for watercolors.

Although she has gone back to commercial art as art director for her husband's new photographic laboratory, she continues to paint when she can, mostly in oil. Her tendency is toward thicker and thicker paint with an increasing sculptural quality.

Music rates among her many other interests. She has played cello with the Marin Symphony, and plays piano for her own amusement.

Another Janet Jones design which will be appearing before the public soon is that of the silk screened posters for the forthcoming Christmas Gift Gallery, sponsored by the Family Service League. The topiary tree motif, a repeat of her last year's design, is aimed at keeping a continuity and recognizability from year to year, but a color change to the dark red and gold scheme of this year.

The Christmas Gift Gallery is a showing of a variety of gift items selected from leading Marin shops. These may be ordered at the show or many items may be bought directly from the new cash and carry department, making possible a one-stop shopping trip for the convenience of the shopper. The event will take place at the Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley and will be opened by a champagne preview next Friday evening.

THE BENEFIT cards will be on sale at the Gallery Friday through Nov. 12.

The Christmas card is also available at the "Cottage," the Family Service League's shop of "used usefuls" at 21 Madrona in Mill Valley. The shop is open on Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays from 10 to 4. Anyone interested in purchasing the cards may call Mrs. Leighton Hatch of Mill Valley, sales chairman.

The Christmas card, the Gift Gallery, and the Cottage benefit the Family Service Agency of Marin, a non-profit, professional family counseling service, and a member of the United Bay Area Crusade.

STEREO HI-FI

By C. J. Catania
Audio Engineer

NEW PRODUCTS. Last week we received two new model tape recorders, both by Craig. They are transistorized and completely portable.

The new Craig TR401 is a lightweight 1½ pound truly portable, pocket size tape recorder. Only 4 by 5½ by 2 inches and not much bigger than your hand. It is an electronic notebook with many uses such as business reports, family gatherings, vacations, school lectures, and party fun. It operates from standard penlight batteries, and comes complete with carrying case, shoulder strap, microphone, batteries, and full reel of tape for only $59.50. It records up to 30 minutes on one reel of tape.

The new Craig TR505 is a 5 inch reel, two speed recorder. It records up to 4 hours on a 5 inch reel, is all transistorized, has tone swtich, self contained AC adapter, and operates on standard flashlight batteries as a completely portable unit. The unit has fast forward, quick stop for editing, rewind, and comes in a handsome luggage type case 12 by 5 by 10½ inches. The TR505 comes with microphone, earpiece, AC adapter cord, batteries, and empty and full 5 inch reels for only $159.50. This recorder can save the business man, lawyer, doctor, architect, and engineer many hours of valuable time. Phone calls, conferences, spec discussions, interviews, notes while traveling, case histories, and lectures are just a few of the hundreds of valuable uses for a portable tape recorder.

Now for a report on our building expansion and remodeling program. We have just knocked out a couple of walls in the main store area and the final stages are in progress. Our new quarters for engineering offices, service department, etc., are completed and we are moving in. The sound room is being completely remodeled and will now be a STEREO THEATRE. Every day will be audio show time in our Stereo Theatre. When we are finished we will ask all of you to drop in at your leisure and treat yourself to relaxing stereo pleasure in our theatre. Again, I wish to thank all of you who have been in during the past few weeks for your patience. We know how difficult it is for you to walk into the congested mess and find what you want.

A Wall Full Of Surprises

Big Boon In Rental Art Show

By KARL BARRON

A wall thirty feet wide and fourteen stories high to exhibit paintings?

This will greet art lovers who are interested in renting paintings when the Marin Society of Artists opens its Fall Rental Shows on Sunday, Nov. 4, in the Marin Art and Garden Center.

No, there isn't really a wall like that, but a space just thirty feet long and twelve feet deep contains the equivalent of a wall with an area of 4320 square feet—or 30 by 144 feet.

How is it done?

It came as a bonus when the new addition to the Frances Young Gallery was designed last spring. Architect Cliff Hanssen, while he worked on plans to increase the wall area of the gallery by one third, kept wondering how it might be possible to further increase the wall space without adding to the floor area.

WALL PANELS on rollers solve the storage problem and also allow easy display for paintings in the Frances Young Gallery. Here, prospective art renters Robert Hendra of Sacramento and Stephanie von Buchau of Larkspur inspect the new addition which is the pride of the Marin Society of Artists. The society will open its Fall Rental Show a week from tomorrow.

THE NEED was two-fold. The MSA Rental Gallery began in 1954 with 100 paintings in stock, and mushroomed to the point that today there are 510 paintings out on rental, valued at $83,000. Almost 300 people turned out for the Spring Rental Show's opening day, and rented the walls bare. Obviously, thought Hanssen, there must be a maximum of wall space to handle a business such as this.

Secondly, although the entire gallery is devoted to paintings for rent in May and November, the walls are used for various shows during the other ten months and up to now, the rental paintings were stored in closets, and had to be hauled out one at a time to show to the patrons.

This became increasingly tedious for the MSA volunteers who staff the gallery daily, and also tended to discourage renters because of the time involved. At the present time 138 artists have works on rental, which gives some idea of the number of paintings involved.

HANSSEN KEPT going back to the idea that an ideal arrangement would allow the patron to see paintings as though he were leafing through a book. And from this thought came the fourteen story wall.

In the rear of the new addition, the place of one wall is occupied by eighteen panels, 10 by 12 feet, recessed side by side into a space twelve feet deep, and sliding out on nylon rollers like a closet door. However, these doors come out at right angles to the wall.

Framed of 2 by 4 inch material, they are panelled with "pegboard", which allows paintings to be hung at any desired position—and on both sides of the panel. Thus, each of the 18 panels has a two-sided area totalling 240 square feet.

Genevieve DeMartini and Eva Kamp, this year's co-chairmen of the Rental Gallery, say they've never had it so easy.

The saving in time and labor is important, for the gallery is open from 2 to 4 p.m. daily, including Sunday, and on Thursday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m. This totals about 68 hours a month. And few of these hours pass without a painting being rented. At last spring's show, 84 works were rented in the first two hours the gallery was open.

ALL WORKS available are juried. The jury for the show opening next Sunday consists of John Lynch, Henry Rasmussen, Ken Potter, Winifred Koch and Gwen Stone for paintings, while crafts will be juried by Bernice Brown, Marianne Rauschnaubel, Alton Raible and Sara Tuckey.

Sunday, Nov. 4, from 2 to 5 p.m., the entire Frances Young Gallery will be devoted to art works with the label "For Rent".

HIKERS CAREFULLY follow stepping stones across Lagunitas Creek during long trek from Sonoma County line to the Golden Gate. The Girl Scout Heritage Hike in Marin County was one of hundreds held across the country this summer. The idea was to give girls an opportunity to know thoroughly the nature of their county. This picture and others on next two pages were taken by Mrs. Charles Geller, hike leader.

Long Walk Across County

38 Girls Scouts Hike The Length Of Marin

BY ELAINE DAUM

Just how big is Marin County?

Thirty-eight Marin Girl Scouts who participated in this summer's Heritage Hike know its size exactly. They hiked the length of the county from the Sonoma County line to the Golden Gate. It took seven days.

Planned as an observance of the Girl Scout 50th Anniversary, councils all over the United States sponsored similar hikes to acquaint Girl Scouts with the history of their community and their heritage.

A cross-country hike of over one hundred miles is not planned overnight. Mrs. Charles Geller, leader of the hike, started making the preliminary plans over a year ago. By November, 1961, she had already started getting the signed permission from more than twenty ranch owners on whose property the girls would camp and cross.

THE TRAIL was hiked by the adult staff, Mrs. James Rowen, Mrs. Kurt Helmstedter, Mrs. Robert Mayer, Mrs. Robert Rohner and Mrs. Geller, during the spring. In this manner, the leaders were able to check the trails, become acquainted with the proposed campsites and know what problems could be expected.

Registration for the Heritage Hike was open to seventh and eighth grade Intermediate and all Senior Scouts. During the spring, they were required to take "warm-up" hikes to ready them for the hundred miles ahead.

To Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Schoff fell the daily job of meeting the hikers at their campsite with the Girl Scout truck. They were a welcome sight to the girls each afternoon. The Schoffs purchased the food, and hauled the cooking equipment and personal gear. Butane stoves were used for all cooking due to the fire hazard encountered in so many areas of Marin during the summer.

Food preparation was kept as simple as possible, but the dinner menus included barbecued chicken, stew and hamburgers. Bag lunches were prepared each morning to be eaten on the trail.

THE HIKE started at the bridge below Valley Ford at the Sonoma Conty line, where each girl made a point of touching the Marin County Line sign. During the leaders' practice hike, they had found it impossible to ford Stemple creek at high tide, so departure time was planned to reach the creek at low tide. The first night was spent camping on the Smith Ranch at Walker Creek.

The fog, which hangs low along the coastline during the summer, plagued the hikers the first few mornings. The third morning it was so dense it was impossible to see the fences on either side of the road. This provided real excitement. All landmarks were completely obliterated, and the girls missed a gate and had to retrace their steps. When the fog lifted the girls were back on course and only a little behind schedule. That night's camp was set up at Devil's Gulch in Samuel P. Taylor Park.

FENCES WERE sometimes a problem for Girl Scout hikers who walked from the north to south end of Marin County. Here, near Twin Peaks, Diane Swingle helps Mrs. Robert Rohner under barbed wire.

THE FOURTH night the girls camped at Laurel Dell on Mount Tamalpais. In the morning, the Scouts hiked to the Radar Station on the mountain, where, by previous arrangement, they were taken on a tour of the installation. Stopping at Alice Eastwood Park, the girls and leaders decided it would be best to stop the hike there, as severe blisters were making hiking quite painful for several girls.

This might have been the end of the hike for another group of less determined girls, but the Heritage Hikers had started out to hike from one line to the other, and although it meant waiting for school to start so they could all finish the trip together, finish it they did.

MEETING again at Mountain Home on Mount Tamalpais early on a Saturday morning last month, the hike was resumed. Their final night together was spent at Tennessee Cove, and the next day found them at the Golden Gate Bridge.

What did the hike mean to the Scouts and their leaders? It gave them a true picture of Marin County which no one can really get from a car window. This is their county, where they can hike for miles and miles, and still be in Marin. This is their heritage.

IT'S PROVEN AGAIN—
MAN IS A MIDGET

The recent deluge of wind and rain has left visual scars we'll be living with for many months, and even years. The ferocious force of the elements took us by surprise, and left little doubt that we are still slaves to the elements.

With each succeeding achievement in the world of science and production, man invariably seeks high grounds to stand in all his glory to bellow and thump his chest in self-adulation. Each failure fails to diminish the octave of the bellow or the persistance of the thump on the next success.

Man has created machines that travel faster than sound, and even think like humans. He has developed endless products aimed at providing more and more creature comforts. Nothing in the way of production or processing remains long unanswered or unattainable when the ingenuity of man is aimed at the problem.

We enjoy every conceivable benefit of the products of man's thinking, and we enjoy them with the casual air of one who is born to uncounted riches. It is unthinkable that there existed a time and people where such necessities were not available. To give up just one of these benefits would be nothing short of ghastly.

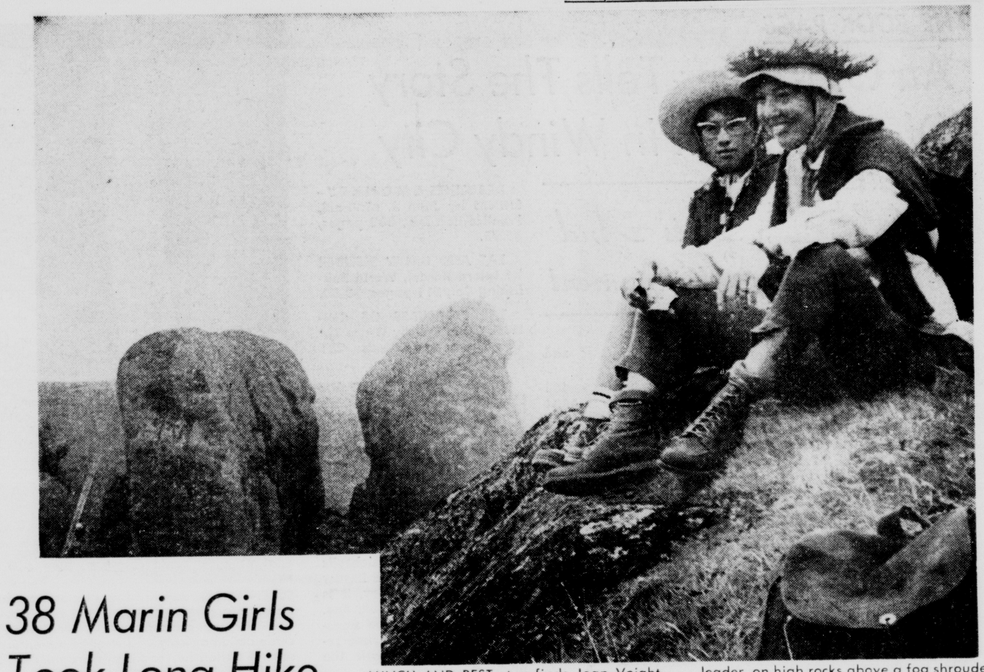
Yet, in our horn of plenty, protected by seemingly endless extent of man's ingenuity and ability to provide even more for our enjoyment, we are ill-prepared for an onslaught on our private world of security. When nature unleashes her fury in seeming retaliation for our smugness, we are virtually powerless to fight back.

Perhaps, it is better that this is true. If man were able to control the elements, or even retaliate effectively against the fury of nature, could he maintain a proper perspective toward his power? It is apparent we have failed to live peaceably with our present sphere of power and influence. How can we expect any more success if the power increases?

In the meantime, we'll sandbag the doorways and tar-patch the roofs at Ames Ford in a pathetically vain effort to deter the flood, just as our friends and neighbors have done to their homes and stores. And, we'll pray for the continuance of sunny skies.

COOLING OFF hot feet after 15 miles of one day's hike, girls take their time in crossing Nicasio Creek where it joins Lagunitas Creek. The hikers still have another five miles to go before they make camp.

HIKERS PAUSE to look through heavy fog at sheep corraled on the Bill Barboni Ranch. The sheep, which just arrived on the ranch, are about to be vaccinated against disease.



LUNCH AND REST stop finds Joan Voightlander and Mrs. Kurt Helmsteader, an adult leader, on high rocks above a fog shrouded landscape. Hike across Marin County was made in two stages.

38 Marin Girls Took Long Hike

CAMP TRUCK provided mobile base for hikers. It hauled food and bedrolls ahead to next day's camp site. The Girl Scouts did not ride the truck. They were out for the walk.

BUSY CHEFS prepare dinner after hiking as far as the Bill Barboni Ranch on Marshall Road at end of second day. The cooks are Leslie Finke, Carey Phillips and Janice Thorn.

COOKING on butane stoves to reduce fire hazard are, from the left, Carol Ecker, Leonard Schoff and Doreen Phelps. Menus were never fancy except for one night when hikers had fried chicken.

A FENCE is always a good place for hikers to stop and rest. Here, the trans-country hikers are getting to their feet again to resume the long walk. This picture was taken on top of Bolinas Ridge where Panfliglio Ranch joins the Rodrigues and Nunes Ranch. Ranchers were contacted ahead of the hike for permission to cross their land.

A NEVER ENDING job was picking burrs out of socks. Here the burrs have brought the hikers to a stop on an old bridge across Keyes Creek on Highway 1. Pat Rowen is girl in center of bridge.

By DON KEOWN

Old-timer John J. McPhaul has put together what is partly a history of Chicago journalism and partly a collection of anecdotes about Windy City newspapermen in his "Deadlines & Monkeyshines."

The opportunity for an inside look at an era of journalism that has now pretty well passed from the scene should be amusing—and perhaps enlightening—for many readers. For the Chicago colleagues of reporter McPhaul were more typical of their times than he would lead you to believe.

They were colorful and they were ingenious. But we suspect that most of today's newspaper readers, after reading this book, will be happy to settle for today's more competent, if less colorful, craftsmen. Newspapers have been a long time living down the antics and shenanigans committeed then by some of their brethren in the mad quest for larger circulation figures.

It's the much-repeated formula of the nutritionist for the overweight: Skip the foods with high caloric, low nutritional values. Concentrate upon the proteins, the fresh fruits, vegetables, etc.

Another Kordel point: The belief that added weight with increased years is permissible is a fallacy.

The book doesn't differ greatly from earlier works by Kordel and others in the field. But if you don't own one of them, then there is considerable common sense advice to be found in the pages of "Eat and Grow Slender."

THERE ARE any number of good Chinese cookbooks available, but Grace Zia Chu's new "The Pleasures of Chinese Cooking" boasts several special features.

Chief among them is the separation of recipes employing ingredients available at the general supermarket from those requiring ingredients found only in Chinese groceries.

Each recipe is followed by a number of helpful "tips" for the cook.

And the range of dishes is wide, from the simplest fare for the beginner to the most exotic concoctions.

Some other inclusions in clude instruction on the use of the Chinese cleaver, the technique of working with woks and chopsticks, advice on how to order in Chinese restaurants, a history of tea, the procedure for growing your own bean sprouts in your kitchen, a discussion of regional Chinese cooking, some full-course menus, etc.

At $4.95, it's an excellent value.

IF HARRY Carmichael's "Of Unsound Mind" is hardly an exceptional mystery, it is still quite an acceptable one.

Piper, the insurance assessor, and Quinn, the crime reporter, are faced with the problem of finding out just why seven average people with no apparent motives have resorted to suicide.

The scene is London. The pace is rather casual. The tone breezy. And the final deduction, satisfactory enough.

Case History On Young Gangs Well Done

ALL THE WAY DOWN by Vincent Riccio and Bill Slocum, Simon and Schuster, 191 pages, $3.75. Reviewed by Bill Hendricks.

Here's an exceptionally well done and vitally-presented case history of a worker in the tough districts fighting juvenile delinquency.

No holds are barred in this one, including the language, judgment on cops and criticism of judges. In general it's an honest, and sometimes raging, attempt to portray the need for help for the GIs of juvenile gang wars. It is told dead honest by a decidedly capable, extremely tired social worker.

SEVENTEEN OF Ray Bradbury's most popular science fiction stories have been included in a new Doubleday and Co. book for young readers—"R Is for Rocket." The stories include action aplenty and strange adventures. But the usual science fiction horror themes are missing. Jacket art is by Joe Mugnaini.

The Investigators

THE FEDERAL INVESTIGATORS by Miriam Ottenberg, Prentice-Hall, 343 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

There is quite an army of federal investigators, composed of quite a number of divisions.

Miriam Ottenberg, a Pulitzer Prize-winning Washington Star reporter who has done more than a little investigating on her own, catalogues and describes them all in "The Federal Investigators." Her book is an eye-opener.

The construction of "The Federal Investigators" is simple. Each agency's duties and history are outlined; then follows an account of an especially interesting case solved by investigators of that agency.

The research and know-how that went into the book are far from simple. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, in a foreword praising Miss Ottenberg's work, says: "She writes well and knowledgeably, after years of covering these agencies for the Washington Evening Star . . . She also has won the respect of the investigators about whom she writes—and whom she often assists with the results of her own digging for facts."

"The Federal Investigators" is essentially a "booster" book. The author touches only lightly on gaps in areas of enforcement and overlap of agencies in other areas, and not at all on investigative bumbling or the not-unnatural tendency of such agencies to proliferate investigations for their own sake.

But the book is an enlightening catalogue of the multiple agencies created to help enforce federal laws. And it is indeed a tribute to the author that it is also interesting and exciting to read.

German Exile

THE FEW AND THE MANY by Hans Sahl (translated by Richard and Clara Winston), Harcourt, Brace and World, 343 pages, $5.75. Reviewed by Richard Lyttle.

This is the story of exile brought on by Hitler's rise to power and his racial and political persecutions. There have been many recent books on the subject, but Hans Sahl's novel is more of a contribution to literature than it is to sociology.

His descriptive style reaches moving and poetic heights. The plight of his hero, Georg Kobbe, is everyman's plight. The philosophy of the exile is made universal and the story forces the reader into some provocative, searching questions.

Published in German in 1959, the first translation now makes it available to English-speaking readers.

The book contains a magnificent variety of styles, ranging from diary notes to a smooth stream of consciousness. Sahl's characters and dialogue are artfully handled and contribute greatly to the realistic foundation of the story.

The book is melancholy in its commentary, and yet there is humor and laughter, sorrow and tears, all the range of emotions. This can only be done by a skillful writer who has lived through the experiences he describes.

HE PLAYS the role of a boy who has been abandoned at a Texas river camp. Actually, he is Harry Matsinger III, and he lives in San Rafael.

WANTS TO PLAY BALL

Boy, 12, Has Leading Role In Dominican One-Act Play

By LILLIAN SEAVER

A 12-year-old San Rafael boy will take the lead in the title role of "John Turner Davis" in a program of two one-act plays to be opened next week by the Dominican College Troupers in Angelico Hall on Dominican campus.

Wednesday's opening night performance is reserved for students, but the other three performances, one at 8:15 p.m., Friday, another at 2 p.m. Saturday and the last at 8:15 p.m., Nov. 10, are open to the public.

Harry Matsinger III, a seventh grader at St. Raphael's, was tapped for the role following his early success singing the part of the boy Nicholas in two Christmas performances of the "St. Nicholas Cantata" by the Winifred Baker Boys' Chorale.

YOUNG HARRY turns in a realistic performance of the 12-year-old John Turner Davis who has been abandoned at a river camp in Harrison, Texas, in 1933 by his migrant-worker family. He is befriended by a kindly, childless couple and finally finds a home with them.

"It's pretty easy to memorize," according to Harry. "It's just easy talk. You just have to go slower and talk louder for the stage."

Harry's sister, Sue Matsinger, a junior at Dominican College, is playing what she describes as a "small role" in the same production. Their parents are Col. and Mrs. Harry Matsinger of 1318 Nye street, San Rafael.

THE COLONEL is with the Marine Corps and the family has made its home here for five years. Two other members of the family are Marianne, a senior at Dominican Upper school, and Anne Marie who is in the sixth grade at St. Raphael's.

"No, I don't want to be an actor when I grow up, I want to be a baseball player," Harry said. To keep in shape, he plays in the Little League and the St. Raphael's basketball team.

Harry has been rehearsing for several weeks with Sister M. Cyril, O.P., head of the Dominican College speech and drama department, and director of the two one-act plays.

The scene for this play has been designed by Elsie Harle, in competition with other students of the Dominican art department.

"The one-acts are a greater challenge," Sister Cyril stated, "because there are two separate productions to rehearse and two separate settings and moods. The link between these two is the theme of abandoned children."

"John Turner Davis" by Horton Foote was originally produced in 1955 on the Philco Television Playhouse and first staged this year in arena style in an off-Broadway playhouse.

Men's roles are played by Don VanEtten of Corte Madera, Don McLaughlin of Terra Linda, Larry Selma of Mill Valley and Stan Morris of San Francisco.

The "Impromptu" cast of four includes Maureen Minehan, Hansi de Petra, Tom Bertken of San Francisco and Monte Hickok of Honolulu, now attending College of Marin.

Sausalito: Jewel City On Hillside

It's Favorite Of Residents And Visitors

A GREEN OASIS in the heart of downtown Sausalito is the Plaza Vina Del Mar with its green lawns, trees, cool fountain and statuary. In front of it is the Bridgeway traffic, behind it the ferryboat Berkeley which has been converted into the Trade Fair store. Also to be seen in the background is the Sausalito Yacht Club. (Independent-Journal photo)

Back in 1836 a young Englishman, William Richardson, fell in love with the wildly beautiful land to San Francisco's north, separated by the waters of the bay.

Richardson applied to the Mexican governor for a land grant to the 19,500 acre Rancho Saucelito, but was doomed to initial disappointment. He was informed that the grant had already been awarded to one Jose Antonio Gallindo. But later Gallindo was to fall out of favor, and the grant was transferred to Richard's name in 1836.

Indians carried yellow adobe bricks on their backs up the Saucelito hills where Richard's first Marin ranch home was built. And in 1841 Richardson and his wife, the former Maria Antonia Martinez, moved to Rancho Saucelito from San Francisco to make their home. Richardson Bay is named for him.

In 1850 Richardson piped water from the springs under Saucelito's famous willows to a great cistern, reputed to still be under Richardson avenue, and thence to his boat, the Water Nixie, which transported it to San Francisco to be sold for 50 cents a bucket.

RICHARDSON was confident that his ranch would some day be the location of a twin city to San Francisco which was then burgeoning across the bay.

And Sausalito, as the town came to be spelled, did grow from cow town to fishing village to a wide open "Monte Carlo of the West."

At this point, many of its proud citizenry exceeded even Richardson in their optimism. Some day, they were confident, their city would shade even San Francisco.

Those expectations were never realized. But today's Sausalitan is quite satisfied with his city. And visitors—including many from metropolitan San Francisco—are invariably enchanted, and not a little envious.

Writers like to compare Sausalito to a Mediterranean village—and the comparison is apt. Its handsome homes perched on steep hillsides look down upon sparkling waters. In sharp contrast are the waterfront arks in which dwell other Sausalitans.

The shops and restaurants have a distinctive appearance and flavor of their own. Art galleries, little theaters, etc., contribute to the "arty" atmosphere which appeals to the tourists who pour into the town on sunny weekends.

BOATS OF ALL sizes and all kinds bob in the waters. A fountain splashes in the green oasis of a downtown plaza. And San Francisco glistens across the waters.

The setting, the view, the climate are all magnificent.

Even the visitor who plans to spend most of a day in Sausalito is not going to see it all. The sights are too many and too varied.

But here are a few of the principal attractions:

Bridgeway, "the street" in Sausalito, with its many interesting shops including The Village Fair with floor after floor of sparkling little arcade shops, art galleries, coffee bars, etc.

The Berkeley, an old ferryboat converted into a unique and fascinating store, The Trade Fair. As you meander through its aisles, you may find yourself harkening back to the days when crowds boarded the ferryboats for the trip to San Francisco when there was no Golden Gate Bridge.

The Plaza Vina Del Mar, a small but pretty and cool plaza in the heart of Sausalito named after its sister city, beautiful Vina Del Mar in Chile. There you can enjoy the splashing fountain and the statuary from a shaded bench.

The verdant and fragrant gardens that enhance many Sausalito homes.

The Poet's Bench at the top of a pedestrian lane where you can rest under the lacy branches of spreading pepper trees.

THE MOORINGS which serve as home base for both pleasure and fishing boats of many sizes ranging from the most elaborate to the simplest.

The waterfront walk along Bridgeway with the waves washing below and the San Francisco skyline in the distance. And at the end of that walk, Al Sebrian's famous seal sculpture.

The art galleries, gift shops and antique stores which abound in the city.

Jack London's house lies at the foot of Richardson Street, very much the same as when that fabulous adventurer and literary figure resided there.

Worth a trip in itself is Sausalito's Marinship District, a busy shipbuilding center during World War II and now a growing industrial area. There the big attraction is the Army Engineers' huge model of San Francisco Bay, housed in what was once the Marinship warehouse.

And at certain times of the year, there are special events that draw added throngs to Sausalito.

If you are there on a Friday or Saturday night, then almost certainly there will be a little theater production playing in one of the two playhouses on Bridgeway—Sausalito Little Theater and Gate Playhouse.

In the sunnier months, there is boat racing off shore.

In the winter the herring run brings scores to Sausalito where they scoop the fish from the bay with anything that will scoop.

But perhaps the best way to taste the charm of Sausalito is simply to drive at random through its hilly streets. Thousands of charming vistas will entrance you.

And there will come a time when you will want to park your automobile and take to the walks or paths for a closer view of the surroundings.

Very likely you will want to carry a camera along with you. Or better yet, if you are artistically inclined, a sketch pad.

You will have no difficulty understanding why Sausalito has become the home of many internationally known artists.

(Editor's Note: This is another in the "See Marvelous Marin" series of articles on Marin County places of historic, scenic, recreational and educational interest, prepared in cooperation with radio station KTIM.)

See Marvelous Marin

BOATS ARE VERY MUCH a part of Sausalito life. Powered and sail, large and small, pleasure and fishing, you will find them moored along the waterfront. And on pleasant weekends, the waters of San Francisco Bay are dotted with the craft. (Photo by Ken Molino)

Fine Piano Talent Of Dominican Sister Is Not Lost To World

BY JUSTINA SCHUTTE

In 1947 a brilliant young pianist renounced worldly things and joined the Dominican Sisters of San Rafael.

The end of a promising career, lost to the world forever? Quite the contrary.

Born Joyzelle Ray in Burlington, Vermont, she came with her parents and older sister to Oakland at an early age, her father being professor of political science at University of California.

At the age of five or six she showed an interest in the piano and started to study at the age of eight. A few years later she lost a beloved teacher and for the ensuing few years did not take lessons.

"I just played the piano for my own enjoyment," she remarks with a smile.

When she was 16 she began lessons again, practicing long hours. Later she attended Cincinnati Conservatory of Music. She studied with Marguerite Melville and Karol Liszniewski and with George Gruenberg in Berlin.

SHE MADE her musical debut in San Francisco in 1940 and was acclaimed by the critics. Radio and concert commitments were many in the following years. She was also teaching a few pupils at Dominican Conservatory of Music in San Rafael. In 1945 this association led to her decision to join the Dominican Sisters of San Rafael.

Now, as Sister Mary Dominic, O.P., she is assistant professor of music at Dominican College. Sister Dominic's primary role is that of piano teacher; her absorbing interest is in early American music and the early American civilization program. The primary purpose of this course, offered to juniors and seniors in the college, is to develop an understanding and wise appreciation of American civilization and culture as a whole. One of the most interesting facets of early American music is Moravian music, originating in Bethlehem, Pa.

Dominican College has broadcast through KTIM programs highlighting this music and there have been several concerts featuring the music at Angelico Hall.

DOMINICAN College Music Club, Sister Mary Dominic, moderator, is a member of the National Federation of Music Clubs and participates in a nationwide contest known as "Parade of American Music." This contest is conducted during February of each year. Dominican Club has won six double ribbon awards, the most recent award being for contemporary American music, the preceding for research, public exhibits, broadcasts and live performance of the newly-discovered early Moravian music, period 1740 to 1860.

Under Sister Dominic's supervision the club has published and circulated more than 250 pamphlets on details of this music. It is believed that Dominican College was the first organized group on the West Coast to make this music known to Northern California.

On Nov. 23, 1962, at Marin Catholic High School music lovers will hear Sister Dominic as soloist with the Marin Symphony Orchestra, playing Beethoven's 4th G Minor Concerto for piano and orchestra. The program begins at 8:30 p.m. This is a "first" for Marin County.

It is not usual for a member of the religious order to give a concert "off campus." Permission for this appearance was not easily obtained. Negotiations were carried on for some time and Mother Mary Justin, O.P., Prioress General, gave her consent after deep deliberation.

Season tickets for the Marin Symphony Orchestra series, Nov. 23, 1962, Feb. 8, 1963 and May 3, 1963, may be obtained through the Symphony Guild of Marin, P. O. Box 144, Mill Valley.

"Can Concrete Splashes Be Removed From My Suit?"

Concrete or cement can be splashed on garments whether you are a "Sidewalk Superintendent" or not. And when it is splashed on you — beware! Get the garment to a drycleaner as quickly as possible. Concrete, itself, is alkaline and the color in your suit may be damaged permanently.

Concrete when set, is waterproof. It contains fine pigments which are insoluble and being highly alkaline, it is similar physically, to many indelible inks. Cement-stained work clothes can be handled more roughly, but dress garments present a special problem. Wools, for instance, often lose color quickly on contact with cement.

Your drycleaner has the proper cleansing agents and the skill to remove an alkaline spot without damage, if the color hasn't already been removed. He knows what to do and will do his best, but he cannot guarantee success. Much will depend upon the size of the splash as well as the fiber, the fabric and the color. An important point to remember is that a concrete-stained garment will still show stains even after redyeing.

STEREO SCENE

Playing This Record Delayed Reviewer

By JOHN SUNIER
Editor, FM & Cultural Guide

Some modern jazz:

VERY TALL—Oscar Peterson Trio with Milt Jackson—VERVE Stereo V6-8429:

I've been meaning to review this lp for months now, but I'm so busy playing and replaying it that I just found time to sit down and praise it in print.

It's undoubtedly one of the best jazz albums of the year. Peterson is a prolific pianist with fantastic technical skills. Milt Jackson is one of the top vibes-men in the business, and best-known for his work with The Modern Jazz Quartet.

From the opening "Green Dolphin Street" (on which Oscar reaches inside the piano to pluck some of the strings directly), the album captures an infectious swinging feeling which remains — along with warm and lovely melodic statements — until the final notes of the last "Reunion Blues."

LIKE WEST SIDE STORY—The Richard Behrke Trio—Atco Stereo 33-141:

Besides sounding hip, the title of this lp is designed to suggest that this jazz-West Side Story disc, latest of a long series, hews very closely to the original Leonard Bernsteined notes. For a first album, a real triumph for jazz pianist Behrke!

Latest in a group of recorded efforts to put some guts into West Coast jazz, this group fairly surges with power and almost justifies the dozen large exclamation points on the cover of the album.

Mitchell has been an important bass player on this coast, and Land a fine tenorman in the Coleman Hawkins tradition. Also in the group, and showing off with some fine solos during the course of the set, are Frank Strazzeri on piano; Carmell Jones, trumpet, and Leon Petties, drums.

SOULNIK—The Doug Watkins Quintet featuring Yusef Lateef—New Jazz 8238:

This older monophonic album is by all odds the most successful of a number of jazz cello lp's. Doug Watkins achieves a swing in his performance on this seemingly un-jazzable instrument which makes one wonder why more jazz cello isn't heard.

The quintet is rounded out by Hugh Lawson's piano; Herman Wright's bass, and Lex Humphries' drums.

The title tune is a blues by Yusef Lateef and features a cello-oboe duet that is gorgeous. Also striking is the slow-tempoed "Imagination," bringing the set of six to a close. An original and intriguing album any way you look at it.

THE SOUNDS OF YUSEF—The Yusef Lateef Quintet — New Jazz 8261:

The converted-Moselm Negro jazzman Lateef is here featured on such ridiculously varied instruments as the tenor sax, flute, argol, tambourine, balloon, and a 7-Up bottle! No, it's not a jazz Spike Jones—it's good honest international United Nations-type jazz.

The Eastern influence is uppermost in the music, as it is in Yusef's philosophical life. The rest of the group—including Wilburn Harden on fluegelhorn; Hugh Lawson, piano and various instruments; Ernie Farrow, bass; and Oliver Jackson, percussion—hails from, of all places, Detroit.

At the moment an integral part of Cannonball Adderley's Quintet, Yusef Lateef is an amazing musician, full of audacity and originality and a highly valued star on the jazz scene. This particular album shows him off better than any I've had the pleasure of hearing.

MARIN POETS' CORNER

PSALM OF NOVATO

I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills of Marin
Which surround the beautiful city of Novato.
Novato, city of friendliness, nestled in the beautiful green
And the golden brown hills of Marin.
Novato, founded by men of God as a way station for weary travelers,
Travelers who, as they rested, lifted their eyes unto the hills and thought,
"This is good"—so remained to till the soil and raise gentle animals
Which also thrived on the hills of Marin.
Praising God these ranchers lived on and prospered
And sang the praises of their homes to visitors from afar—
Visitors who came to see, and then came also to love the hills of Marin.
Hundreds came and enjoyed too the peace and the beauty.
Ranchers shared their land and many tiny homes sprang up
Homes where gentle families grew in peace and love
In the shadow of the hills of Marin.
And Novato became a city, a city of friendliness, enjoying the warm
Sunshine and the hills and the peace
Protected by the flying planes, soaring over the hills like huge gulls
Disturbing the quiet of the little city
And yet understood and so accepted by the gentle people.
Novato, city of churches, city of people who love the Lord
And try to follow his teachings.
People who have learned to lift up their eyes unto the hills of Marin.
Knowing that their help cometh, not from the hills but, from
Him who madeth the hills.
People of Novato who rejoice in the Lord and praise Him, knowing that Novato is Good!

LITTLE SELF

Like a pebble on the beach
Washed by the ebbing tide,
Smoothed and polished day by day
In it's daily ride.

So little self on you go
In your earthly ride,
Smoothed by the earthly tide of things
'Till you are pure inside.

Tear out your heart, cry bitter tears,
Give yourself away,
Smash down the walls that bind you
In this living day.

Climb upward out of strife that wrought
You out of earthly things
Send your heart to the stars
Let your soul have wings.

Like a pebble on the beach
Washed by the tide and sand
Go forth and smooth your corners off
Then climb into His hand.

SAN RAFAEL — FRANCES VON AHN

A TIME OF TENTACLES

Make thou this day the daily beds
And bake thee, mom, the weekly breads.
For thine is kingdom gastronomic—
Laundress, maid and economic
Wizard elbowed in detergent:
Change those diapers; heed that urgent
Toddler's howl. Bleach out the scorch
On daddy's shirt and sweep the porch.
Brandish Brillo, scrub your sink;
Scour that kettle till you're pink.

Gloved in dish cloths, mom is found—
Not only rooted, but pot bound.

SAN RAFAEL — ANNETTE HERRINGTON

Seeding Your Own House Plants Provides Winter Day Adventure

If you've never tried growing house plants from seeds, you don't know what an adventure you've been missing.

For just a few cents invested in the seeds will give you many more plants than you could possibly buy full-grown for the same money.

Begonias and geraniums, fuchsias and primroses, gloxinnias, flowering maples (Abutilon) even cacti are only a few of the kinds of house plants that may be grown from seeds.

Such foliage plants as coleus and asparagus ferns are other possibilities. Actually, there's a long, list of plants that thrive in the home and are easy to develop from seeds.

SCRUB UP some flower pots to use as seedbeds and put half an inch of broken flower pots, coarse cinders or gravel in the bottom of each for drainage.

A mixture of equal parts of good garden soil, granulated peat moss and sand will make a good medium in which to start the seeds. Firm the soil after nearly filling the pots.

Over the top of the soil put half an inch of spagnum moss which has been rubbed through a sieve (or you can buy it already "milled"). Seeds sown in this moss will not be troubled by disease and their roots will grow down into the soil mixture.

DO NOT cover such very fine seeds as begonia or gloxinia. Just press them into the moss with the flat of your hand. Larger seeds may be covered with more moss to a depth that is twice the diameter of the seed.

Cover the pots with pieces of glass, set them in a pan of water until the soil on top shows it is damp, drain and then keep them in a shaded place until seeds sprout. Then move the pots to a sunny place, shading them with paper from the hottest sun.

AS SOON as the seedlings have grown their second set of leaves they can be transplanted to little individual pots which are set in a pan with peat moss stuffed between pots to prevent drying out.

Keep watering with a fine spray when necessary and repot when roots fill the little pots.

MANY TYPES of house plants are readily grown from seeds. Among them are the everblooming begonias and both single and double-flowered forms are available. Start them now for winter bloom.

Look To Barberries For Autumn Foliage

Lacking the abundance of color which fall brings to eastern gardens, the Marinites are ever on the lookout for shrubs and trees that take on autumn tones.

He finds them, too, in trees such as liquidamber, which produce brilliant foliage, or in one of our many berried shrubs such as the pyracantha.

If he looks at the barberry family he will find both berries and foliage that give him color when fall arrives. Moreover, he will find a family of shrubs that is too little used when one considers the merrits of its various members.

BARBERRIES are definitely seasonal showpieces in fall, but they offer interest in other seasons, too. In fact, they have a year-round charm.

This is a huge family of shrubs, both evergreen and deciduous. Of more than 100 known varieties, however, only a few are of interest to the gardener. These find their places in the foundation planting, in the mixed shrub border and in informal hedges. When used as a hedge, the barberries are guaranteed to discourage trespassing, for so thorny are they that even a mouse would have trouble in passing through.

One of the best barberries for home grounds is the Darwin Barberry. A neat and refined evergreen shrubs, it grows some five or six feet high and often as wide or wider, producing clean, glossy, dark green leaves of holly-like appearance.

IN SPRING, the Darwin barberry has striking clusters of golden-orange flowers, and in our milder climate it may continue to scatter these throughout the year. The flowers are followed by blue-black berries. In fall, when nights start to turn cool, the foliage takes on a bronze cast which carries over in winter.

Being evergreen, this barberry makes an attractive, informal hedge plant.. It seems indifferent to soils and asks only water for its best performance.

It is among the deciduous barberries that we find the pleasing combination of colored foliage and colored berries in fall. The Wilson barberry and the Japanese barberry are especially attractive, the latter having variations in leaf color and size which make it doubly interesting.

Both Wilson barberry and Japanese barberry are rather low, shrubby specimens for the border where the fall color will stand out. Their foliage is green from spring until autumn at which time it colors up vividly before dropping the leaves to unveil the masses of coral berries along the branches.

JAPANESE barberry has two variations which the gardener should get to know:

One is the Red Leaf Japanese barberry, which has bronze-red foliage in summer that turns to beautiful amber shades as nights cool off. The other is the Crimson Pygmy variety—a dwarf counterpart of the Red Leaf Japanese barberry.

Both of these need sunny spots to maintain the rich bronze tones of their foliage in summer. When the leaves drop in fall, the coral or red berries of these deciduous barberries linger on and on along the bare branches.

The holding quality of these berries is amazing. They hang on in the garden until the spring growth starts once again. And when cut for display in the house, they will last for weeks. Take care in cutting, however, lest the hand encounter thorns.

GARDENERS CHECKLIST

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- The recent rains by now have probably sprouted many grass and weed seedlings. This is an ideal time to pull them up while the ground is still soft. For unplanted areas, a good weed spray will save work.
- It is still not too late to plant bulbs for winter and early spring color in the garden. All types of bulbs can be planted at this time.
- If you want color now, you can still get potted chrysanthemums at the nursery.
- Shrubs and trees planted in the storm soaked ground now have a good chance to develop a strong root system. They will put on vigorous growth next spring and summer.

THE CLOCKS ARE GOING CUCKOO —Judy Rourke of 24 Montford Avenue, Mill Valley, feels a little cuckoo herself as she sets back clocks at Bell's Clock Shop in Mill Valley so the birds will cuckoo on standard instead of daylight saving time. One of the clocks, made in 1750, has a completely wooden movement (even on daylight saving). Tonight's the night to turn your clocks back, too. (Independent-Journal photo)

TURN BACK THE HANDS OF TIME

That time is here again—standard time, we mean.

Marinites who lost an hour's sleep in the annual change of clocks from standard to daylight saving time last April can get it back tonight.

The procedure is simple. Just before retiring, set the clock back an hour. Then, don't look at the clock, think, "oh, it's still early," and stay up another hour. Go to bed. You can wake up in time for church and still have an extra hour's sleep.

The actual change is set for 2 a.m. Pacific Daylight Time tomorrow—which will become 1 a.m., Pacific Standard Time. (This will enable bars to keep serving drinks for another hour.)

Western Greyhound Lines will convert bus timetables from daylight to standard time, so commuters riding buses will catch them at the usual hours Monday.

Russ Offer Cuba Pullout If U.S. Will Quit Turkey

Nikita Now 'Admits' Caribbean Toehold

MOSCOW (UPI) — Premier Nikita Khrushchev, in the first Soviet admission it had missile bases in Cuba, offered today to withdraw them if the United States would withdraw its missiles from Turkey.

President John F. Kennedy rejected the proposal barely an hour later.

The Khrushchev offer held out hopes of an early agreement on banning nuclear tests and on other controversial cold war issues such as Berlin. But it carried with it the implied threat that Soviet technicians in Cuba would fire the missiles if the United States invaded Cuba.

Khrushchev's proposal was made in a letter to Kennedy with a copy to acting U. N. Secretary General Thant. The Kennedy rejection, made after consultations with his key strategy advisers in Washington, came before he had received an official copy.

The Soviet premier called for urgent negotiations on the withdrawals within two or three weeks, "not more than a month," and suggested the U.N. Security Council appoint observers to go into Cuba and Turkey to see that the missiles were withdrawn.

(Western observers said the Khrushchev offer appeared designed to strike at the heart of the NATO concept of building up a deterrent against Soviet nuclear strikes. The belief in some quarters was that acceptance would have meant the beginning of the end of NATO.

(The United States is believed to have about 30 intermediate range missiles in Turkey. About the same number have been reported in Cuba but a U.S. Defense Department spokesman said today "there is no slightest indication" the Russians have slowed down construction of the Cuban bases.

(Cuban Premier Fidel Castro

HAVANA SAYS WAR PLANES DRIVEN AWAY

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Havana radio said today unidentified war planes have been driven from western Cuba by Cuban anti-aircraft batteries.

The government communique broadcast by the radio did not say whether the batteries actually opened fire.

The phraseology was that the batteries forced the planes to flee.

Kennedy Rejects Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) —The White House declared today Russia must stop work on its missile sites in Cuba, render offensive weapons in Cuba inoperable and cease shipping arms to the Castro government before the United States can consider any proposals to settle the crisis in this hemisphere.

The White House thus replied to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's offer earlier today to withdraw offensive weapons from Cuba if the United States would pull rockets out of Turkey.

Work on missile sites is proceeding "at a rapid pace" in Cuba the White House said.

"The first imperative must be to deal with this immediate threat under which no sensible negotiation can proceed," the White House said.

As for Khrushchev's call for removal of missiles from Turkey, the White House said the Western Allies have long "taken the lead in seeking properly inspected arms limitation on both sides."

It added:

"These efforts can continue as soon as the present Soviet-created threat is ended."

Khrushchev's proposal was reported in a Moscow radio broadcast. It said the information was contained in messages sent to President John F. Kennedy and U Thant, acting secretary general of the United Nations. It proposed that Thant act as an agent in carrying out the necessary negotiations.

President Kennedy thus did not reject Khrushchev's proposal out of hand but did establish firm conditions for any negotiations between Washington and Moscow. In effect he challenged Khrushchev to demonstrate good faith by dismantling missile bases in Cuba before the United States and the Soviet Union consider any plan to settle the hazardous dispute.

Press secretary Pierre Salinger said Kennedy had not yet received from Moscow the text of Khrushchev's proposal but had examined it on the basis of news reports.

Kennedy had received a separate message from Khrushchev late last night, but Salinger said it differed from the one broadcast today from Moscow.

AIR-RAID DRILL

Novatans Take CD Into Own Hands

Fifty-two Novato residents decided to take civil defense into their own hands "because nothing is being done by any government civil defense agency."

They are led by a carpenter, Thomas McDonagh of 5 Gothic Drive. McDonagh, a Scotsman, spent many weeks in bomb shelters during World War II, and he said, "I've seen what can happen."

He and his neighbors, 30 homeowners and their families on Gothic Drive, had their first practice air-raid drill today.

"It worked very well," McDonagh said. "Nobody had any advance warning. I went out and sounded the alarm by blowing the car horn. Within 20 seconds everybody came out of the houses.

"Men, women and children were carrying blankets and water jugs. One fellow had a transistor radio. Then everybody went into the basements, which make very good bomb shelters."

McDonagh said homes on Gothic Drive are built of prefabricated aluminum siding and have concrete-block basements.

The Gothic Drive do-it-yourself civil defense unit was organized by McDonagh Thursday when he became disgusted with what he calls "d— little" official civil defense preparations.

"When I heard the president's message—which, by the way, we all agree with here—I got concerned," he said. I rang up the Novato General Hospital and found they had no preparation at all. I called the city and the Novato Police Department, and nobody could give me any information.

"I called the courthouse in San Rafael, and nobody was there who could tell me anything. I called the Novato schools and they were very weak.

"So I decided we could do something for ourselves.

"I went around the neighborhood and got a 100 per cent

2 More Indian Positions Fall To Red Hordes

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Two more Indian positions have fallen to Red Chinese troops fighting through the eastern Himalayas toward India's heavily populated plains despite stiffening resistance, a defense spokesman said today.

The government called on the Indian people for greater sacrifices and Prime Minister Nehru told some members of his Congress party India is making arrangements to obtain weapons abroad to fight the invaders. He also called on India's millions to make personal sacrifices to aid their country.

In Moscow it was announced that Nehru told Premier Khrushchev today that he would agree to negotiate a border settlement, but only on condition that the Chinese withdraw behind the breakthrough line of Sept. 8.

Fears grew that the invasion would spill over from the disputed border lands into a full-fledged advance into India's Assam Province, which never has been in dispute.

A Defense Ministry spokesman said Indian troops withdrew from Jang, a village five miles east of the important monastry town of Towang, which the Red Chinese captured Wednesday. The Chinese continued an advance along a jeep track southeastward toward Assam.

Authoritative sources indicated two battalions totaling more than 1,000 men would try to fight a delaying action where the jeep track crosses the 13,940-foot Se Pass, 14 miles east of Towang. The Chinese force in the area was reported to be about 10,000 men.

Another outpost near the center of the northeastern frontier also was abandoned. The loss of two posts in that area had been announced previously.

Russians 'Are On Treadmill,' Appeared Grim To Thierbach

By RICHARD CARBONEAU

"They don't smile much," said George W. Thierbach, summing up his impression of the Russian people.

"They are a people who, if they knew they were doing for themselves, would do a lot better . . . hardworking, but like they were on a treadmill."

Thierbach, of 128 Hillpath Lane, Corte Madera, is a director of the Marin Municipal Water District and a retired railroad man.

But he didn't see much along either of these lines while in the Soviet Union with the Marin Executive Delegation. He did, however, gain a broad picture of the USSR—impressive but drab.

Thierbach became ill with flu for two days in Moscow, right at the time scheduled for a tour of a Russian waterworks. So he missed that visit.

"It was so cold I was really miserable," he said.

"The hotel, which was 20 stories, was falling apart, it was so poorly constructed. The lobby was like a big barn; it was poorly furnished and had only two elevators."

Moscow itself, said Thierbach, is "immense—but there is no beauty to it." People stand in long lines at food stores; churches are becoming a thing of the past and eventually will become "museums," he believes, because the congregations are old. No young people are going to church, he said.

"As I understand it, they are god; there is no more God; they have reached the ultimate," Thierbach commented on the atheistic dogma of communism.

Many women—in some cases more women than men—work at heavy labor in

Disabled Cars Blamed For 2 Injury Crashes

Disabled cars caused two injury accidents on Highway 101 in Marin County yesterday and early today, according to the California Highway Patrol.

In one case the driver made no effort to coast to the shoulder of the road, officers said. In the other, the driver was trying to coast to the shoulder when his car was hit.

Robert Gregory Biedma, 27, of Daly City told officers his car stalled in the middle southbound lane as he was going up the Waldo grade near Rodeo Avenue at about 3 a.m. today.

As he was backing the car downhill, Biedma said, it was struck by another southbound car driven by Elbert Allen, 37, of San Francisco.

A broken wire in a generator yesterday resulted in a three-car collision on Highway 101 south of Corte Madera.

A truck hauling dirt in the Civic Cetner area yesterday hit a Pacific Gas and Electric Co. power pole at 2 p.m., causing a power failure in Santa Venetia and the Puerto Suello Hill area.

District manager George Henderson of Pacific Gas and Electric Co. said power remained off in some areas until 3:30 p.m. Radio station KTIM, whose transmitter is located on the Smith Brothers ranch in Santa Venetia, did not get back on the air until 4:45 p.m.

Route Of San Rafael-West Marin Freeway Aired: No Decision Yet

Possible routes for a new highway from San Rafael to West Marin were described yesterday at a public hearing, but state engineers said it would be at least two years before a route is selected and five years before construction begins.

Nearly 50 city and county officials and residents attended the hearing in the San Rafael High School cafeteria.

It was the first public hearing in the proposed road which would alleviate traffic congestion on existing roads leading from Highway 101 through San Rafael, Greenbrae, Kentfield, Ross, San Anselmo, Fairfax and the Gallinas Valley.

Haig Ayanian of the San Francisco district office of the State Division of Highways said planning studies have been started but no decision has been made yet whether the new highway should be built along existing routes or should be re-located.

Area of the route studies, which Ayanian indicated on a big aerial photograph, includes these existing routes:

1. Sir Francis Drake Boulevard from Highway 101 at Greenbrae to the "hub" in San Anselmo and through Fairfax to Highway 1 at Olema.

2. Fourth Street-Red Hill Avenue or parallel streets such as Second Street, Third Street or Fifth Avenue from Highway 101 in San Rafael to the "hub" and out Sir Francis Drake Boulevard to Olema.

3. A combination of Lucas Valley Road, San Geronimo-Nicasio Road and Point Reyes-Petaluma Road from Highway 101 north of San Rafael to Point Reyes Station.

Ayanian said the highway would most likely be a freeway—at least that part of it in the San Rafael area. "It's too early, of course, to say whether it would be elevated or depressed," he said.

The highway would be about 18 miles long and could eventually be a full freeway con-

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Mrs. FDR 'Holding Own'

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who had been ill for a month, was described as "holding her own." yesterday.

The 78-year-old former First Lady is confined to bed in her Manhattan apartment. She is receiving nursing care in addition to daily visits by her doctor.

Mrs. Roosevelt entered a hospital Sept. 26 for what was then described as a routine checkup. Later it was reported that she had a lung infection and a form of anemia. She left the hospital Oct. 18.

De Gaulle Win Predicted

PARIS (UPI) — Political observers predicted today Gen. Charles de Gaulle will win 60 per cent of the vote in tomorrow's national referendum and remain as president.

They were confident France would not reject de Gaulle during a period of increasing world tension.

TEEN-AGE MISS — Darla Banks of Fresno smiled as she held back tears after being crowned "Miss Teen-Age America" in Dallas, Tex., last night. Darla, 16, is a brunette with brown eyes, five feet, four inches tall and weighs 120 pounds. (AP Wirephoto)

Ole Miss Make Up

OXFORD, Miss. (UPI)—University of Mississippi students who missed classes during the integration crisis will have to make up the work on their own.

The university academic council voted yesterday not to extend the current semester to make up for sparsely attended classes during Negro James Meredith's first week here.

"All classes continued to meet throughout the disturbance," a council member said. "The students are expected to make up work missed as they would with any other absence."

Lord Snowdown Ailing

LONDON (AP)—Lord Snowdon, 32, husband of Princess Margaret, today was reported suffering from a stomach complaint in a London hospital. He was admitted to the National Hospital for Nervous Diseases last night for what was officially described as a routine check. A hospital spokesman said Snowdon would be discharged either today or Sunday.

Firemen Die In Blaze

NEW YORK (UPI) — A two-story brick wall collapsed four minutes after a five-alarm fire had been declared under control last night, killing six firemen and injuring at least seven others.

The dead and injured were trapped on a corrugated metal shed attached to the blazing Sefu Fat and Soap Co. in the Maspeth section of the Borough of Queens.

The fire department said the common wall between the two structures collapsed and the firemen were crushed beneath the debris. Several others crawled to safety from under the rubble.

Escape In Berlin

BERLIN (UPI)—Nine East German refugees in two groups dodged the bullets of Communist border guards to escape into West Berlin during the night, Western authorities said today.

It was the biggest escape total in several weeks. West Berlin police said some of the refugees were out scrambling through barbed wire, but that none was wounded by bullets.

Traffic Death Record

CHICAGO (UPI)—More persons were killed on America's highways the first nine months of 1962 than ever before in a similar period, the National Safety Council reported yesterday.

The council said 29,600 persons died in traffic accidents during the period, an increase of 9 per cent over the 27,000 deaths recorded for the first nine months of 1961.

TV's 'Beulah' Dies

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Television's "Beulah"—veteran character actress Louise Beavers—died yesterday in Cedars of Lebanon Hospital, following a three-year illness.

In addition to portraying "Beulah" on the television series of the same name in the 1950s, Miss Beavers had been a movie actress for some 40 years.

She played the mother in the "Jackie Robinson Story" and appeared in such other films as "My Blue Heaven" — before talkies — and "Mr. Blandings Builds His Dream House."

Formerly a resident of Cincinnati, Miss Beavers became an actress at the age of 6.

Hoffa On Tour

The government calls its first witness Monday. The entire first week of the federal court trial was spent on a struggle over seating a jury, arguing motions and making opening statements.

Homecoming Queen

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — The reigning queen at the University of Colorado's homecoming this weekend is Mary Elizabeth Mothershed, 19, a Negro from Shreveport, La. She was chosen in a student election over five other finalists.

Benson Is Bircher

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—The eldest son of former Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson announced yesterday that he has been named John Birch Society coordinator for Utah—with his father's blessings.

Reed A. Benson, 34, who ran unsuccessfully this fall for the Republican nomination for U.S. congressman, said he joined the society after a year of investigation.

Students Suspended

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Six students were suspended from Florida State University yesterday for throwing Molotov cocktails at a Jewish fraternity house.

The soft drink bottles filled with gasoline were thrown from a car but missed Tau Epsilon Phi Fraternity's house. The students pleaded guilty to "a prank that got out of hand" and were ordered by the court to clean and paint the sidewalk, the house porch and the steps.

4 Die In Air Crash

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI)—A Strategic Air Command (SAC) reconnaissance aircraft crashed and burned early today while taking off on a routine mission from Kindley Field, Bermuda, SAC headquarters here announced. All four crewmen were killed.

CALIFORNIA CANDIDATES

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

California voters were assured today that the ballots they cast in the Nov. 6 election would be secret and untraceable.

Secretary of State Frank Jordan made a public statement on the secrecy of the ballot because, he said, his office had received numerous telephone calls from persons who were "alarmed by intimidation rumors that marked ballots can be traced."

"There is no way for any person other than a voter to know how he has marked his ballot," said Jordan. "Although each ballot has a serial number, the stub showing such number is removed and handed to the voter at the time his or her ballot is dropped into the ballot box."

In the gubernatorial phase of the campaign, Gov. Edmund G. Brown cut off his activities to fly to Washington, D.C., and attend a governors' conference on civil defense in connection with the Cuba crisis.

Roger Kent of Kentfield, Northern California chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, and Mrs. Elizabeth Gatov, also of Kentfield, former U.S. treasurer, charged there is "a skillfully planned and massively conducted campaign to smear Governor Brown as a left-winger, a pro-Communist and a Red-appeaser. They sent a formal complaint to the bipartisan fair campaign practices committee. The committee said no action would be taken on the complaint until Monday.

Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel (R-Calif.), back on the re-election campaign trail after a quick trip to Washington for a briefing on Cuba, said he saw "some kind of hope that the Soviet Union will respond to this country's demand that it remove offensive weapons in Cuba."

State Sen. Richard Richards, said he was in "close touch" with the White House and predicted no war will result from the current Cuba situation. Richards charged Kuchel with "misusing the crisis to imply that he has the support of President John F. Kennedy. "I have the support of President Kennedy," said Richards.

Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk, Democratic candidate for re-election, stepped up the tempo of his campaign with two speeches scheduled today—before a united steelworkers rally in Los Angeles, and before an evening meeting of the brotherhood of railroad trainmen at Long Beach.

FOR A SNOW FORT — A pre-season snowfall makes backyard fun look like work for Teddy Aceto, 7, William Churchill, 7, Susan Kazilionis, 7, and her brothers, Paul, 5, and Stephen, 9, as they work at formation of a snow fort in Portland, Maine yesterday. Nation Shivers Under Snow

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Portions of the Northeast and northern Ohio began digging out from under more than a foot of snow today, unleashed by an autumn storm that snarled traffic and caused hazardous highway conditions.

Other parts of the nation shivered in near record low temperatures—and winter is still almost two months away.

The Northeast—specifically the New York and New England areas—and northern Ohio were covered by up to 13 inches of snow.

At least seven traffic deaths in New England were attributed to unfavorable highway conditions.

Several schools were closed and mammoth traffic jams were caused in northern Ohio, where 12 inches of snow pelted the area, mostly in the form of snow squalls.

The main traffic route between Cleveland and Akron, U.S. 21, was clogged for several hours yesterday with an estimated 2,000-3,000 stalled cars.

New York's rural snowbelts were exactly that as 13 inches covered the ground. Crisp cold weather accompanied the snow storms that covered parts of New England with 11 inches of snow.

Clearing during the night and early morning brought relief to most areas and clear skies replaced the snow-laden clouds. But the cold snap that hit many areas Friday with record low temperatures continued.

One of the coldest was the 15 degrees in Elkins, W. Va. Ashville, N.C., had 23, Raleigh 24 and Greensboro 25.

London, Ky., reported 19 and even Florida was chilled with 33 degrees in Cross City and 35 in Tallahassee.

The 30s and 40s were prevalent elsewhere in the East with some 50s along the immediate Gulf coast. The 40s and 50s spread over the area west of the Mississippi and the 50s were registered in Southern California and the bulk of Texas.

Financier Who Fled To Brazil Returning

NEW YORK (AP) — Financier Edward Gilbert, who fled to Brazil when shortages of nearly two million dollars turned up in his firm, will return to the United States Monday to face federal and state charges, his attorney said today.

The lawyer, Arnold Bauman, has made several trips to Rio de Janeiro to confer with Gilbert. He said the former president of E. L. Bruce Co., Inc., will end his self-imposed exile in a country from which he could not be extradited.

Bauman said Gilbert will surrender to federal authorities on charges of making unauthorized withdrawals from the Bruce firm, the nation's leading maker of hardwood flooring.

Gilbert resigned the Bruce presidency June 12 when the firm's board of directors learned of his action. He fled to Brazil that same day.

Later, in Rio, the fugitive New York financier told newsmen he had taken the funds solely to help Bruce gain control of Celotex Corp., a manufacturer of building materials.

He explained that he had put up all his Bruce and Celotex holdings as collateral on Celotex stock. When the stock market collapsed, he said, he had to put up money to satisfy his creditors and so delved into the Bruce funds.

Federal and state grand juries returned indictments against Gilbert after he fled the country. The federal charges alone provide up to 74 years in prison and fines totaling $82,000.

He is accused of misappropriating Bruce funds, and using the mails and wires for fraudulent purposes.

Corte Madera Firemen: No Banner Day

The town of Corte Madera has cracked down on an eight-year-old tradition by ordering the Corte Madera volunteer fire department to remove a 15-foot long illegal banner.

The banner hangs across Tamalpais Drive near the Corte Madera recreation center to advertise the firemen's ball Nov. 10.

Town building inspector William McBride wrote the fire department that the banner "is not permitted and does not come within the provisions of the zoning ordinance."

McBride said the town clerk wrote him that "Rev. Gerald Moyer protests the banner across Tamalpais Drive as on July 16, 1962, the town council denied him a similar privilege." Moyer, pastor of the Corte Madera First Baptist Church, had applied to hang a banner in the same area to advertise a Baptist convention.

Town Mgr. Arthur M. Brandow backed up the building inspector's order telling firemen:

"If the sign is not down by Monday morning I will have town forces cut it down."

Yell Leader Trial Raises Legal Point

Ken Robin, head yell leader at Tamalpais High School, was tried in impeachment proceedings yesterday by the student congress; but on conclusion of the trial it was uncertain whether he would be removed from office.

The question was raised as to whether impeachment is provided under the student constitution, which sets forth rules for recall but not impeachment.

The judicial council met after the hearing to try to decide the legality but took no action, postponing decision to Monday.

Secret ballots were cast by the student congress members as to whether senior classman Robin should be removed for an "act unbecoming an officer" on campus Oct. 16. However, this vote is to be effective only if proceedings are held legal. Its result was kept secret pending the judicial council's decision.

The students initiated impeachment proceedings under the recall section of their constitution. Robin, meantime, was suspended by school officials for infraction of campus rules. He is to return to classes Monday.

Greg Corey, judicial chairman, opened the meeting by asking everyone to stand and give the pledge of allegiance to the American flag on the wall.

Corey then said the defendant had admitted the charge and the student congress was to decide on whether he should keep his office.

Corey acted as judge, Jerry Dreyfus as defense attorney, and Steve Long and Roddy Pinto as prosecution attorneys. The congress of about 60 students sat as the jury on tiered seats for the orderly hearing in room 52 of Keyser Hall.

Dreyfus told the students, "I do not feel it would be just to take away his elected office for this 'misconduct'."

A jurist asked, "Is this trying to determine the punishment or whether he has broken a rule of the school?"

Corey replied, "There is no set rule in the constitution which outlines the conduct of an officer." He explained that impeachment is removal from office for not doing one's moral duty, recall for not doing one's job.

Vice Principal Charles Crawford told the judge that 160 persons had signed a petition for an impeachment hearing. It was reported the signatures were verified.

"In the constitution there is no provision made for impeachment trials," said Brock Allen, who is on the judicial council.

"Are you a member of the student congress?" asked Bill Rice, student body president. "No," Allen answered. "Sit down," said Rice.

Student adviser Cyril Beattie then said he thought the judicial council should interpret the constitution.

John Johnson suggested a vote be taken and that the judicial council review the constitution later for its legality as to impeachment. This was put into a motion and was carried. Allen then suggested that results of the vote not be released until after the judicial council met.

In addition to the student congress, Tamalpais High has a student court which holds court twice a week at lunch hour. It tries students for such offenses as walking across the lawn, smoking on campus, or littering campus.

Nine College of Marin coeds have been nominated for queen of the annual homecoming celebration next week.

The event will have an international theme. Foreign flags will be flown on the campus in honor of the students from abroad, said counselor Wanda Glass, who is working with the Associated Students and the Inter-Club Council in arranging the events.

Nominees for queen were introduced at a student rally in Olney Hall. The girls and the groups sponsoring them:

Sue Jacobs, 17, of Mill Valley, Atheniums; Karen Hopkins, 17, of San Rafael, Pep Club; Darby Stevens, 18, of San Rafael, Associated Women Students; Irene Lunding, 18, of San Rafael, International Relations Club; Mikel Devine, 19, of Petaluma, Engineers Club; Jean Shekel, 17, of San Rafael, Block M Club; Cecily Merrill, 18, Art Club; Kathleen Lonsford, 19, Corte Madera, football team; Thelma Le Glynn Wilkes, 19, Mill Valley, public relations club.

On Tuesday, students will ballot to pick five finalists. Wednesday they will vote to select the queen; the four runners-up will be princesses. The queen will receive her crown from college President Stephen E. Epler at a rally at 12:20 p.m. Thursday in Olney Hall. Charles Lampkin, motion picture and television singer, actor and musical director, will entertain at the rally.

The same day at 5 p.m. a car parade will leave the campus, with a trophy awaiting the driver of the best decorated vehicle. The car caravan will go via College Avenue and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard over Wolfe Grade to D Street and then Second Street, San Rafael, then along the Miracle Mile to Drake Boulevard in San Anselmo and back to the campus.

A bonfire will be built at the baseball diamond at 7 p.m. There will be a "mixer" in the cafeteria at 9 p.m.

Friday at 8 p.m. on the college field, the College of Marin football team will play the homecoming game with Napa Junior College.

The final event of the weekend will be the homecoming dance starting at 10 p.m. Saturday in the gymnasium, with music by the Owens Dance Band.

Olema Sundberg Inn Sold, Changing Name

The Sundberg Inn at Olema, operated for 19 years by Mrs. Stella Sundberg, has been sold to Clay Wright, formerly of Walnut Creek.

Wright, who has been a construction equipment salesman, said he is changing the name to the Farmhouse and will operate it as a bar and cocktail lounge. He expects to serve a limited food menu on Friday nights and Saturday and Sunday.

He said the inn has a large dining room and kitchen and he hopes by next spring to serve lunches and dinners. He plans on extensive but gradual remodeling of the premises. An adjoining one-acre lot has been leased for parking with possible usage later for picnics and barbecues.

The Farmhouse will be open seven days a week from 10 a.m. until late at night. On weekends it will remain open to 2 a.m.

Mrs. Sundberg, now on vacation, is expected to continue making her home in Olema.

Fairfax Lutherans Set Two Meetings

Two stewardship meetings at Christ the Victor Lutheran Church in Fairfax have been scheduled for November by the Partnership in the Gospel Committee of the church, co-chairmen Carl Carlsen and Donald Jessup announced.

The Nov. 2 meeting will begin at 8 p.m. and will consist of a Bible study led by Rev. John T. Rotto. A loyalty dinner will be held on Nov. 9 at 7:30 p.m. at which Dr. Hunter Smith, a Lutheran medical missionary from Nigeria will speak.

Harvest Dinner Set

St. Cecilia's Catholic Church, Lagunitas, will hold its annual harvest dinner Nov. 3 at 7 p.m. with games and an auction to highlight the activities.

Music Program At Episcopal Church

The first in a series of music appreciation evenings at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, 1123 Court Street, San Rafael, will begin tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the Parish Hall.

The family nights on Dec. 2, Feb. 24, and Marche 31, in addition to tomorrow night, are designed to lead to a wider appreciation for types of music used in the liturgy. Barrett Mineah, director of music at St. Paul's, will conduct the series.

Christian Science Lecture Tomorrow

"The Healing Mission of Christian Science" will be the topic of a lecture by Naomi Price of London, a member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship, at 3 p.m. tomorrow at the Outdoor Art Clubhouse, Throckmorton and West Blithedale avenues, Mill Valley. Her talk is being sponsored by the First Church of Christian Science of Mill Valley.

Civil Defense Questions Answered

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Director Allan K. Jonas of the California Disaster Office gave these answers to what he called the most frequently asked questions about civil defense:

At the same time, he urged people to stay "calm and self-disciplined and at the same time seek information for making family emergency plans in case they are ever necessary."

He said there has been no indication from federal authorities the state should embark on a crash civil defense program but if it does, the people will be informed immediately.

1. Where can I get information? Local civil defense offices or local government agencies.

2. What foods should I store? Two weeks supply of foods that don't need refrigeration, don't spoil easily and do not have to be cooked. Special diet foods and infant supplies should be kept on hand.

3. Is there anything else needed? Water in cans or sealed non-breakable containers, seven gallons a person. Radios, first aid kit, medical handbook, battery radio, eating utensils, tools, toilet facilities, blankets, time pieces, maps.

4. Where are shelters? Local defense officials can tell you.

5. What about children in school? The schools all have civil defense plans.

6. What about evacuation? In general, stay put and find the best shelter available.

7. Are any good pamphlets available? "Fallout Protection" and other pamphlets are available at local civil defense offices.

8. Is there any quick way to build shelters? Your civil defense office can supply you with shelter construction information.

Professor Says Castro Supported

STANFORD (UPI)—A Stanford University professor of Latin American history said yesterday that Fidel Castro "still has the firm support of the young people of Cuba."

Prof. John J. Johnson, appearing on a campus panel, warned, "if the United States plans an invasion of Cuba, it must anticipate a bloodbath even if conventional weapons are used."

He said Cubans would bitterly resist any American move against the island nation.

Losses From Storm Might Be Deductible

Residents of Marin County who suffered property damage from the recent storm can deduct casualty losses on federal income tax returns under certain conditions, it was announced today.

Joseph M. Cullen, director of internal revenue for the San Francisco District, said deductible casualty losses include loss of property resulting from fire, storm, flood, automobile accident or similar events. A deductible casualty loss can result from an identifiable event of a sudden or unusual nature.

$150,000 Suit Filed In Car Death

A young mother and her 2-year-old daughter are suing for $150,000 damages for the auto accident death of their husband and father in San Rafael a year ago.

Jeanne Marie Watson and her daughter, Sheri Denise, filed the suit yesterday in Marin Superior Court for the death of Thomas Duane Watson, 20, of Marin Town and Country Club in Fairfax. Watson died in a two-car crash at B and Bayview streets in San Rafael on Nov. 25, 1961.

Watson and Larry Raymond Blankenship, 18, of San Rafael, were passengers in a car driven by Ronald Sauer, 20, of 103 La Brea Street, San Rafael. Both Watson and Blankenship died from injuries when their car clipped a fender of another car and hit a tree.

Named as defendant in the suit is the driver of the other car, Larry Francis Kenyon, 19, of 103 La Brea Street, San Rafael.

According to San Rafael police, Sauer tried to pass Kenyon's vehicle and went into a skid. Sauer's vehicle crashed with the fender of the other car, then slammed into a tree.

Drake Seniors Selling Subscriptions For Ball

Sir Francis Drake High School's seniors are selling magazine subscriptions on the campus in San Anselmo to help finance the Senior Ball and other activities.

Those who sell most subscriptions will get prizes which include a transistor radio, bongo drums, stuffed animals and others.

Sen. Kuchel Arrives In Marin Monday

Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel is scheduled to arrive in downtown San Rafael at 9:30 a.m. Monday to begin a day of re-election campaigning in Marin.

Plans for a breakfast for the senator at the Edgewater Inn in Corte Madera at 7:30 a.m. and an appearance at the Woodlands Restaurant in Kentfield have been cancelled, Kuchel's Northern California headquarters announced today.

The Republican senator, who is opposed on the Nov. 6 ballot by State Sen. Richard Richards, Los Angeles Democrat, will visit the county courthouse at 10:15 a.m.

From 11 a.m. to noon, there will be a reception for Kuchel at the Mill Valley Tennis Club, hosted by the People-for-Kuchel organization.

Course In Christian Arts Starts Tuesday

A six-week course on Christian art will be held, starting Tuesday, at 8 p.m. in Scott Hall of San Francisco Theological Seminary, San Anselmo.

Jane D. Karlin, a recent lecturer at Drew University who received a Rockefeller Foundation grant to study in Europe, will conduct the course. She is the wife of Dr. John Dillenberger, professor of Historical Theology and dean of graduate studies at the seminary.

The course, offered by the Layman's School of Religion, will trace the Christian faith as reflected by art from Byzantine art to the present.

Lutheran Services Note Reformation

Two Lutheran churches in Marin County have announced services tomorrow commemorating Martin Luther's posting his 95 thesis to the church door at Wittenberg on Oct. 31, 1517.

The event is considered the beginning of the Protestant Reformation.

Rev. Robert Goeser, professor of Historical Theology at Pacific Lutheran Theological Seminary, will preach the 11 a.m. festival service at Faith Lutheran Church, Terra Linda.

A service of worship commemorating the Reformation will be held at the 11 a.m. service of Grace Lutheran Church, at 1787 Grant Avenue, Novato.

In addition, a joint service by Bay Area Lutheran churches will be held in Grace Cathedral in San Francisco at 3 p.m.

Unitarians Install Own Minister

Members of the Unitarian-Universalist Church of Marin County will conduct their own ceremonial welcome for their new minister, Rev. Karel F. Botermans, tomorrow at the 11 a.m. service in the auditorium of the Tamalpais Centre Women's Club, Kentfield.

Representing their fellow members, four persons who serve on the board of directors of the church will deliver the charge to the minister who will respond. New members will be welcomed into the church following Boterman's formal installation.

Those who will deliver the charge to the minister and congregations are Raymond Loen, president of the Pacific Central District for the denomination; Stephen Kaufman, for the local membership; Mrs. Edward Pierce, for the children and youth; and Fred Gunsky, for the church's outreach in the community. Scott Nicoll, president of the board, will deliver the charge to the congregation.

Novato Church Raising Money

Funds for construction of a multi-purpose building for the Novato Community Methodist Church total more than $13,000, according to Lee Wise, chairman of the fund raising committee.

The funds collected represent contributions from one-fifth of the families who are members of the church. Wise made his report at a recent meeting of the church membership.

Tomorrow at the 11 a.m. worship service new members will be received into the church. At the 7:30 p.m. service Rev. Warren W. Peters will show slides of his trip to Japan in 1960.

Billy Graham Film

"Shadow of the Boomerang," a Billy Graham film, will be shown at the First Baptist Church of San Anselmo on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Officials To Speak At Dinner

A civic testimonial dinner to honor the Rt. Rev. Daniel McAlister, administrator of St. Raphael's Church and a recently appointed monsignor of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of San Francisco, will be held Nov. 8.

The dinner, planned "in appreciation and acknowledgement of Monsignor McAlister's high position of leadership and of his contributions to the welfare of so many," will start at 7 p.m. at Dominic's Harbor Restaurant, San Rafael. About 500 are expected to attend.

Richard A. McGee, head of the State Department of Corrections, and San Rafael Mayor John F. McInnis, will speak. The monsignor worked with McGee when he served as chaplain at San Quentin Prison before being named administrator at the church.

Louis Freitas of San Rafael will act as master of ceremonies, and Monsignor John McGarr, dean of the county, is expected to attend the dinner in a rare public appearance, according to Earl Grady, in charge of arrangements.

The main committee for the dinner includes Harry Albert, Walter Castro and John F. McInnis, all of San Rafael, and Jack Craemer of Greenbrae.

St. Raphael's choir will sing during the evening.

Tickets may be purchased through Mrs. Arthur V. Fay at 10 East Mission Avenue, San Rafael, the reservation chairman, or from the Mission Gift Shop or the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce.

Jewish Adult Forum

The fourth in a series of eight Adult Forums, sponsored by Congregation Rodef Sholom, will be held at the temple at 170 North San Pedro Road, Santa Venetia, Wednesday at 8:15 p.m. Guest speaker will be Rabbi Elihu J. Steinhorn of Congregation Beth Jacob in Oakland who will speak on "An Orthodox View of Torah."

NOT ALL BAD

Religion In Suburbia May Be Missionary Challenge

By LOUIS CASSELS

To find any signs of health and vitality in suburbia is a very unfashionable thing to do these days. It's getting so you can hardly pick up a church periodical without encountering a Jeremiad against the "materialism," "parochialism" and "shallowness" of suburban Christianity.

It is a little startling, therefore, to find the Rev. Mr. MacGill saying boldly in the Living Church Magazine:

"Despite the prophets of suburban doom, the church is still mediating Christ's salvation . . . even in status heights. And it is doing so remarkably well, in my opinion.

The Rev. MacGill served until recently as vicar of what he describes as an "arch-typical" suburban parish — the Episcopal Church of the Nativity, Indianapolis, Ind. He is now on the staff of the National Council of the Episcopal Church.

He acknowledges that the average suburban congregation is far from being the dedicated body of Christian disciples that it ought to be. But with all of its shortcomings, suburban Christianity is not as "dreary and foolish" as its critics paint it.

In suburbia, the Rev. MacGill says, "The gospel is being proclaimed and received by men and women who want badly to know that there is Good News with power to save.

"The historic creeds are staking out blazing areas of eternal truth for lonely, transient and skeptical folk whose uniformly college - educated minds still clamor for the few simple certainties of life.

"The food and drink of the Eucharist are penetrating the lives of worldlings who know acutely what it is to hunger and thirst in the midst of cocktail-and-cookout plenteousness."

Instead of scorning suburbia as a wasteland of Pharisaism, the Episcopal minister says, churches should recognize that it "may well be the greatest missionary challenge to Christianty in America today."

From his own ministry in the suburbs, the Rev. MacGill has clarned two lessons which he commends to all clergymen who are assigned to this "missionary" frontier.

The first is that "suburbanites do not need the church for picnics, parties and the like . . . they have their own resources for leisure and recreation."

"The effort spent in so many churches on organized outings and social affairs is an essential waste," he says, because it merely provides another opportunity for human relationships on an "artificial level."

"What people want is the chance to know other Christians in some depth. Adult study programs of an unabashedly religious nature—and especially those with lay leadership—are the obvious alternative."

The second lesson is that "suburbanites are painfully self-conscious Christians because, despite their high level of book-learning, they are essentially ignorant about the Christian religion."

"Too often we ask a church member to accomplish the impossible task of being a Christian without giving him basic instruction in what Christianity is all about.

"In the transient world of suburbia, a terrifying number have never had that introduction. They do not know the Bible. They don't know why the Church is as it is, and does as it does. And they are ashamed and self-conscious because they don't know."

His remedy—which worked wonders for the Church of the Nativity at Indianapolis—is to provide adults as well as children with systematic, basic instruction in the "content of the Christian faith."

To provide this instruction, the Church of the Nativity worked out an "unshamedly old-fashioned curriculum" in which the Bible was the principal textbook.

"Modern religious educators will probably scream," says the Rev. MacGill, "but this was the moment when these suburban Christians began to lose their self-consciousness and to become properly conscious of Holy God."

"I am convinced that there is a major key to the life of the church in suburbia."

Novatan Conducts Stake Conferences

Elder Sterling W. Sill, an assistant to the Council of Twelve Apostles of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, will preside over a quarterly conference of the Santa Rosa Stake today and tomorrow in Petaluma.

General sessions of the conference will be conducted tomorrow at 10 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. by stake president Weston Lawrence Roe of Novato. Elder Glen L. Rudd, a member of the church's general welfare staff, will accompany Sill to the conference.

'If Going To Wear Jewelry, Wear Jewelry,' Says Designer

By GAY PAULEY
UPI WOMEN'S EDITOR

NEW YORK (UPI) — The standard, and safe, jewel accessory of two or three-strand pearls throws Arthur King into a tizzy.

King, bearded specialist in off-beat jewelry designs, finds the traditional in jewelry "dull, most boring. If you're going to wear jewelry, wear jewelry.

"Gold, for instance, I think of gold as a rough, nuggety, heavy metal . . . I resent gold made thin. Why rob it of its richness?

"Jewelry is savage, pagan. Man wore jewelry before he wore clothes. We've thought too long of jewelry in a velvet-cushioned, gilt-framed setting.

"I love to work with baroque pearls . . . never change their shapes. A diamond has to be cut. I'll do diamonds of course, but I won't put them in those 'claw' settings just so a woman can show how much money instead of taste she has."

King's designs, made by him and 25 other goldsmiths, all are one of a kind. They have a sculptured, rugged look — "they move," said King.

"I won't make sets of things," he said. "I won't even match earrings. We live in a mechanical, regimented age. The part of one toaster fits another. That may be all right for toasters, but not for jewelry. Each gem calls for its own setting.

King's theory that jewelry should have "virility" has brought him such customers as Lena Horne ("she has a fabulous collection"), Elizabeth Taylor ("Mike Todd used to buy for her"), Van Johnson (cuff links), Pierre Balmain, the Paris couturier (cuff links, gifts for customers), and assorted European royalty, he said.

Customers can spend $35 for a wedding band, go on up to the $1,000's for brooches, bracelets and rings. He currently is working on a white and yellow gold chess set with gem-studded chessmen. It will cost about $200,000, he said, and has been commissioned by a doner who plans to give it to a British museum.

Born 41 years ago in Los Angeles, Calif., King did radio and road show acting until World War II when he joined the Merchant Marine.

"I always had an interest in metalwork," he said. "I used to haunt museums looking at armor. In the Merchant Marine, there often were long stretches to kill . . . I began to fool around with metal and stones."

After the war, he opened a small shop in New York, but eventually closed it to move operations to Miami and Havana, Cuba.

"I grew this long before Castro had his," said King, fingering a heavy dark thatch of whiskers.

When Castro came to power in Cuba, King's two Havana shops were confiscated, he said. He moved to his Miami adjunct. He and his wife have a home at Cocoanut Grove, Fla. King said he was his own architect and his love for the unusual shows in use of old coral, marble and tiles salvaged from a hotel which in turn had gathered materials from an ancient Spanish monastery.

Now reopening in New York, King's shop reflects his rebellion against that velvet-cushioned look.

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

The Corinthian Yacht Club is having its final dance of the season tonight at the clubhouse. Guests are coming from many different yacht clubs in the Bay Area and Charles Weaver, chairman of the club's race committee, is awarding the trophies. Ninety-four winners will receive silver engraved bowls. Many yachtsmen vied for the Corinthian, Buckner and Tornberg trophies and for each there were several classes.

Tomorrow the mid-winter regatta will start. Among those at tonight's dance will be Commodore Robert Evans and his wife, W. Burbeck Johnson, port captain, and Mrs. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Thompson (she is president of the Women's Auxiliary of Corinthian Yacht Club) and her husband, the Charles Weavers, Donald Springsteds and Ted Steigers.

MR. AND MRS WILLIAM BRANTMAN are entertaining at a dinner Nov. 14 at their recently redecorated home in Tiburon. Their home has a wonderful view of the bay on which the deck fronts and the Brantmans hope the night of the dinner will be clear of fog.

HAPPY TO BE back in Marin are Huntley and Alice Bennett and their two daughters, Anne and Nancy, who were in Minneapolis, Minn. for a year and a half. The Bennetts, hoping to buy a house in Ross, were unsuccessful, so they have leased a house at Upper Toyon and Makin Grade. The children are back in the Ross School, renewing friendships. Huntley is now with Johnson and Lewis Advertising Agency in San Francisco. Alice, who was one of the most active members of Marin Unit of the Junior League, will resume her activities as soon as her home is settled. She says "We've been playing musical houses ever since we came back from Minneapolis." The family lived in different Ross houses while owners were vacationing.

A NEW ARRIVAL in the Ross home of the Howard Wilders (Nancy Phelps Wilson) is a son born Oct. 14 at St. Joseph's Hospital in San Francisco. He has been named Howard Andrew. He is the brother of Bill and Edward Wilder and grandson of Mrs. Louis Benoist of San Francisco. He is the half brother of Jill, Sally and Stephen Wilson and of Ann, Kim and Craig Wilder.

MRS. FRANCIS OWEN of Kent Woodlands and her daughters, Mrs. Edwin Schwartz (Elisa Escamilla) and Mrs. John Elwin (Roberta Escamilla) were among the staffers at the huge rummage sale at the Hall of Flowers in Golden Gate Park Thursday. It was a benefit for the Girls Recreation Club. Mrs. Owen worked in the shoe department and her daughters in notions. The crowd was huge, the sales stupendous and the workers mighty weary when the day was over.

MRS. LOUIS BABST of Mill Valley is taking reservations for the luncheon to be given by Sigma Alpha Iota alumnae on Nov. 3 at the luncheon at the home of Mrs. Paul Morton, 1530 Euclid Avenue, Berkeley. Miss Henrietta Keizer, Sunnyvale music supervisor, will report on the national triennial convention of the professional music fraternity for women held in Chicago. Following her report a musical program will be given.

SHARON ANN KANE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kane of San Rafael, was one of the freshmen receiving a student Nurse Cap in the traditional candlelight ceremony at Kaiser Foundation School of Nursing in Oakland.

MR. AND MRS. PAUL BISSINGER recently returned from five weeks in the Orient. They flew to Japan and Formosa. The Bissingers, who have a home in Kent Woodlands, are spending the winter in their San Francisco place.

Tamalpais Temple To Host District Convention Tuesday

Tamalpais Temple 129, Pythian Sisters, will be hostess to the District 6 convention here Tuesday, with the opening session scheduled for 1:30 p.m. at Odd Fellows Temple, San Rafael.

After Mrs. Harold Marple, district deputy grand chief, opens the meeting, Mrs. Louis Fischer of Olive Temple, Santa Barbara, who is grand chief of the grand jurisdiction (state president), will make her official visit.

Other state officials who will accompany her are Mrs. Clarence Hood of Oakland, grand senior; and Mrs. Herbert Hickman of Tamalpais Temple, grand protector.

At 5:30 p.m. a dinner will be served to the delegation at the temple.

The evening session will be opened by Mrs. Russel Stahl, most excellent chief of Tamalpais Temple. After introduction of guests, the initiatory ceremony will be exemplified by officers of District 6. A 12 member degree staff with Mrs. Harry Murch as captain will assist.

Ballet Aquacade Branch Elects New Officers

Mrs. Fred Enemark was re-elected chairman of the Ballet Aquacade Branch of the Marin General Hospital Auxiliary at a meeting held at Peacock Golf and Country Club Tuesday.

Mrs. William Upton was chosen as treasurer and Mrs. Jane Pike, secretary.

At the meeting Mrs. Fred Drexler, president of Marin General Hospital Auxiliary, introduced branch chairmen, Mrs. William Pemberton and Mrs. Sam Schonwasser, and public relations chairman, Mrs. Harrison Leppo.

Chairmen of the annual Ballet Aquacade held last June gave their reports and recommendations and a discussion of next year's Aquacade was held. Mrs. Ralston Hodgson, production director and choreographer, gave a brief outline of the 18th Ballet Aquacade to be held in June, 1963.

HANLEY

If the impaired vision of Orlando Cepeda's right eye had not been accidently discovered during a routine renewal of the Bull's automobile driver's license, would his blurred vision been uncovered at all? Ultimately, of course, it would have. But would it have been discovered before the 1963 baseball season?

The Giants pride themselves on running a meticulous organization. Yet, the organization has no detailed health charts on its baseball players except those dispatched to doctors for obviously needed medical repairs. And even in injury cases, such as twisted ankles, insteps or knees, there is only limited diagnosis of the ailing area—not a complete medical checkup.

Joe Pignatano, the old Dodger catcher who came to the Giants last January by way of Kansas City, called this to our attention before the Giants sent him to the Mets. Pignatano didn't make a particular point of the issue. It just happened to come out during a conversation in which we asked Joe to compare the Giant and Dodger operations.

"I'VE BEEN with the Giants such a brief time that I don't know too much about them," said Pignatano. "But I was surprised when I reported to spring training that I wasn't directed to a doctor for a complete checkup. That's the first order of business with the Dodgers."

Pignatano then cited the cases of several Dodgers who would have taken latent hernias and other ailments onto the ball field except for exhaustive, precautionary medical checkups.

"THE DODGERS," said Pignatano, "are fully aware that some ball players will try to saddle a club with all of their medical expenses. However, Buzzie Bavasi (Dodger general manager) feels this is the lesser of two evils, the greater evil being the possible collapse of a key player in midseason from a hidden ailment."

WE FORGOT all about our talk early in the season with Pignatano until Willie Mays collapsed in Cincinnati during the last road trip of the Giants. Then, we told Chub Feeney about it. The vice president of the Giants replied that Mays would undergo a complete checkup after the season, one that Willie should be getting any day now.

But what about Cepeda and the other members of the ball club?

Mariners Pick Up Fifth Straight Win This Year

by PAUL MILLER

The 49ers were clobbered last night .

The Yuba College 49ers, that is, by coach Dick Read's undefeated College of Marin Tars at Kentfield. The 28-6 victory, gave the Mariners their fifth straight win this season and their seventh straight, with last year's carryovers. Marin is now 2-0 in the Golden Valley Conference.

The Tars cranked off their TDs to the count of one in the first period, two in the second period and a final in the third. Yuba scored after a series of pass plays in the second quarter.

Marin quarterback Curtis Embry, halfback Ray Edwards and fullback Scott Moriarty were the Tars' point making trio in the contest. Marin used Moriarty to throw a hard right TD hook to Yuba following a 90-yard assault after the opening kickoff.

Marin's defense didn't fool around last night, Jim Londsford, 190-pound back, was knocking off Yuba ball carriers as if they were rubber highway markers. The six-foot veteran made a spectacular interception at the Marin goal line in the fourth period. Other standouts on defense were back Cusimano, and lineman Bob Ruzick, Don Ippolito, and Frank Gallardo.

QUICK START

Moriarty got the point makers' club off to a start after Marin's 90-yard march in that first quarter. Big Scott went over his own left guard spot on a third-down-and-goal situation with six minutes left in the period. This first tally and the next one early in the second period were set up by Embry-Jim Lucas pass plays. The Marin quarterback hit end Lucas with a 25-yard aerial to place the ball in striking position at the Yuba 24 in the first period and in the second quarter a 45-yard pass to Lucas put the leather on the Yuba eight yard line. From there on the subsequent play, Embry ripped around his own right end to give Marin a 12-0 advantage. The PAT attempts were failures on both touchdowns.

Yuba's only digits came late in the second quarter after 49er quarterback Dick Hoffman let fly a long one to back Jim Clegg for 38 yards from the Yuba 15; on the next play flipped a 19 yarder to hard playing fullback Del Thornsberry, and on the next down at the Marin 25 yard line handed off to Yuba's Archie Noreiga. The 152-pound driver went in for the score over his own left guard. A PAT pass from back Manuel Luna to end Cliff Hanks gave the 49ers their next two points.

Three plays after the Yuba kickoff, Marin's Embry hit Ron Cole with a screen pass, and thanks to a key block by guard Don Burrows, rumbled on to the Yuba 48. From that mark, on a second and nine situation, Embry excellently and with precise timing dropped a short pass over Yuba defenders and into the hands of Ray Edwards, who was at the sidelines and about eight yards out. Edwards, a springtime thinclad outclassed six 49ers along the sidelines. He scored standing up.

The Tars finally succeeded in a PAT attempt with an Embry-Lucas pass combination.

INTERCEPTION

With the score 20-8 for Marin at the outset of the second half, Marin's veteran end, Bill Buffalow let the air out of any hopes Yuba's coach may have built during the intermission. Buffalow picked off a pass by 49er field boss Hoffman at the Yuba 26. On the next play, Marin's Embry fired a long jump pass on a right end option to end Randy Petrini. Petrini made an equally skillful catch as he was brought down hard at the Yuba two yard line. Marin's mauler Moriarty halftracked around his own right end for the game's last TD. Moriarty, still hungry, picked up the maximum PAT points on a rumble around the opposite end.

49ers Battle Rams

By JACK STEVENSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Los Angeles Rams, facing the prospect of their worst season in the National Football League, invade San Francisco tomorrow to battle the 49ers at Kezar Stadium.

Odds favor the home club by two touchdowns yet 49er coach Red Hickey gives the impression of a worried man.

"You can throw out the odds and you can throw out past performances when these two teams meet," says Hickey. "This is a rivalry you can be sure will bring out the best in both teams."

The Rams have hit a low mark with six straight league losses. Reports have the job of Coach Bob Waterfield in jeopardy—some even going so far as to say he's out if the Rams don't win this one.

When the clubs met in their pre-season battle, the 49ers won 19-3 and are 3-3 in league play.

Los Angeles hasn't scored a touchdown in Kezar since 1958 and physically the 49ers appear in better shape.

A crowd of 50,000 is expected at the 1:30 p.m. kickoff.

Hickey made no changes in his starting lineup except to send Bobby Gaiters, the former New York Giant, into the left halfback position replacing injured Billy Kilmer. Billy may play but his status is doubtful.

PREP SCORES 68 POINTS IN ONE GAME

BARDSTOWN, Ky. (AP)—Herbie Phelps of Old Kentucky Home High School became the highest scorer in state prep football history with a 68-point single game performance last night.

He streaked for 10 touchdowns and scored eight extra points as his team beat Aquinas Prep of Louisville 75-6. His scoring runs included jaunts of 79, 60 and 55 yards. He carried the ball 20 times and gained 392 yards.

Giants Tell Stockholders Good News

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (UPI)—The parent firm of the San Francisco Giants has reported to its annual stockholders meeting that the National League champs struck it rich at the box office as well as on the baseball diamond.

Horace Stoneham, president of the National Exhibition Co., said that the season was the most financially successful since the company was organized to operate the Giants in 1891.

The stockholders meeting was held in the law offices of O'Mara, Schuman, David and Lynch here. About 20 persons were present. Stoneham, president of the parent firm since 1936, was unanimously re-elected.

GG DAILY DOUBLE PAYS $3,299

Cadets Passes Defeat Deaf Gridders, 14-0

The sharp-shooting pass combination of quarterback Lonnie Matthews to wingback Roger Ulrich struck twice for touchdowns yesterday as the San Rafael Military Academy Cadets blanked the California School for Deaf, 14-0, at Berkeley.

Matthews hit Ulrich for five yards in the second quarter and did an encore for 14 yards in the third period. Gary Smith kicked conversions after both scores.

The win lifted SRMA into a second place tie with Lick-Wilmerding and CSD in the Bay Counties Athletic League, each with a 2-1 record. St. Vincent's of Petaluma is on top with a 2-0 mark.

Matthews hit 10 for 19 passes yesterday for 103 yards, bringing his season total to 35 for 69 for 590 yards and four touchdowns.

Crucial Contest Slated Tomorrow In Warner Grid

The first place Terra Linda Junior Trojans will battle second place Novato in the top Marin Pop Warner football game tomorrow when the two teams meet at 2 p.m. on the Novato High School field.

In other Pop Warner contests tomorrow, the Mill Valley Junior Indians will clash with the San Anselmo Junior Pirates at 10:30 a.m. on the Strawberry Recreation Feld and the San Rafael Junior Bulldogs take on the Redwood Junior Giants at 2 p.m. at College of Marin stadium.

After the league ends, the Marin All-Star game will feature the stars from Terra Linda, Novato and San Rafael against the stars from San Anselmo, Redwood and Mill Valley in a contest Nov. 17 at College of Marin stadium.

Ralph E. Peters Jr. of the Marin Boys Club announced, in addition, the winner of the Marin league has been invited to play in the San Diego Pop Warner Football Bowl in December.

San Rafael Frosh Gridders Win 13-6

The San Rafael frosh footballers whipped the frosh gridders of Redwood High School Thursday, 13-6. Scoring touchdowns for San Rafael were Rocky Shone and Tom Gagan. Vance Salhea scored the lone Redwood TD. The victory gave San Rafael a 2-1 record.

Builders Battle Alameda 'Sports'

The Billings-Hutchison Builders will battle the Alameda Sports Goods team tomorrow at 1 p.m. in Alameda's Washington Park.

The Builders hold a 2-2 record in the rough Alameda Winter League. The starting lineup for the Builders will be:

Laver, Emerson Top Prospects For Cup

BRISBANE (AP) —Rod Laver and Roy Emerson became the top prospects for the Australian Davis Cup challenge round doubles when they beat Wimbledon champions Fred Stolle and Bob Hewitt 6-3, 6-1, 6-2 in the final of the Queensland doubles tennis championships today.

Three major state titles are still to be contested and the winning pair of these doubles is expected to represent Australia in the challenge round here Dec. 26-28.

Cocky 'Hurricane' Meets Fernandez In TVer Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — Rubin "Hurricane" Carter, a cocky newcomer from Paterson, N.J., feels the middleweight division's top 10 needs some new blood. He is firmly convinced he can make the rankings by spilling some from Florentino Fernandez' nose tonight.

The two clash in a television (ABC-TV, 7 p.m., PDT) 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden.

Although he is unranked and a pro only 13 months, the mustachioed Carter is rated only a slim, 6-5 underdog to the experienced, fifth ranking, displaced Cuban.

The reason for the narrow odds are Carter's powerful left hook and the battering Florentino's nose has absorbed in the past 10 months.

Carter, 25, has a 12-2 record, including 10 knockouts. When he connects with his left hook it usually means goodnight for his opponents.

Fernandez, noted for the power in his own left hook, has a 31-5 record, including 25 knockouts. This year he has nosed into plenty of trouble.

Detroit Tigers Whip Tokyo '9'

TOKYO (AP) — The Detroit Tigers opened a 17-game baseball barnstorming tour of Japan today by shellacking the Daimai Orions from Tokyo 12-1. Jim Bunning held the Japanese to four hits.

A crowd of 25,000 in the new Tokyo Stadium watched the American Leaguers break out with an eight-run first inning.

The Orions, fourth place finishers in Japan's Pacific League, were just no match for the Tigers, who finished fourth in the AL in 1962.

Rodriguez Claims He Is Avoided

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Luis Rodriguez, top-ranked by the World Boxing Assn. as a welterweight contender, claimed today that champion Emile Griffith is avoiding him in signing for a Dec. 8 bout with fourth-ranked Jorge Fernandez.

Rodriguez wrote to Fred Aaronson of the Miami Beach Boxing Commission, a WBA member:

"I believe this match is a gross injustice to me, as I have been the top-rated contender for many months.

"I hope that you and your commission can get the winner of this fight to post a bond or cash forfeit so that he will have to fight me in 60 days."

Seals Stampede Calgary Skaters

EDMONTON, Alta. (AP) — San Francisco's rebounding Seals can move into undisputed possession of first place in the Western Hockey League's Southern Division with a win over Edmonton tonight.

The Seals ran roughshod over Calgary's Stampeders last night, 6-1, bringing their record to 4-5 and 8 points to tie the idle Los Angeles Blades, who also do not play today.

Last Night's Fights

ROME — Bout between Jesse Jones, Los Angeles, and Guiseppe Baiata, Italy, ruled no decision by referee who stopped match in sixth round and disqualified both fighters for not trying.

Lakers Open Home Season Tonight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers, who have won only one of their first five games in the National Basketball Assn. race, open their home season tonight in the Sports Arena against the Detroit Pistons. Detroit is winless.

"I have an idea we'll snap out of our slump in these four games we have at home," said Laker Coach Fred Schaus. "In our first three defeats we played well and a key basket here or there would have turned against Chicago, but we had been on the road 18 days, and it should do the team good to be home for a while."

Terra Linda Student Wins Hole-In-One

Craig Lentzinger, a student at Terra Linda High School, won first place in the Terra Linda Hole-In-One contest held last weekend, it was announced today.

Lentzinger got his ball seven inches from the hole which was 75 yards from the tee to win first prize of a $100 savings bond, top prize of 17 awards. Proceeds of the contest were to go to the bleachers fund at Terra Linda High School.

S.F. State Wins

DAVIS (AP) — Halfback Tom Manny ran 83 yards to a touchdown last night, giving the San Francisco State Gators their first Far Western Conference football victory this season, a 12-7 squeaker over previously undefeated University of California at Davis.

Tam Whips S.R. Bulldogs 21-0; Third Straight Victory

By RALPH CHATOIAN

The Tamalpais Indians are settling down to a pattern of scoring three touchdowns per game and not allowing any from the opposition.

They did it again last night as the warriors came out of their tepees long enough to invade the lair of the San Rafael Bulldogs and literally run off with a 21-0 victory.

It was the third victory without a defeat for Tam in the Marin Athletic League and kept alive their streak of shut out games. The Indians opened the season with a 19-0 victory over Marin Catholic and won their second game by whipping Terra Linda 20-0. In all three games, it has been a story of three touchdowns to zero.

And in all three games it has been a story of running and more running with the attack led by powerful Warren Domino.

Domino, the league's leading ground gainer, picked up 114 more yards last night to run his total to 311. He picked up his 114 yards in only eight carries for a fabulous 14.3 average.

The powerful Tam offense picked up a total of 291 yards rushing and passed only once but made it good for 34 yards.

And the rough Indian defense allowed only 28 yards from San Rafael's top back Mike Shafer, although the workhorse carried the leather 17 times.

Tam's first touchdown came early in the opening period on a drive made possible by a San Rafael fumble. On the second play of the game from scrimmage, San Rafael's John O'Donnell fumbled after picking up 10 yards making it to his own 45-yard line. Tam recovered and promptly ran seven plays in a 45-yard march which was hampered by a 15-yard penalty.

It was quarterback Cedric Collett who drove in the end zone from the one-yard line on a quarterback sneak. Domino added the extra point on a line smash.

Then in the second quarter the fighting Bulldogs started a drive going after picking up a Tam fumble on the San Rafael 35. San Rafael stuck to the ground and gained three first downs in a march which took the gridders to the Tam 18.

Then San Rafael quarterback Tom Zunino made the mistake of going to the air and the drive sputtered and died on the 18 after three straight incomplete passes.

After intermission, Tam came back to score a pair of touchdowns, one in the third quarter and another in the final stanza.

The third period score was a play which the Tam coaching staff would like to patent. It happened this way:

Domino started crashing through left guard from his own eight-yard line when the ball squirted out of his arms and started rolling towards the end zone where guard Donn Johnson scooped it up and fell across the goal for six points. It was only right to have halfback Don Johnston (sounds alike) run the extra point, giving Tam a 14-0 advantage.

Later that quarter San Rafael threatened by driving 56 yards in 13 plays to the Tam 10-yard line. But a four-yard loss by Zunino, a five-yard illegal procedure penalty and another nine-yard loss by the quarterback as he tried to move back for a pass pushed the ball back to the Tam 28 where the Indians took over.

The last Tam six-pointer was on a burst over left end by Domino from the three. He scored standing up as he shook off two tacklers. Domino added his eighth individual point as he ran in the extra point.

Drake, Marin Vie Tonight

Marin Catholic Wildcats hope to make their homecoming game a successful one tonight when they take on the Pirates of Drake High at 8 o'clock in College of Marin stadium.

The Marin Catholic line will be bolstered with the return of Hank Ryan from the disabled list, who will take over his starting spot at center. Another shift in the Wildcat line will see Chuck Clay start at left guard, replacing Joe Crotty, who will be used exclusively on defense.

Head Coach Doug Damaschino of Marin made some other shifts in his defense in an attempt to bolster his over-all attack. He said he will try to platoon more tonight than in the past. He also worked on strengthening his pass defense which has been too vulnerable.

In the offensive department, Damaschino and his staff went back to fundamentals in hopes of shaking up his offense. "We definitely will score against Drake," Damaschino declared. "Our offense has improved."

BOVARD HURT

Head grid mentor Bob Franceschini at Drake had only one change in his starting offensive alignment. Roger Bovard, one of the roughest tackles in the league, will not be able to play because of a shoulder injury suffered on the opening kickoff of last Friday's game against Redwood. Replacing Bovard will be 260-pound John Wallace.

The Drake gridders have been working on their running game to augment their passing attack which has produced 149 yards in their first three games.

Franceschini said he will use Mike Kemp at the running halfback position more this game because of his running ability. Kemp has been seeing duty at the quarterback spot, replacing good-throwing Hamish Tyler, who has passed for 119 yards. Kemp will be a threat on option plays.

RUNNING GAME

Drake's running game is paced by halfback Tom Tanzi who has picked up 169 yards and fullback Tom Kolbe who has rushed for 106 yards.

The starting offensive lineup for Marin Catholic:

EARLY HALLOWEEN — Walter Dukes of the Detroit Pistons, in face mask because of a broken nose, effectively screens off San Francisco's Ted Luckenbill during game last night at San Francisco between the Warriors and Pistons, while teammate Bailey Howell (18) makes a basket in spite of the long-reaching Wilt Chamberlain, left. Rookie's Clutch Foul Shots Pace Warriors In Overtime

CHICAGO (AP)—The San Francisco Warriors move into Chicago tonight, hoping to retain their undefeated record and the lead in the National Basketball Association's Western Division.

Clutch free-throwing by rookie forward Wayne Hightower in overtime cinched a 132-131 Warrior win last night over the Detroit Pistons.

San Francisco now is 2-0, while St. Louis is second in the division at 3-1 and Chicago follows at 2-3.

The Warriors blew a 17-point lead before pulling it out in their second San Francisco appearance since coming west from Philadelphia.

The score was tied eight times before the Pistons' Willie Jones sent it into overtime at 121-all with a jumper 10 seconds before the end of regulation play.

But with seven seconds remaining in overtime, and the Warriors ahead by a single point, Hightower was fouled. He sank both free throws, making it 132-129 San Francisco. Jones sank a last second basket.

Tomales Wins Grid Game 7-6

The Tomales High gridders last night defeated Kelseyville 7-6 in a North Bay League division 2 contest at Lower Lake. The victory gave Tomales a 1-2 record.

Tomales scored its touchdown in the first quarter on a run by Bob Franceschi. Don Russell picked up the extra point. Kelseyville scored its TD in the third quarter and missed in their PAT attempt.

Pair Tie In Orange Open

COSTA MESA, Calif. (AP)—He shattered the course record with a 63 the first day, but Bob Rosburg of Portland, Ore., had to share first place in the $22,500 Orange County Open Golf Championship at the start of the third round today.

Tied with him at the half way point with 133 was George Bayer of Miami, Fla. Bayer came up with a 66 yesterday. He had a 67 in Thursday's first round. Rosburg slipped seven strokes over his first round for 1-under-par 70 over the Mesa Verde Country Club course.

Tony Lema of San Leandro was only a stroke back in third place. Tony's putter started working and he finished the second round with a 66 and a 36-hole total of 134.

S.A. Merchant Action

S.R., Novato Game Slated Thanksgiving

San Rafael-Novato high school football game, postponed by the storm of Oct. 12, has been rescheduled for Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 22, it was announced today by Angelo Colombo, athletic director of San Rafael.

The game will start at 10 a.m. at San Rafael's gridiron, Colombo explained, so that players and spectators will have all afternoon to spend with their families for Thanksgiving dinner.

The junior varsity game has been rescheduled for Wednesday, Nov. 21, at 4 p.m. at San Rafael, Colombo added.

The Novato-San Rafael game will give the Marin Athletic League two games on Thanksgiving Day. The Redwood-Tamalpais contest, also rained out from the storm Oct. 12-13 weekend, will be made up Thanksgiving at Kentfield starting at 11 a.m.

Hearron Stars At Greenbrae

Tom Hearron, of the Greenbrae 900 Classic League, shot a masterful 268 game, giving him high-game honors for the week at Greenbrae Lanes. His 643 series, which included games of 194 and 181, brought him a second place in series play.

Topping Hearron was Sanford Anixter of the Monday Men's Handicap League who bowled a beautiful 654 series with individual games of 246-188 and 220.

Proving the bowling ability for the fairer sex, Lillian Scotto rolled a remarkable 257 game. Her series total of 591 included games of 169 and 165.

Results were:

Argentine Welter To Get Title Shot

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Argentina's Jorge Fernandez has signed for a 15-round title bout against welterweight champion Emile Griffith in Las Vegas, Dec. 8.

Griffith, of New York City, has met and defeated Fernandez twice, by decisions, but the Argentine earned a title rematch, the Silver State Sports Club announced, by beating Charley Scott here Sept. 29.

PRO GRID ROUNDUP

A Tough Test For Amazing Redskins

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

This is the Sunday when the undefeated Washington Redskins find out just how good they really are.

The amazin' 'Skins, whose record of four victories and two ties is the surprise of the National Football League, take on the New York Giants at Yankee Stadium. And the Redskins are 7-point underdogs.

Tomorrow's schedule also inincludes two games involving four of the top teams in the N.F.L.'s Western Division. The champion Hornung-less Green Bay Packers, with six straight victories, are the choice by 13 points over the Colts at Baltimore and the Detroit Lions are favored by 7 points at home over the Chicago bears.

In other Sunday games: The Dallas Cowboys are picked by 7 points at home over the St. Louis Cardinals; the Cleveland Browns are the choice by 4 over the Steelers at Pittsburgh; the San Francisco 49ers are favored by 13½ over the winless Rams at Los Angeles, and the Minnesota Vikings and Philadelphia Eagles are rated even at Minneapolis-St. Paul.

The Redskins (4-0-2) cannot drop out of first place in the Eastern Division whether they win, lost or tie the game against the second place Giants (4-2). Ties are not counted in computing the won-lost percentages in N.F.L. standings.

TOUGHEST TEST

This game, however, will be the toughest test of the season for the Redskins. The only "upper crust" team they have beaten thus far is Cleveland.

Yankee Stadium holds a painful memory for the 'Skins and their fine young second-year quarterback, Norm Snead. In last year's game, Snead was thrown for two safeties as the Giants scored a 53-0 rout.

This is a far different Redskin team than its predecessors which won only one game in each of the 1960 and 1961 seasons. For one thing, Giant Coach Al Sherman emphasizes, Snead absorbed "three seasons of experience" during the trials of his rookie year.

The acquisition of Bobby Mitchell has made Washington a powerful air threat. And other players obtained in trades —like Billy Barnes, Bob Pellegrini, Bobby Freeman and John Nisby—have instilled a winning spirit.

"This is no Cinderella team," says Sherman. "We are preparing for them as we would the Packers."

With the return of pass-catcher Del Shofner to full-time duty with the Giants, both teams are in good shape.

The Lions and the Bears, both with 4-2 records, meet in a game to determine which will go on and challenge the Packers for first place in the west.

Coach George Wilson of the Lions gave his team a tongue-lashing following last Sunday's defeat by the Giants.

"Some of our players were coasting," Wilson charged. "There was a general breakdown in our blocking. This can't continue. If they don't like it, they can leave."

Flanker Terry Barr should be ready to rejoin Detroit but linebacker Joe Schmidt may have to sit out Sunday's game because of bruised ribs. The Bears also have a doubtful starter in defensive end Maury Youmans.

Green Bay was established a surprisingly big favorite over the Colts (3-3) despite the fact that Paul Hornung may be unable to play again because of a sprained knee. Tom Moore filled in more-than-adequately last Sunday. The Colts, spotty this season, now have Lenny Moore back for full-time duty.

Dallas, with a respectable 3-2-1 record, goes into the Cards game as favorite for the first time since its 1961 season-opener against the Vikings.

We Hope Reds Understand We'll Stand Up To Our Line

Today closes an historic week in American history.

As we sit here now, it is still undetermined whether the strong stand taken by our country and our President has kept us from war or brought us closer to it.

For a few hours we felt pangs of concern, fear almost. The President's statement was so blunt and final-sounding; jokes about "dusting off the old khaki" had a hollow ring.

In the days since, we have personally relaxed, looked with approval, pleasure almost, as Russian ships turned back or, upon going ahead, submitted unprotesting to our search before being allowed to continue to Cuba.

Most Americans, it seems to us, approve our President's action. That we are behind him, there is no doubt.

Yet right now is a danger time for us. We must realize that the situation is not settled, everything is not all right again.

The blockade, even though it is 100 per cent successful, did not and can not solve the problem of Cuba and Fidel Castro. The Communist missile launching pads are still in place, their "birds" standing ready to take off in flight.

We can be sure that the Soviet Union will not accept such an affront by the United States in plain view of the world. How and when she will retaliate, no American can guess with any assurance. But we can be certain the Kremlin will answer.

The unanimity of the Western world and particularly the Western Hemisphere in support of our stand is encouraging. But we must remember that this is the support of governments. It doesn't indicate that the problems of the people of South or Central America have been solved. It is a drawing together closer in time of danger.

The United States has finally drawn a clear line, similar to one we have drawn in Berlin. There is satisfaction in such a line because it has substance; we know what we are for and what we are against. Gone is the uncertainty of shifting policies and wavering goals.

But a line also has dangers and responsibilities. We appreciate this and are willing to stand up to them both. We hope the Russians understand our determination.

MARIN LOOKS AT POLITICS

'CHIP' DAY

All is not political peace and contentment on the campus of the College of Marin. Youthful Democrats and Republicans have traded insults by adapting literary excellence to their own purposes. Last week the College Young Republicans issued a mimeographed sheet paraphrasing the 23rd Psalm, entitled "The Brown-Kennedy Frontier Credo." It said:

The state is my shepherd, I need not work,
It alloweth me to lie down on good jobs;
It leadeth me beside still factories,
It destroyeth mine initiative;
It taketh me in the paths of a parasite for politics' sake.
Yea, though I walk through the valley of laziness and deficit spending,
I will fear no evil, for the government is with me.
It prepareth an economic Utopia for me out of the earnings of my grandchildren.
It filleth my head with security,
My inefficiency runneth over.
Surely the state shall care for me all the days of my life,
And I shall dwell in a fool's paradise forever."

WEDNESDAY at the speaker's hour on the campus lawn, Russ Michelsen of Greenbrae, 21, read an effort paraphrasing Lincoln's Gettysburg Address. It said:

"Four score and a hundred monopolies ago, Rockefellers brought forth on this nation a new system, founded in inequality and dedicated to the proposition that power justifies all action.

"They are now engaged in a great propaganda battle, in order to sustain the oligarchical rule which they have thus far so successfully advanced.

"We are now here to dedicate a small portion of this battlefield to the Common Man. That this nation was founded on life, liberty and the pursuits of happiness for all its people is a concept given only lip service by these special interests.

"However, a fact that this oligarchical dynasty so blindly overlooks is one of the basic principles upon which this nation rests; this is to promote the general welfare of all its people and not to protect the dynastic order of the industrial tycoons—that we here highly resolve that these travesties on the public welfare shall not be sustained and that government of the plutocrats, by the plutocrats and for the plutocrats shall soon perish from this earth."

THAT U. S. SENATOR Thomas Kuchel is back in California again after his emergency call to Washington in the Cuban crisis and as of this minute, his visit to Marin Monday morning is still on.

But he is on 8-hour call of the President.

He has cancelled breakfast with the Republican Alliance at 7:30 a.m., but will attend a 9 a.m. coffee break at The Woodlands in Kentfield; at San Rafael Courthouse at 10:15 and at Mill Valley Tennis Club reception at 11 a.m. sponsored by the People For Kuchel group. You're welcome to meet and greet him.

MAX RAFFERTY will be in Marin Sunday to greet a group of voters aboard a boat.

The Barbary Coast, cruise boat of Cruise With Lewis Tours, will be the locale for a meeting which Rafferty will address between 1 and 2:30 p.m., according to Veda Lewis. The Barbary Coast is moored at the Lewis dock near The Spinnaker in Sausalito.

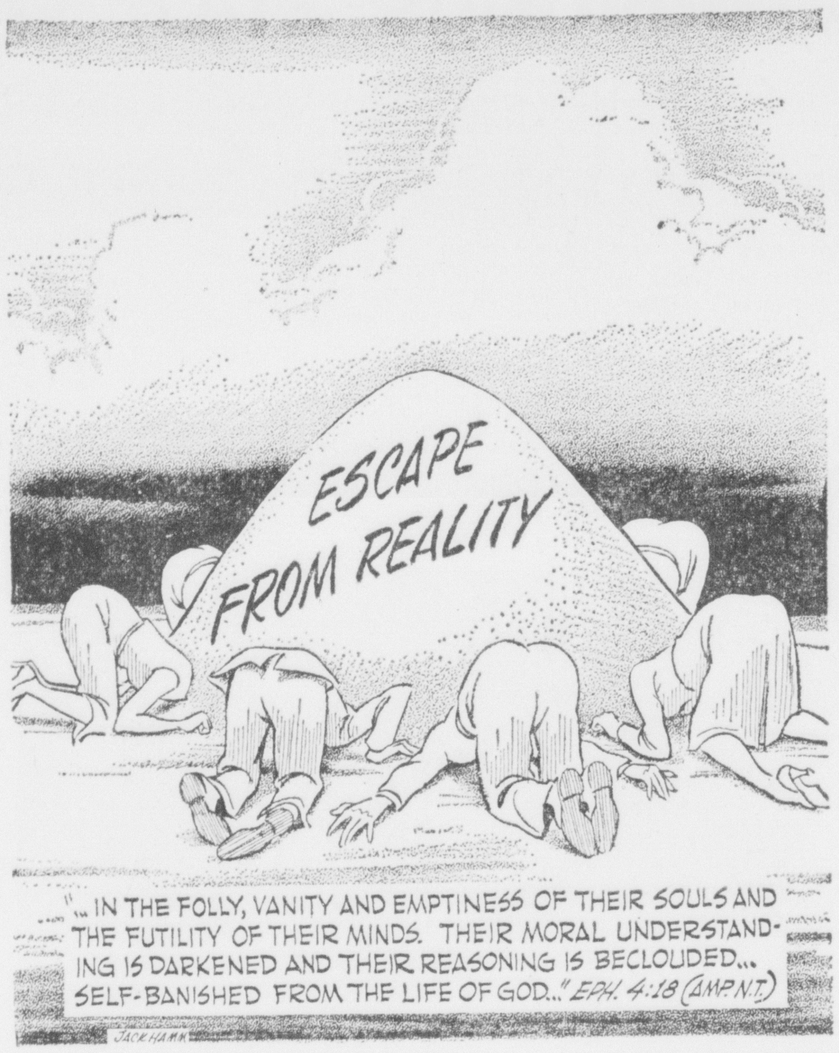
NO TIME FOR SUCH A TREND



THREE MINUTES A DAY

LAD YEARNS FOR OLD AGE

To live to a really ripe old age—of 2,296 years—is the unique ambition of an 8-year-old New Orleans schoolboy.

In a classroom composition, he wrote that if he succeeded, he "would be the world's oldest man."

Then he added: "I would spend all my life sitting in a chair smoking a pipe, reading, eating and that kind of stuff."

The emphasis on leisure time in modern life sometimes misleads adults as well as children.

While a secure old age is something to be desired, more stress should be put on what each of us can do now to do good rather than take it easy.

Look at the fleeting years, months and days of life as a prelude to an eternity with God and you will find opportunities around you that you never saw before.

Doing hard work will produce dividends not only here, but also in the hereafter.

"A thousand years in Your sight are as yesterday, now that it is past, or as a watch of the night." (Psalm 89:4)

Make me more concerned, O Lord, with how well I spend my earthly pilgrimage than with how long it may be.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

I'm not enraged, but I'm annoyed and irritated that you should have made an error in printing my letter and changed the word "enraged" to "engaged." These words are certainly not interchangeable! I don't think my manuscript is that illegible.

The sentence should be: "I have been enraged and shocked by the merciless intrusion on the part of reporters and photographers . . ."

I would appreciate your making a note of this correction.

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

I'm sorry to see your "bold type" stand on Prop. 22 in Tuesday evening's paper. I can't help but wonder what opportunities you've taken to become acquainted with the opposition.

The osteopathic profession has been serving the people of California for 65 years—and—serving them well. Approximately 50 per cent of these men were graduates of osteopathic colleges outside the State of California, yet, the proponents of Prop. 22 claim that by denying any and all licensing of new DOs in California, California will have medicine entirely under their control so the present DOs gradually die out.

This legislation is not only wrong, but it is unnecessary. This issue is morally wrong aside from what it will do to the thousands of people relying on the osteopathic profession.

Who are we to deny the practice opportunities to anyone wishing to move to our wonderful state?

There is much more to be said on this subject but I appreciate the time you've given in reading this. Please read the enclosures for concise remarks covering other points.

I'd better add that I'm not an "out-of-stater," I'm a graduate of California schools (and of course a resident) since grammar school. I am a resident of California for 37 years. I am 43 years of age and a resident of Marin County since 1945.

Community Unit Should Be Used

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

I guess I've been laboring under a false impression—but I always thought the reason the people put up a community center was to promote community, recreational, and cultural activities for the community's benefit.

Instead, I hear of a bridge club that wanted to use their facilities and were quoted such an outrageous price they had to withdraw. Then a Terra Linda Little Theater Group is putting on a play and trying to get a start, and again the cost is prohibitive. I hear there's even a $25 additional cost to use the little kitchen one night. Now little theater groups never do make any money as they're lucky to break even.

If this community building is to be a money making proposition fine, let's incorporate it and issue stock so we all can get a chance to make some money on it.

I'd like to hear from the board that runs this. Surely there must be some reason for this.

My neck is out, but my dander is up, so fire away.

Edith Head, famous Hollywood dress designer, bemoans the fact that the glamour girls on the screen in 1962 don't seem to care much about style. "In the good old days," recalls Miss Head, "our big stars had enough sense to have a trademark. Jean Harlow and her white satin dresses. Dietrich and her tailored slacks. Garbo and her slouch hats and trench coats. Colbert and her Peter Pan collars. Crawford and her tailored suits. Nowadays? Bah! They all buy the same dress and wear it at the same party and no one even gets angry!"

Howard Lindsay tells of a chum who saw a cat in the topmost branches of a tree, and climbed aloft to rescue the poor thing. It turned out to be a wildcat. Recalled the rescuer later, "I never got so tired of one cat in all my life."

Nothing New In Civil Defense Preparations, Just Same As Before

When the American and Russian ships were reported "on collision course," we hurriedly picked up all the Civil Defense literature to get the latest on where to hide and how far to dig.

But the survival procedures appear to be about the same as the ones that were circulated a year or two ago. Any shelter, even a car, is better than none. The most central room, preferably in a basement with concrete walls, with the least windows, is the safest in a home.

Large buildings give good protection. Plan to be on the lowest floor, in the center of the building.

If you want to go further, you can stock up an emergency supply of food and water, first aid kit, flashlight, portable radio, matches, old newspapers, garbage can, etc.

And here's an interesting item. It's a good idea to have water in closed containers because once water becomes contaminated, you can't sterilize it by boiling. Boiling will kill germs but not radioactivity.

NOW FOR some brighter news. From next week, it won't be quite so dark when you get up to go to work. Daylight savings ends tomorrow and you set your clocks back one hour.

As one fellow put it: "You get up an hour lighter and come home from work an hour darker."

IS THERE ANY truth to the rumor that New York Yankees first baseman Bill Skowron is thinking of going into a restaurant partnership in Marin?

A WOMAN with her pet dog walked into the Herzog-Rake Building to visit the D.A.'s investigator Bill Bemiss. She pushed the elevator button and busied herself with the contents of her purse while she waited.

In the meantime, the door opened, her dog walked in. Before she realized what had happened, the door closed on her dog. A gentleman on the fourth floor pushed the button. Up went the elevator and the dog. Imagine the man's surprise when the elevator opened, and out marched a lone dog.

Shaking his head, the man rode to the first floor, where an excited woman asked: "Did you see a dog up there somewhere?"

"Yeah," he replied. "Pretty smart dog, isn't he!"

LOOKS AS if Nick Giampoli is pretty serious about running for police chief in San Rafael next year.

They tell me he's thinking of asking for a leave of absence.

DON AND HELEN Hasha of 621 Davidson, Novato, take their Christmas vacation seriously. They've "adopted" an Aztec family of eight in Mexico, for whom they will play Santa Claus for the fourth straight year.

If you have any durable clothing for children ranging in age from 1 to 17, the Hashas will be glad to get them. They'll leave for Mexico Dec. 7.

THIS CAMPAIGN against slow driving in the fast lane can go too far.

Attorney Fred Robbins got a client the other day who was charged with going too slow in the fast lane. The ticket showed he was going "60-plus" on Hwy. 101 south of Novato.

Robbins convinced the judge that even in this age of speed, going 60 miles per hour isn't driving too slowly.

It Is Not Too Late To Continue Negotiations On Way To Clear Cuba

WASHINGTON—The President's proclamation of a selective blockade has gone into effect. We are now waiting for the other shoe to drop.

There are those, for whose judgment I have profound respect, who think that it is now too late for this country to influence the decisions of the Soviet Union and that the President is now irretrievably committed to a course which can end only with a total blockade or an invasion of Cuba.

They may be right. But I have lived through two world wars, and in both of them, once we were engaged, we made the same tragic mistake. We suspended diplomacy when the guns began to shoot.

IN BOTH WARS as the result, we achieved a great victory but we could not make peace. There is a mood in this country today which could easily cause us to make the same mistake again. We must in honor attempt to avoid it.

I see danger of this mistake in the fact that when the President saw Gromyko last week and had the evidence of the missile build-up in Cuba, he refrained from confronting Gromyko with this evidence. This was to suspend diplomacy.

If it had not been suspended, the President would have shown Gromyko the pictures, and told him privately about the policy which in a few days he intended to announce publicly. This would have made it more likely that Moscow would order the ships not to push on to Cuba.

BUT IF SUCH diplomatic action did not change the orders, if Khrushchev persisted in spite of it, the President's public speech would have been stronger. It would not have been subject to the criticism that a great power had issued an ultimatum to another great power without first attempting to negotiate the issue. By confronting Gromyko privately, the President would have given Khrushchev what all wise statesmen give their adversaries—the chance to save face.

We have, we must note, made two separate demands. One is that no more "offensive weapons" shall be brought into Cuba. On this demand, we shall soon have a showdown. Considering the unanimity of the other American states, considering the strategic weakness of the Soviet Union in this hemisphere, there is reason to hope that the quarantine of Cuba will work, though we must expect retaliation elsewhere.

BUT THE PRESIDENT has laid down a second demand, which is that the missile installations already in Cuba be dismantled and removed. How this is to be done is a great question, even supposing that there is no shooting conflict at sea. And it is here, I believe, that diplomacy must not abdicate.

There are three ways to get rid of the missiles already in Cuba. One is to invade and occupy Cuba. The second way is to institute a total blockade, particularly of oil shipments, which would in a few months ruin the Cuban economy. The third way is to try, I repeat to try, to negotiate a face-saving agreement.

3 Congress Elections To Test New Frontier, 'Birchism'

By BOB BARNES

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Three bitter races for Congress in one of the nation's largest metropolitan centers promise an intriguing test of current political leanings.

Seldom are voters' choices so sharp as in California's newly revamped 25th, 27th and 29th Congressional districts:

Republican or Democrats? Outspoken conservative or outspoken liberal? More government in Washington or less?

These issues, clearly defined by the six candidates will provide tests of both the New Frontier and of the John Birch Society, controversial anti-Communist organization.

The contests match three stoutly conservative Republicans — members and defenders of the Birch Society and sharply critical of the Kennedy administration —against Democrats who support the New Frontier and attack what they call Birchism.

At stake are two Republican seats in the U.S. House of Representatives. The third seat is in a new district.

Both sides predict victory. The overwhelmingly Democratic California Legislature drew the districts with Democratic voter registration margins of 60 per cent and up.

But more is involved than party lines. Analyses of returns from these sprawling districts north and east of Los Angeles will be studied to see if they can provide answers to such questions as:

How many Republicans believe the Birch Society is extremist, as its critics charge, and prefer the New Frontier to Birch philosophy?

How many Democrats find Kennedy doctrines too far left, causing them to vote Republican?

Taking the races one by one:

25th District—Once represented in Congress by Richard M. Nixon, the district was redrawn recently with 153,000 registered voters—98,000 Democrats, 55,000 Republicans. It is in the San Gabriel Valley east of Los Angeles. Republican incumbent John H. Rousselot of Baldwin Park seeks a second term. His opponent is two-term Democratic Assemblyman Ronald Brooks Cameron of Whittier.

Rousselot, 34, says the overriding issue is "survival of our constitutional republic and our capitalistic-free enterprise system as we have known it . . . I do not think my opponent is a true liberal. A liberal fights for maximum individual freedom, but he leans toward the collectivist approach—massive government, bureaucracy and federal control."

Cameron, 35, an accountant, says Rousselot's Birch membership is a major issue, adds: "The man's not competent to be a Congressman . . . There are very few things on which I differ with the New Frontier stand on such things as education, medicare and the total foreign picture as it affects public morality."

27th District—A smaller district north of downtown Los Angeles in the San Fernando and Antelope Valleys that Republican incumbent Edgar W. Hiestand of Burbank has represented for five terms. The 173,000 registered voters include 104,000 Democrats, 65,000 Republicans, 4,000 unstated. Opposing Hiestand is Democratic Los Angeles City Councilman Everett G. Burkhalter of North Hollywood.

Hiestand, 73, says conservatives are "under vicious attack by the leftists and the so-called liberal extremists . . . unless the people show they want the present unbelievably harmful and dangerous policies abandoned. These policies will be continued and the consequences are certain to be disastrous."

Burkhalter, 65, goes down the line with the Democratic Party position and is pledged to back medical care for the aged. He contends Hiestand "wraps himself in the flag." He says the Cuban problem was developed during the Eisenhower administration and that present policies are far better than those of the Republicans.

29th District—A new, spread-out district, largely in the San Gabriel Valley, with about 90,000 Democrats and 50,000 Republicans. Republican H. L. Richardson, a Temple City advertising consultant, opposes Democratic Assemblyman George E. Brown of Monterey Park.

Richardson, 34, campaigns as a conservative, calls for a firmer stand against the Communists and elimination of what he calls "piecemeal surrender." He has followed this tack announced at the start of his campaign: "I am going to discuss the evils of Communists and their bedfellows—the Socialistic ADA'ers (Americans for Democratic Action) who are trying to play God with men's lives and the new robber barons, the bureaucrats who are robbing the average taxpayer through pressure groups, special interests and lobbyists."

Brown, 41, was a one-time conscientious objector who wound up as a second lieutenant in the Army in World War II. He pledges to support the committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy (SANE), whose endorsement he has.

"I do strongly support all efforts at disarmament but I am convinced we can only achieve political acceptability of that on the basis of universal disarmament, not unilateral, and on the basis of agreements offering the fullest protection in inspection," he says.

Denying what he says is his opponent's charge he is "ultra-liberal, soft on Communism." Brown contends his program is the only way democracy can be defended and that Richardson's would destroy democracy.

ALLIANCE PROGRAM IS MOVING SLOWLY

By BEN F. MEYER

WASHINGTON (AP)—There's one very unusual thing about the Alliance for Progress:

Everybody admits it is not doing nearly enough.

This goes for what the Latin American nations are doing—or not doing—to help speed the big program aimed at their economic and social development and it goes also for the U. S. government, which is bearing the lion's share of the cost.

Rep. Otto E. Passman, (D-La.) noted for his caustic comments about the way this country handles its foreign operations, declared recently:

"The Alliance program is not progressing as we had hoped it would."

One thing which many economists blame for Latin America's slow economic and social progress is that in many countries, the best lands and the largest tracts have been owned by a few people.

Another charge has been that Latin Americans generally, and particularly the rich, pay little or no taxes, either on lands, or on earnings from other sources.

It is not unusual that the rich, and the big land owners, either run governments in some countries, or have a powerful voice in how they are run.

Puerto Rican Teodore Moscoso, boss of the U.S. Alliance for Progress agency, says, the Alliance "has not yet had a chance." It will be two or three years hence, he said, before a hard look can be taken and a decision made whether the alliance has been, as he puts it, "successful or otherwise."

The United States promised to commit one billion dollars in the first year of the Alliance. "We fulfilled our commitment," says Moscoso.

The U.S. Alliance for Progress agency is a part of the U.S. Agency for International Development.

For many months, the U.S. Alliance agency had all the appearance of chaos. The whole AID organization was undergoing reorganization and it seemed to affect particularly the Alliance agency. Just when it seemed to be settling down to more or less normal business, a recommendation in the State Department for integration of department and Alliance officials brought moving days again for everybody.

Meanwhile, commitments did not mean that projects were getting under way. Alliance officials say that progress is being made now, but that political and other problems have delayed things in many countries.

De Gaulle Again Will Be A Target

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG

PARIS (UPI)—When the last ballot boxes are emptied and the final votes counted in France's constitutional referendum, President Charles de Gaulle will return to the lonely vigil he keeps each day under threat of sudden death.

This threat is a major reason for the nationwide voting this weekend, and one of the issues in it. De Gaulle is asking France to amend the constitution to provide for a strong successor in case the assassins who haunt him should finally hit their target. He wants the nation, and not an electoral college, to choose the successor.

With ironic generosity, the terrorists who marked de Gaulle for death because of his Algeria policies decreed a two-week "reprieve" during the referendum campaign. The unsought respite expires after this weekend.

De Gaulle has walked too long in the shadow of the killer and had too many narrow brushes with death to let it make any dent in his icy, Olympian aloofness.

At least six times in a little more than a year de Gaulle has narrowly escaped assassination by bomb or machineguns. Aides say he has no fear of death, just of the chaos into which his assassination might plunge France.

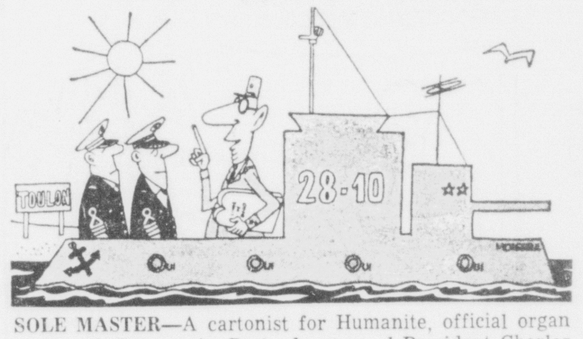
The planned methods of killing de Gaulle were both elaborate and ingenious.

One was that a sharpshooter armed with a rifle and telescopic sights should kill him from a window of a building facing the Elysee Palace as he left for the provinces.

Another plan was to run a car loaded with explosives across a grade crossing just before the arrival of de Gaulle's motorcade.

A third idea was send dogs booby-trapped with explosives into the crowds surrounding de Gaulle.

De Gaulle is convinced there will be other attempts on his life. He takes the fatalistic view that one might succeed, and that is why he is so anxious to leave France with a "strong man" president to replace him.



SOLE MASTER—A cartonist for Humanite, official organ of French Communist Party, lampooned President Charles de Gaulle during his visit to a navy base. The caption read: "The sole master on board holds the tiller alone, keeps radio messages to himself, modifies the log book as he wants—in short, runs the ship as he sees fit." (UPI photo)

Stevenson Wins Round At U.N.

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

When Adlai Stevenson made his first bid for the presidency in 1952 he captivated the nation with the brilliance of his oratory.

Often he spoke with biting sarcasm. On many occasions he turned a neat phrase. He demonstrated a keen sense of humor.

When Stevenson made a token bid to unseat President Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1956 his speeches lacked the bite of his 1952 oratory.

Stevenson

But in the hushed chambers of the United Nations Security Council this week, Stevenson made the most significant remarks of his career.

This time the target was Valerian Zorin, deputy foreign minister of the Soviet Union.

Taking off the gloves of diplomacy, Stevenson lashed into Zorin, demanding that he deny that the Soviet Union had established and equipped nuclear launching pads in Cuba, a furtive action that caused President John F. Kennedy last Monday to set up a naval blockade of Castro's bastion.

Zorin evaded the demand with the bland statement that he was not on trial in an American court. Stevenson replied tartly that Zorin was on trial in the court of world opinion. He said he would wait "until hell freezes over" for Zorin's answer.

South won the first trick with the king of diamonds and led a spade to dummy.

Then he returned a heart and wondered what to play from his hand.

FROWNING

After much frowning and chin-stroking, South finessed with the jack of hearts. By this time West knew what was going on, so he won with the ace of hearts to lead South astray.

Declarer won the diamond continuation with the ace and led another spade to dummy. He was sure East had the queen of hearts, and he wanted to finesse through it.

Unfortunately, East produced a club, and South saw that he'd been had. West was sure to get his second trump trick, and South was obliged to lead clubs from his own hand. Down one.

PROBABILITY

South had an even chance of finding the queen of hearts in the East hand.

He even had a slight extra chance, since if he lost the first trump to the queen he would still be able to reduce the club loss if East had both the king and queen.

This was not as good as playing for the clubs. In three-quarters of the cases East will have one or both of the missing club honors. South should therefore finesse in clubs rather than in trumps.

ENTER DUMMY

South should enter dummy with the first spade and return the jack of clubs through East. If East covers, South can win and get back to dummy to lead a trump.

If East plays a low club, South is willing to lose the finesse and try another club finesse later.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, Oct. 27, the 300th day of 1962 with 65 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning stars are Mercury and Mars.

The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1871, Wiliam Mercy Tweed, better known as "Boss Tweed," political boss of New York City's Tammany Hall, was arrested on charges of defrauding the city of millions of dollars.

Woman, 85, Attacked; Fairfax Man Arrested

The suspect, John Henry Bopp Jr., 42, of 67 Spruce Road, was jailed under $10,000 bail.

The victim told deputies she was asleep and the lights were off when the attacker broke into the house through a window.

She was awakened as he clamped his hand over her mouth and warned her repeatedly not to scream or he would kill her.

The victim, who was hysterical when sheriff's officers arrived at her home, said the intruder raped her and forced her to submit to an unnatural sex act.

After the man left she called San Anselmo police, who notified the sheriff's office. A radio bulletin giving his general description was broadcast.

Frank Costa of the Vierra Radio Patrol, Corte Madera, reported he saw a man later identified as Bopp near the San Anselmo city limits shortly after the bulletin was broadcast. Costa lost sight of the man in a wooded area, however.

Inspector Bowen Bridges and Sgt. Ed Levine of the sheriff's office spotted Bopp walking rapidly along Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in San Anselmo. Bopp was taken into custody at 3:32 a.m., less than an hour after the woman was attacked.

The suspect was placed in the rear seat of the patrol car in which the victim was taken to Marin General Hospital. Deputies said the woman identified Bopp's voice as that of the rapist.

Examination at the hospital indicated the woman had been criminally assaulted, deputies said. She was not otherwise seriously injured, however, and was released to go to the home of a friend.

Bopp denied any knowledge of the attack.

He was placed in the neighborhood shortly before the woman's report by both Officers Howard Bailey of Corte Madera police and Jerry Mattos of Larkspur police.

Russia, said Thierbach. Most streetcars are operated by women; on many road construction jobs, women share in the work.

Thierbach did not have much opportunity to see Russian trains, except to ride on them or see them at a distance. The Red Arrow from Moscow to Leningrad had good equipment, but "the roadbed was terrible," he said. Most railroad equipment was crude—coal-burning engines and four-wheeled cars, not the larger, heavier cars seen in the United States.

Thierbach was impressed, however, with the Metro subway system, which he said was efficient, fast, well-kept and lighted, but rather drafty.

Much of modern Russian building is crude, "slapped-up" construction, Thierbach said.

Thierbach flew from Leningrad to Kiev by Aeroflot, the Soviet airline, which he said was "all right . . . but not up to Sabena or ours." At Kiev the Americans were kept on the plane until their transportation arrived, and "there was much military around."

Although he found the Soviet Union interesting, Thierbach said, "it was good to get out of it.

"Thank God I'm living here; I appreciate it much more now. There is no freedom of expression in Russia."

Non-Support Case Put Off 3 Months

McDonald Huffman, 36, of San Rafael, accused of failing to support his two children, won a three-month continuance in Marin Municipal Court yesterday.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson set Jan. 24 as the date for Huffman's next appearance in court. Deputy Dist. Atty. Thomas T. Storer indicated that if Huffman keeps up his support payments, the district attorney may recommend that the non-support charge be dismissed.

Huffman was in the news last March when fire destroyed his San Anselmo home. His 10-year-old daughter perished in the blaze. Huffman was charged with setting the fire but was found innocent.

Dirt Removal Permit Gets City Renewal

The San Rafael Planning Commission yesterday approved renewal of a use permit for six months for dirt removal from the hilltop at Professional Center Parkway and Channing Way by D. M. Christensen.

Commissioners noted that there were no plans for apartment development of the hilltop submitted yet but that dirt would be hauled over private property to the Northgate Shopping Center. "Skyscraper" apartments have been approved for the hilltop.

Blasting and hauling was limited to the hours between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. No dirt bank over three feet tall may be left standing.

The San Rafael Planning Commission also:

1. Gave architectural approval to construction of a garage by Carlo Gnemmi at 585 Irwin Street.

2. Approved an addition to the administration building at Marin Bay of Latipac-Perini Co.

Flowers Shows In Full Bloom

The Garden Society of Marin opened its 16th annual fall flower festival (featuring chrysanthemums) at 10 a.m. at the Frances Young Gallery of the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

Four hours later, the Chrysanthemum Society of Marin opened its 14th annual show at the Crocker-Anglo National Bank, Fourth and B streets, San Rafael.

The Ross show will be open until 6 p.m.; the San Rafael show, until 9:30 p.m. Both will be open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. tomorrow.

Salesman Faces Check Charge

An unemployed salesman, accused of buying two cars with bad checks, faces a preliminary hearing in Marin Municipal Court next Wednesday on a felony bad check charge.

He is Gerald Douglas Farrand, 34, from Southern California, who was arrested Thursday by Asst. Chief Sam N. Serio of San Anselmo police.

Farrand, who called himself "Capt. Edward Wynn" of the Air Force, is accused of writing two checks on the Crocker-Anglo Bank of San Anselmo to buy two cars.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson yesterday appointed Public Defender Peter Allen Smith as Farrand's lawyer and set 9:30 a.m. Wednesday for a preliminary hearing. His bail was reset at $3,675.

Fine, Jail Term For Drunk Driver

William DeWitt Taylor, 38, of 726 Bradley Avenue, Novato, paid $276 fine and must serve five days in county jail for his third drunken driving conviction.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Municipal Court sentenced him yesterday for driving while intoxicated along Highway 101 last June 20. He also loses his license for at least six months.

Taylor had prior convictions in 1955 and 1961.

Harry Hunter Dogan Jr., 39, of 230 Edgewood Avenue, Mill Valley, drew $303 fine and six months probation. He was arrested on Highway 101 at Marin City on Thursday.

KTIM Vote Poll Gives Nixon Big Marin Lead

Tally yesterday showed Nixon with 434 to Gov. Edmund G. Brown's 248.

The poll is taken by KTIM employees by passing out selection slips which are marked and returned.

In other races being polled, William T. Bagley (R.) had 545 while Robert Carrow (D.) had 121 for Seventh District Assemblyman. For the First District in Congress, the late Clem Miller (D.) had 288, and Don Clausen (R.) 376.

In the Marin treasurer-tax collector race, Stanley Fontez was leading Russ Lauterwasser, 361 to 271. For state superintendent of schools, Ralph Richardson had polled 335 to Max Rafferty's 255.

already has dismissed proposals for U.N. inspection as an attempt at "espionage," while his ambassadors in Paris and Spain denied there were any such bases. In Istanbul today—before the Khrushchev statement was made—Foreign Minister Feridun Cemal Erkin said it was "out of the question" for the U.S. to abandon its missile bases in Turkey.)

Khrushchev said the Soviet Union was willing to make a solemn pledge in the security council that it would not use its territory as a bridgehead for any attack on Turkey. "Development of the Point Reyes National Seashore is now something we have to consider," Ayanian said. "And the growth of Marin County will be accelerated by the potential water supply from the North Bay Aqueduct. We want to settle on a route as soon as possible to avoid costly acquisition of improvements."

"How can we expedite this as soon as possible?" asked Fairfax Mayor W. E. Radtke. "We're getting strangled with traffic now."

Ayanian replied that the hearing itself indicated the matter was being expedited, but further studies "will take time." Although the proposed highway, known as Legislative Route 69, has top priority on the county's list of requested state highway improvements, it is far down on the list for new state highways, Ayanian said.

Persons at yesterday's hearing — probably the first of many hearings — included Supervisors Walter R. Castro and William D. Fusselman, county public works and planning department members, San Rafael Planning Department members, and officials from the Marin Junior College District and cities of San Anselmo and Fairfax.

Bridge Guarded During Crisis

Security precautions have been taken by the Army to guard approach roads to footings of Golden Gate Bridge towers during the Cuban crisis.

A spokesman at the Presidio of San Francisco said today that a security guard had been placed on the road to Fort Point on the San Francisco side of the bridge.

General manager James Adam of the Golden Gate Bridge District said yesterday that the road to Lime Point in Marin County had been blocked off at the request of a security committee of bridge directors.

He said the Army and California Highway Patrol had cooperated in organizing the security of the bridge structure.

President Signs Miller Vet Bill

A bill introduced in Congress by the late Rep. Clem Miller (D-Corte Madera) to aid residents of the California Veterans Home in Napa County was signed into law last week by President Kennedy.

The law provides that no deduction will be made from federal payments to a state veterans home because the home receives funds for activities of residents from the estates of deceased members of the home.

Miller died in a plane crash near Eureka on Oct. 7.

Greenbrae Spooks March Wednesday, Never On Monday

Greenbrae School children will stage their Halloween parade under auspices of the Greenbrae Property Owners Assn. on Wednesday evening—not Monday evening as incorrectly reported in yesterday's Independent-Journal.

The parade will start at 6:15 p.m. at Via La Cumbre and Eliseo Drive, and proceed to the schoolgrounds, where costumes will be judged, William G. Fleckles, property owners association president, said today.

Cider, doughnuts and hot dogs will be served to the children.

Chinese troops also were repulsed at the eastern end of the drive down the Luhit River valley was checked at the village of Walong two days ago.

On the west end of the frontier in Ladakh, the Chinese were reported concentrating troops in the Demchok area.

Well-informed sources said Nehru indicated in a letter to President Kennedy Friday India's need for arms to turn back the Chinese onslaught. But the letter did not directly ask for help, it was said.

India is still hesitant about repudiating its policy of nonalignment. Indian officials hope the fact of aid can be disguised by some form of deferred payment.

American and British officials have said they would consider giving aid to India if it is asked.

CRASHES

he was driving south in the inside lane.

Villanueva managed to steer the car part way onto the center dividing strip, but the rear was hit by a southbound auto driven by Viola Mary Swanson, 37, of 455 Hibiscus Way, Terra Lianda.

The Swanson car spun out of control and was hit by a pickup truck driven by John Joseph Rainford, 56, of Sebastopol.

Mrs. Swanson suffered cuts on her forehead and right foot; Rainford, severe cuts on both knees; and his son, Raymond James Rainford, 29, cuts on the right knee. All were treated at Marin General Hospital.

Liquor License Denials Urged

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The state department of alcoholic beverage control announced it has denied two applications for licenses in Marin County.

The application of Harbor Liquor Store, Inc., 553 Redwood Highway, Mill Valley, for an off-sale general liquor license was denied on grounds the corporation failed to cooperate with the department by refusing to provide necessary documents.

The application of William Paterson and Jerry D. Miller for an on-sale beer license for Gasworks No. 2, 2 Gate Five Road, Sausalito, was denied following a hearing on grounds the premises were located in the immediate vicinity of a school and playground, in an area where there are too many licenses, and where it is difficult for police to exercise control.

San Rafael Driver Cut On Face In Auto Crash

James L. Zoeller, 41, of 23 Rosewood Court, San Rafael, was treated for deep facial cuts at San Rafael General Hospital today after his car ran off San Pedro Road slightly before 3 a.m.

San Rafael police said Zoeller's car went into a ditch at San Pedro Road but he was able to drive it home. His wife took him to the hospital, according to police.

Fiske Gets License

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—Secretary of State Frank M. Jordan today announced issuance of a notary public commission to Jay A. Fiske, Jr., 137 Reed Boulevard, Tiburon.

OBITUARIES

William Reynolds Rites Set

Graveside services for William Ward Reynolds, 74, a Marin resident since 1942, will be held at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday in Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno. Martin and Brown Mortuary of San Francisco is in charge of arrangements.

Reynolds died Thursday in a local hospital after long illness. He resided at 365 Johnstone Drive, Marinwood.

Born in Shellmound, Miss., Aug. 2, 1889, Reynolds spent much of his life in Denver and Salt Lake City. He came to Marin in 1942 and was employed during World War II at Marinship and Mare Island Navy Yard.

He served in the Army in World War I. Self-employed during most of his career, he engaged in various pursuits, including installation of score boards for athletic events and other mechanical devices.

He was a member of Mare Island Metal Trades Union Local 127, the Dixie Stamp Club of Marinwood, the American Legion, and the Methodist Church of San Rafael.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Ethel Randall Reynolds, at the Marinwood home, and two daughters by a former marriage, Mrs. Margaret Frederickson of Murray, Utah, and Mrs. Betty Netz of Altadena.

The family prefers that tributes be memorial contributions to the San Rafael Methodist Church building fund.

PETER HUMPHREY

Funeral services will be held Monday for Peter L. Humphrey, 53, Strawberry resident and former Borden Co. executive, who was killed Thursday night when his car rammed into the rear of a truck on Waldo Grade on Highway 101.

A native of Paw Paw, Mich., Humphrey operated for the last 14 years the P. L. Humphrey Co., a cheese, butter and egg brokerage firm in San Francisco. He lived for the last 10 years at 2355 East Strawberry Drive.

Humphrey was a member of the Pacific Dairy and Poultry Assn., the California Cheese Assn., and the Strawberry Yacht Club.

He is survived by his wife, Dorothy; two daughters, Harriet and Patricia; one brother and two sisters, Joseph Humphrey and Mrs. Eleanor Blough of Chicago and Mrs. Marie Riggle of Riverside.

Funeral services will be held at the Episcopal Church of Our Saviour, Mill Valley, at 2:30 p.m. Monday. Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael. Friends may call at the memorial chapel of Russell and Gooch, Mill Valley, after noon tomorrow.

E. R. FORRESTER

Edward Robert Forrester, 86, a retired woolen goods dealer, died Thursday in a San Rafael rest home after a brief illness.

Independent-Journal

Statement of Policy

Regarding Political Advertising

The Independent-Journal does not aggressively solicit or render copy writing service for political advertisements that are argumentative in content. Political advertisements are construed to be all assertions subject to public controversy, whether or not a public election is involved

Any political advertisement that is not clearly the personal appeal of the elective candidate or candidates involved must show the name of the sponsoring group together with the name or names of one or more persons officiating for such group.

Political advertisements must be submitted in complete and explicit form, ready for the printers, and clearly marked as to size and date of appearance. All political advertisements are payable in advance. Charges are figured at the regular rate.

Advertising deadlines are 4 p.m., two days preceding publication. As example: Tuesday advertisements must be in Friday at 4 p.m.; Monday advertisements must be in the preceding Friday morning. Any intervening holiday advances the deadline by a day.

No responsibility to show printer's proof is assumed under the above schedule.

If a proof is desired, advertisement must be submitted substantially in advance. Corrections, if any, must be ordered by 4 p.m., two working days preceding publication. Any changes from original copy will be charged for on basis of printing work involved.

On the last publication day before an election no political advertisement other than a simple statement of advocacy will be printed. As example: "Vote yes on proposition three," or "Elect John Jones," together with facts as to nature and time of election and, if desired, candidate's party affiliation or occupational identity.

Nearing a public election, no advertisement introducing a new controversial subject will be accepted to run later than the fourth publication day preceding the election. If any new statement or issue should be introduced on the fourth publication day preceding the election, attacking the opposing candidate or issue involved, the newspaper may, at its discretion, make allowance under this rule for the opposing side to answer.

Necessity for the newspaper's disinterested handling of political advertisements is readily apparent. These terms and conditions are adhered to in spirit of fairness to all.

Sealed Proposals will be received by the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin, State of California, until November 13, 1962, for:

Resurfacing and constructing channelization of Sir Francis Drake Blvd., from Drake Market to the Hub.

The work shall be done in accordance with official plans and specifications prepared in reference thereto which may be seen at the office of the Department of Public Works, County of Marin. Request for forms or information shall be addressed to the Department of Public Works, County of Marin, 1711 Grand Avenue, San Rafael, California.

Plans, Specifications (but not including Standard Specifications or other documents included by reference), and Proposal Forms may be obtained by prospective bidders upon payment of a deposit of Ten Dollars ($10.00) (cash or check made payable to the Department of Public Works, County of Marin) to guarantee safe return of the plans and specifications within ten (10) days after bid opening. Failure to so return the plans and specifications will cause forfeiture of the deposit to the County.

All bids must be submitted on the Proposal form obtained from the Director of Public Works and shall be accompanied by a Proposal Guaranty of at least ten (10) percent of the bid. Guaranties shall be in the form of a certified or Cashier's check or a Bidder's bond. Failure of the successful bidder to execute and return the contract, or to file acceptable bond, as required, within the time allotted shall be cause for the annulment of the award and the forfeiture of the Proposal Guaranty. All guarantees not so retained by the County shall be returned to the bidders within fifteen (15) days after the award of the contract.

Proposal shall be filed with Clerk of the Board of Supervisors, Court House, San Rafael, California.

Said Proposals will be opened and read by the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors at 1:30 P.M. on the day specified above for receiving bids, or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard. The Clerk will read only the total amount bid and not specific items going to make up said total unless written request for reading of each sub totals and individual items of the bid is requested in writing at the time of the submission of proposals. Bidders will be at liberty to inspect and review bids in the Office of the Director of Public Works to which they will be removed for this purpose of checking after the opening and reading of the totals by the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors.

Bids are required for the entire work described herein, and neither partial bids nor contingent bids will be considered.

The Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

GEO. H. GNOSS, Clerk

111—Used Imported and Sports Cars for Sale

What to look for in a used car

We sell new Volkswagens, mainly, but our customers have put us in a thriving used car business with their trade-ins. And we like our used car customers to go out of here as satisfied as our new Volkswagen owners.

The check list below is for your convenience. A car that rates 100% we'd call "factory clean." Of course you can't ask for perfection in a vintage economy model. But you can make sure you know what you're getting for whatever you're paying.

Besides price, year, color, style, make and model, you can look into a few less obvious points to assure yourself of the car's worth with this check list.

We'd rather have you satisfied—than just sold.

On the lot, look for:
- ☐ Tires with evenly worn tread.
- ☐ Tight windows and doors.
- ☐ Lights and accessories that work.
- ☐ Clean, undamaged upholstery and flooring.
- ☐ Spare tire, jack, tire iron.
- ☐ Good radiator hose, fan belt, distributor, cables, wipers.
- ☐ Tight hubcaps.
- ☐ Locks that work.

Check these points in road test:
- ☐ Good springs and shock absorbers.
- ☐ Comfortable steering that doesn't pull to either side.
- ☐ Firm brakes that don't pull to either side.
- ☐ Effective emergency brakes.
- ☐ Speedometer and other gauges that work.
- ☐ Smoke-free exhaust.

Look out for:
- ☐ Rust around fenders and seams.
- ☐ Loose tail pipe or muffler.
- ☐ Loose bumpers.
- ☐ Water spots inside — possibly from leaks.
- ☐ Frame out of line.
- ☐ Corroded battery housing.
- ☐ Loose chrome strips.

And look out for these:
- ☐ Jerky transmission.
- ☐ Slipping clutch.
- ☐ Air leaks — around doors, windows, vents.
- ☐ Rattles.
- ☐ Overheating.
- ☐ Wobbly front wheels.
- ☐ Tendency to stall.
- ☐ Brake pedal that goes down too far.

We have all kinds of used cars on the lot today. Some nearly new; some fairly old, all worth investigating.

Prayers For Peace To Be Offered In U.S. Tomorrow

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Prayers for peace will be offered tomorrow in Protestant and Catholic churches throughout America.

Calls to prayer in the Cuban crisis have been issued by the National Council of Churches, the National Catholic Welfare Conference, the United Presbyterian Church, and state councils of churches in many parts of the country.

The National Council of Churches, representing 31 major Protestant and Orthodox denominations with 40 million members, urged Americans to pray particularly for President John F. Kennedy and all who share his "awesome responsibilities" for decisions affecting world peace.

"Let us pray that through the agonies of the present crisis, God may lead nations to constructive ways of developing a world more in keeping with His will for peace with justice and freedom," the council said in a statement over the signature of its layman-president, J. Irwin Miller of Columbus, Ind.

The National Catholic Welfare Conference, in a statement signed by the five U. S. cardinals and other bishops who are members of its administrative board, asked all Catholic parishes in the nation to observe this Sunday as a day of prayer for President Kennedy and other government leaders.

"We urge our Catholic people to implore Divine Providence to grant that peace with freedom and justice be preserved," the statement said.

Leaders of the United Presbyterian Church, including the Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, state clerk, and the Rev. Dr. Marshal L. Scott, moderator, asked that all churches of the denomination observe tomorrow as "a day of prayer and renewed dedication to the will of God as He may make it known to us."

"Praying as loyal citizens for our own nation and our own safety," the Presbyterian leaders said, "let us also remember that as Christians we cannot accept as right and final the establishment of barriers between Christians and Christians, and nations and nations.

"There is a loyalty that must transcend our patriotism, a loyalty to the human race that extends to all mankind, whether friend or foe as the political lines are drawn.

"Let us, therefore, not pray lightly. Let us wrestle with God in intercession, not for ourselves alone, but for our fellow Christians in Cuba and the Soviet Union; for all the nations of the world and for those who in the providence of God rule them.

"Finally, let us remember that these times, as all times, are in God's hands. In dependence upon Him, let us approach the throne of grace in faith."

GOP Suggest Cuban Crisis Is Over Votes

WASHINGTON (AP) —Republican campaign leaders have suggested President John F. Kennedy was more concerned with votes on Nov. 6 than with Soviet missiles when he announced a blockade on arms shipment to Cuba.

The Republican Congressional Campaign Committee said in a newsletter yesterday that "the New Frontier's kid gloves policy toward Cuba for the past 21 months just did not jibe with the president's tough words about Cuba."

FALSE SOUND

The statement added that Kennedy's speech, citing the presence of Soviet offensive missiles as the reason for the arms blockade, "sounded brazenly false inasmuch as this had been known for months."

The committee advanced several reasons for questioning whether the president really intended to "crack down hard" on Communist Cuba.

Among them, it said, was the fact that 72 hours after Kennedy announced the blockade Monday night, no Soviet ships had been halted by Navy ships.

TURNED BACK

The Defense Department has reported that 12 of some 25 Russian ships believed headed for Cuba turned back after the quarantine on missiles, bombers and other offensive weapons was announced.

A Soviet chartered freighter was stopped and searched yesterday, then allowed to continue to Cuba when it was found that it had no offensive weapons aboard. A Russian tanker was allowed to proceed to Cuba Wednesday after the Navy reported it was carrying petroleum, which is not on the prohibited list.

"Undoubtedly," the committee said "a successful isolation of Cuba would distract attention from the innumerable foreign policy failures of his administration and from the record of inaction by the Democratic Congress. But it also would leave many Democratic office seekers in a stew of sizzling political grease."

'NO COMMENT'

A Democratic party spokesman, Samuel Brightman, said there would be no comment on the Republican letter.

In California former Vice President Richard M. Nixon said he would make a "statement of major importance regarding Cuba" in a statewide television address tonight.

PROTEST IN MOSCOW — A big demonstration was staged today in front of the U. S. Embassy protesting the Cuban blockade, and a band of youngsters plastered the front of the building with red, green and purple ink. A number of windows were broken by ink bottles hurled by the younger participants in the demonstration. Around 300 police swarmed around the embassy and trucks carrying about a hundred soldiers were parked on a side street not far from the building, apparently to reinforce the police if necessary. Heavily Fortified Florida Keys Steel Fingers Aimed At Communists

KEY WEST (UPI)—The Florida Keys, probably the most heavily fortified area in the United States, today was a finger of steel aimed at the heart of communism in the Western Hemisphere.

Clusters of cigar-shaped antiaircraft missiles line the beaches. Target-finding radar constantly sweep the horizon to the south.

Operating under the tightest cloak of security since World War II, military authorities deploy their battle-equipped troops, trucks, arms and equipment all along the 165-mile length of the keys.

This is operation buildup and the intense war preparations were beginning to show on the civilian population.

While soldiers in fatigues with carbines slung over their shoulders guard the lone ribbon of pavement that connects the string of islands with the mainland, Navy wives openly admit they are afraid.

"I'm scared and I'm getting out of here before the Cubans blow up one of the bridges on the keys and leave us stranded here," one woman said.

"I believe anyone in their right mind is afraid of what might develop from the Cuban situation," said Mrs. John H. Garner. "But, I'm much more afraid for my husband who is on a sub in the blockade."

While tension mounts, the buildup goes on.

Six-wheeled Army trucks roared down the highway throughout the night bringing ammunition and supplies to support the huge concentration of military might assembled here.

Heavy air traffic which started last week doubled yesterday and early today.

Yesterday the Army pulled up signs proclaiming "George A. Smathers Public Beach" and sealed off the waterfront area, missiles, radar and communications equipment were positioned beside the blue Caribbean waters.

Few Navy men could be seen in this traditionally seagoing city. They were prowling the sea lanes leading to Cuba or at the Boca Chica Naval Station seven miles from here.

There was no sign of the thousands of Marines who moved in from troopships and planes several days ago.

DEFENSE WATCH — Two Key West girls watch as soldiers set up anti-aircraft missile launchers on a beach yesterday. The Army has taken over a large section of a beach. (AP Wirephoto)

ENLISTMENTS UP IN MARIN SINCE CRISIS

Inquiries about enlistments in the armed services have increased sharply in Marin since President John F. Kennedy's announcement Monday of the Cuba blockade, San Rafael recruiting officers reported.

The Air Force Recruiting Office will remain open weekdays until 7 p.m. and Saturdays until 5 p.m. because of "doubling of the number of inquiries during the past three days," said Sgt. James Kauzlaric.

Army Recruiting Sgt. F. J. Toner said his office has had a "40 per cent increase in questions."

Navy Chief Robert L. Petzhold said he has been busy answering questions but hasn't noticed any rush to enlist.

Exile Government For Cubans Urged

CLINTON, S.C. (UPI)—Ashley Halsey Jr., a Latin American authority, told a Presbyterian College group yesterday that Cubans should elect a government-in-exile.

Halsey said he does not believe there will be war.

Cuban Blockade Opponents Whip Up Riots, Bombings

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Opponents of the U.S. arms blockade of Cuba whipped up riots and terror bombings in Latin America and demonstrations elsewhere in the world last night and today.

In most cases, the violent anti-American outbreaks appeared to have been fostered by Communist-led students and unionists. They had been comparatively quiet since President John F. Kennedy announced the blockade Monday, apparently either laying plans or awaiting instructions.

The worst violence occurred in La Paz, Bolivia, where at least five persons were killed and 26 wounded in three-way clashes involving pro-Communists, anti-Communists and police.

A mob of about 3,000 anti-Americans mustered by the Cob Union Federation paraded through the streets of La Paz, firing guns in the air and burning a U.S. flag.

Caracas and Buenos Aires also were hit hard yesterday, and disorders in both cities continued last night.

A bomb blast in the basement of the building where Pan American World Airways has its Caracas office caused considerable panic and snarled traffic on the city's main street, but caused no casualties and only slight damage.

In Buenos Aires, a U.S. government exhibit at the Palermo fairgrounds, numerous American business offices and the plant of an anti-Communist newspaper were fire-bombed. Gunmen in a passing car shot up the headquarters of a British-owned power company.

Cars were stoned in the big Ecuadorean port of Guayaquil, causing an undetermined number of casualties and 10 arrests.

In Mexico City, a bomb planted in a hotel where a number of anti-Castro Cuban refugees live was discovered by a janitor and disarmed by police.

A pro-American speech in the Italian parliament started a shouting match that threatened for a time to explode into violence.

See Page M-2

Marin Can Claim A Jazz Great

By FRED WYATT

In the shifting world of jazz, an art spawned in the United States that has spread over the planet in 60 or so years, Muggsy Spanier is a constant.

Certain once-top jazzmen can't blow with their earlier gusto or regularity. Others have died prematurely or left the field. But cornetist Muggsy Spanier of Sausalito is still playing like an upcoming young star.

After more than 40 years in jazz, he still is beloved on both sides of the Atlantic for the unmistakable bite of his plunger mute phrasing and his equally original and entrancing style on open horn.

HIS EVERY number is a new and pretty tune.

On the bandstand, usually under a hot spotlight, the bantam Muggsy blows his entire being into his horn, whether in staccato ensemble with his sidemen on the rapid "Dipper Mouth Blues" or "Dinah," soloing in more legato style on the measured "Someday Sweetheart," the wailing "Black and Blue," or his own hit blues, "Relaxin' At The Touro."

As an artist creating basic jazz or what loosely is called Dixieland, a label for New Orleans jazz via Chicago, Muggsy has weathered the eras of swing, bop, cool and progressive styles (themselves still extant and at times overlapping) and the nameless, virtually atonal sounds of saxist Ornette Coleman.

The indestructible jazzman, Marin's leprechaun transplant from the Midwest, was born near the Gold Coast in Chicago Nov. 9, 1906, as Francis Joseph Spanier. He wrapped his fingers around his first horn at the age of 9.

It was a beat up cornet bought in a pawn shop for $5 by his father, William Spanier. (Muggsy never switched to trumpet, the more brilliant version of the horn, preferring the more nearly human-voiced sound of the cornet.)

WHEN BING CROSBY visited San Francisco in 1958, he made it a point to look up longtime friend Muggsy Spanier. Bing has long been an ardent fan of jazz as performed by Spanier. Next to Muggsy in the photo is another "big name" in the entertainment world, Phil Harris. Spanier is a close acquaintance of many show business celebrities.

THE ELDER Spanier would like to have done better by his son, whose interests veered painfully between baseball and the strident, controversial, emerging form of music played from the heart called jazz.

But William Spanier had to support his wife and a brood of nine—seven boys and two girls. His income as a certified public accountant and concert pianist had limits.

Today Muggsy's first horn is in the New Orleans museum founded by Dr. Edmond Souchon, excellent surgeon, president of the Jazz Club of New Orleans and a recognized jazz guitarist. The museum contains the first instruments of the ranking jazzmen.

With that horn, while listening to records by Joe (King) Oliver and Louis Armstrong, known only to a hard core of fans, Muggsy gave himself his first music lessons.

On that horn Muggsy began developing a style that excited listeners as far back as the 1920s.

Among fans he acquired when he visited England and France in 1930 with the Ted Lewis band was a wistful young man, then the most eligible bachelor of the world, the globe-trotting Prince of Wales.

At the same time or earlier Muggsy met another person who became a lifelong admirer, a young man from Spokane, Wash., Bing Crosby, first known for his singing on Paul Whiteman records in the words "with vocal refrain." Bing, who had recorded with the legendary, late cornetist Bix Beiderbecke, finally got together with Muggs on a record cut during World War II called "Yes, Indeed." The "Chowderhead" referred to by Bing on the record is Muggs.

At age 15 Muggsy was playing in North Clark Street cafes for $2.50 a night plus tips, usually with groups including piano, sax, violin and drums.

TO DO THIS Spanier had had to decide between baseball and jazz. When he was 13 and 14 he was playing semi-pro ball and received overtures from the New York Giants.

The team then was managed by John (Muggsy) McGraw, from whom Spanier got the Muggsy tag.

Still alive in Chicago and able to recall an anecdote from this period is Sister Mary Bibiana, one of his teachers at Holy Name Cathedral on State Street where he was educated.

Muggsy, described by Eddie Condon as so Irish that his face was "tied together with shamrocks," had trotted into mass one Sunday in his baseball rig. A priest ordered:

"Spanier will leave the church with those spiked shoes."

Muggsy's mother, Kate, who died not long ago, recalled that she gave him an assist with his music. She used to hide his horn in a basket on the back porch so his older brother William could not confiscate it.

Bill, who later became a financier, was believed to prefer that Muggsy chose baseball rather than the music that had originated in bawdy houses and flourished in speakeasies.

"I was not about to let his brother take that horn," said Kate. "It would kill the boy." The boy at that time used to practice with the horn on the shore of Lake Michigan.

MUGGSY FIRST heard Oliver and Armstrong in person when he was 14 as they played in the Lincoln Gardens on Chicago's East 31st Street. A year or two later Oliver and sideman Armstrong would have Muggsy sit in and play with them.

Not until he was in his 20s did Muggsy begin five years of lessons under Noah Tarantino. Under him Muggsy continued to develop his embouchure (the shaping of the lips, tongue, etc. in developing musical tone).

One teaching aid was the intricate lip and finger exercises written by Moe Scholburg, a teacher so celebrated that Toscanini took him to Europe in 1930 because he had given lessons to every member of Toscanini's brass section. Muggsy still uses the exercises.

Muggsy rocketed to musical maturity in the headiest times of Chicago jazz—in the early days of prohibition when the city was wide open and no one questioned minors providing the entertainment.

He played with the legendary, late clarinetist Frank Teschemacher, the late equally fabulous Dave Tough, who drummed for one of Muggsy's bands, trombonist Miff Mole who died in 1960, Pee-Wee Russell, Benny Goodman, Jess Stacy, Eddie Condon, nearly everyone else who mattered. Drummer George

Wettling is one of his oldest friends.

After playing with Elmer Schoebel in 1921 at the Blatz Palm Garden, he spent from 1922 to 1924 with Sig Meyers; played in the bands of Charlie Straight, Charles Pierce and Floyd Towne in 1925 and 1926; and toured with Ted Lewis from 1930 to 1936 and Ben Pollack from 1936 to 1938.

AS A STAR in the Ben Pollack band Muggsy lived it up so much that he suffered a nearly fatal physical collapse in 1938.

Many termed his recovery a miracle.

All the manager of the De Soto Hotel in New Orleans knew was that a very sick man was in a room upstairs and he didn't want him to die there. He drove Muggsy to Charity Hospital, where no doctor would touch him.

Muggsy, a salty character even on the brink of death, managed to gasp: "What the hell! I'm not a charity patient. Get me to a hospital."

A bright young intern suggested Muggsy be taken to the Touro Infirmary run by Dr. Alton Ochsner, who was fascinated by the case and would not think of failure.

Muggsy was found to be a victim of a perforated ulcer, lobar pneumonia, veins collapsed so severely that both legs were paralyzed and an abdominal area obstruction so critical that he was immensely bloated.

A separate profile could be written about this crisis in Muggsy's life. It was well recorded and photographed by Dr. Ochsner and his assisting doctors. Ochsner, who has crews of doctors work on a patient simultaneously in lightning fast manner, is credited with originating recovery rooms. Today he has a foundation hospital and clinic under his name that are world famous and draw patients from Europe and Latin America.

MUGGSY DIDN'T recognize Ochsner for days and eventually had to be pulled suddenly off sedation lest he become an addict. To this day Muggsy, who fought his own battle with the bottle before renouncing it, will have nothing to do with persons addicted to drugs, even marijuana.

Doctors had to puncture a vein in a foot to give him 17 blood transfusions. After nearly five months at the Touro, Muggsy spent several months in a hospital in Chicago to which his brother William had brought him.

"Relaxin' at the Touro," Muggsy's theme song, written by him and pianist Joe Bushkin, and his "Oh, Dr. Ochsner," are tunes in tribute to the doctor. "Touro," a blues, has sold more than a million copies, unusual for a jazz record.

When Muggsy and his wife, the former Ruth G. O'Connell, toured Europe in 1960, they found the "Touro" record being sold on a bootleg or pirated label called "Storyville," issued in Denmark.

This tour, in which Muggsy played with native jazz bands in several countries, was to have lasted one month but he was such a draw in every city he visited that he extended the tour to three and one-half months.

Mrs. Spanier reports that in every city fans asked Muggsy, "Why don't we get more records by you?" As musicians and jazz fans know, jazz acquired an intelligent and continuous following in Europe some years before the general public in the United States gave it much support.

FOLLOWING HIS recovery from his great illness, Muggsy organized a small band to play straight jazz or what was then called "hot jazz" as distinct from the more popular and novelty numbers featuring the leader's singing in the Ted Lewis band and the arranged (written-down) Dixieland repertoire of the Ben Pollack band.

Muggsy called his outfit the Muggsy Spanier Ragtime Band and opened in the Sherman Hotel in Chicago on April 29, 1939. Sidemen included trombonist Georg Brunis, pianist George Zack (succeeded by Joe Bushkin) and the late clarinetist Rod Cless. This memorable engagement open-

One Of Giants Of Jazz

THE TELEVISION SHOW "This Is Your Life," devoted to Dr. Edmond Souchon, founder of a New Orleans museum containing first instruments of top jazzmen, brought this crew together in Hollywood in 1960. Guitarist Eddie Condon here plays banjo, the instrument he started on; on guitar is Dr. Souchon; Muggsy Spanier plays cornet and next to him is Matty Matlock on clarinet and behind them is drummer Ray Bauduc.

Show business was electrified.

The Spanier band was to have stayed one month but was continued to six and one-half months and management nearly wept when he cut out. As result of the crowds he drew, the Sherman later brought in the bands of Count Basie, Harry James (with singer Frank Sinatra starting out), Bunny Berigan, Gene Krupa, Fats Waller et al.

Muggsy's Ragtime band cut 16 sides for Bluebird, a label that sold for 35 cents. In later years these records sold for as high as $7.50 apiece, jazz critic Ralph J. Gleason has told me. RCA Victor reissued them as a long-playing record in 1956.

Later in 1939 Muggsy appeared at Chicago's State-Lake Theater with Fats Waller in "The Battle of the Bands." After taking turns the bands played together in a jam session to close their act.

Some Bay Area fans, including this reporter, first heard Muggsy live in 1940 when he came to San Francisco as a member of the Bob Crosby band and as leader of its small combo, the Bobcats. The band was a big Dixieland jazz crew.

THE BOBCATS nearly tore the ceiling out of the Golden Gate Theater with a number called "Smoky Mary," recorded on Decca and now out of print.

Muggsy at this time was preparing to form a new crew of his own, a big band to play the same brand of up-from-New Orleans music. He formed this band in New York in February, 1941, and went on tour, exciting dancers and music fans. A big band needs arrangements, for section work, and Muggsy's man for this job was Deane Kincaide, saxist and composer who had played and arranged for Crosby, Pollack and Tommy Dorsey.

This band, termed by critic Leonard Feather "one of the best big bands ever to feature Dixieland style," stayed together until 1943. Sidemen included Mel Powell, the late clarinetist Irving Fazola and trombonist Vernon Brown. They were a sensation in New York's Arcadia Ballroom and other spots. They cut only four sides, for Decca, now out of print.

The war years and other factors were too much for Muggsy and many other leaders trying to keep big bands together when men were hard to keep and profits hard to acquire. Since then he chiefly has led small combinations, touring coast to coast and in Canada.

In his move to the Bay Area in 1957 Muggsy was signed to do a few months with the Earl Hines crew in the Hangover in San Francisco and stayed two and one-half years. Doc Dougherty has closed the Hangover and retired to Fairfax.

MUGGSY AND his wife, the widow of a Chicago banker, were married in Chicago on St. Valentine's Day, 1950. A short time later semanticist and jazz fan S. I. Hayakawa, now of Mill Valley, featured Muggsy and his music on a Chicago FM radio station. Muggsy was playing the Blue Note at the time.

A 1950 tour after their honeymoon included San Francisco's Hangover and the Tiffany Club in Los Angeles, where Muggsy again paved the way for other jazz crews including Louis Armstrong. This band of Muggsy included clarinetist Darnell Howard, who had played with Oliver and Armstrong, and bassist Truck Parham, who had played with Earl Hines and Jimmie Lunceford.

Before moving west in early 1957 the Spaniers wired a friend to find a San Francisco hotel that would accommodate their beagle hound Glenview Lady Dewes, now called Nibs, a pet with 21 field champions in her bloodline. The Gaylord Hotel said, "Yes," and they stayed there until settling in Sausalito a few months later.

The Spaniers now have a house up the steep incline from South Street. Muggsy, who shops in slacks, sweater and a discolored old pork pie hat that a fan gave him, is already a happy legend among local merchants. Nibs, who has crossed the country twice with the Spaniers, now is 7 and has a daughter Terry 3. Mrs. Spanier broke an ankle last year when her foot caught in a hole on the hill where they live while she was exercising the dogs.

The Spaniers listen to certain classical music but Muggsy has no plan to switch from jazz playing. They back the Democratic Party and anti-discrimination, they are great baseball fans and keep up with new books and they're devoted to their beagles—but jazz is their life. Muggsy plays it and Ruth is his No. 1 fan. It was his music that brought them together. Her son, Buddy Charles, a singer, heard Muggsy and demanded that she hear him. She's never been the same since.

MRS. SPANIER, slim and not unremindful of Marlene Dietrich in appearance and vibrancy, helps Muggsy with publicity and other business affairs. She told me in 1951: "In matters concerning Muggsy, I am a cobra."

By now she knows many of Muggsy's anecdotes, numerous of them unprintable.

Muggsy, like guitarist Eddie Condon and pianist Art Hodes, with whom he grew up, is highly articulate. Friends recall that when Ted Lewis complained he played too much in the middle register, Muggsy retorted: "If you want high notes hire a piccolo player!"

In a night club in West Third Street in Greenwich Village, New York, that Muggsy and another bandleader opened in 1954, listeners thought all had gone smoothly. But later Muggsy told friends a player in the other band, whom he had known for years, had started to drink. This player is a musician who just falls apart in one set if he drinks. Muggsy said:

"I told him, 'You stop that drinking right now or I'm gonna use your nose in that sidewalk for a plowshare.'"

Muggsy reported the anger of the late drummer Sid Catlett toward a white musician in his cups who had been unkind to him. "I had to step in and cool Sid down. He was gonna hit him in the throat with his cymbal and serve his head like John the Baptist's."

Of a trumpet player who died many years ago of a drink-destroyed liver: "He never changed his sox."

And so on.

THE SPANIERS are delighted with the Bay Area, which is why they've settled in Sausalito. But they can't quite completely let go of Chicago. They still have many possessions stored there. They still have a checking account at the National Boulevard Bank of Chicago.

With 40 years of jazz behind him, Muggsy Spanier might be thought to be one of Marin's retired citizens. Not so. He recently returned from a strenuous engagement leading a small band in Las Vegas. In June he cut a long-playing record called "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean" for Fred Astaire's label, Choreo Records, in Hollywood with a 17-piece band made up of musicians expert in the Dixieland idiom including ex-Bob Crosby sidemen Eddie Miller and Matty Matlock.

For the recording, directed by drummer Jackie Mills, Choreo head, they used the Deane Kincaide arrangements written for Muggsy's old big band but not recorded previously. Mrs. Spanier had had them shipped in several heavy cartons from Chicago. Neil Hefti, Gordon Jenkins and other musical figures visited the studio during the recording session and cheered.

Muggsy told Anson Weeks the album opens "with the darndest 'Royal Garden Blues' you ever heard." "Columbia," from which the album gets its title, was scored by Kincaide the day after Pearl Harbor.

So many reported their enthusiasm to Kincaide that he phoned his joy from New York. The program notes were written for the album, due out soon, by Leonard Feather, who says: "Muggsy remains one of the imperishable individualists of jazz."

Muggsy interrupted his rest from Las Vegas to play in the Hollywood Bowl Jazz Concert last Sept. 8 in a crew including clarinetist Barney Bigard, who long was a Duke Ellington sideman, and drummer Mel Lewis, who recently toured Russia with Benny Goodman.

Soon Muggsy will sound a bugle call for his recent Las Vegas crew to reassemble to open a new engagement in the Bay Area or begin a new tour. As Duke Ellington said of himself in 1952 Muggsy Spanier might well say of himself in 1962:

"I am a young bandleader starting out all over again."

WATCHING THEIR MOTHER, Mrs. Lawson (Janet) Jones as she works upon a design for a poster for the Christmas Gift Gallery of the Family Service League of Marin are daughter Alison, 8, and son Douglas, 5. Mrs. Jones is a Strawberry member of the service league. Her design for a Christmas card, which the Family Service Agency Assn. of America is distributing nationally, can be seen at bottom of photo. (Independent-Journal photo)

A Christmas Card Helps Agency Serve Families Of Marin

By JO STUBBLEBINE

When Janet Jones accepted the assignment of designing a Christmas card to benefit the Family Service Agency of Marin, she approached the task with the experience of a commercial artist and the skill of a prize-winning painter.

She did her job so well that the Family Service Assn. of America has ordered 10,000 of the cards for national distribution.

To achieve her design, she first thought of an angel in flight as being a non-sectarian symbol of the holiday season that would have a universal appeal. The next stop was to develop the design in a style which would appeal to those who like traditional cards as well as those who like a fresh, more contemporary type.

JANET IS FOND of calligraphy and its unique design quality. By the use of a chisled pen in a calligraphic lettering style, her angel became a modern embodiment of the medieval spirit of honesty and directness.

Before she put pen to paper, however, she had checked the standard envelope sizes (to have her design the right proportion), and the available paper samples for color and texture. Her choices were a medieval (brick) red with touches of gold on a buff, heavy textured paper.

Then the experimenting began. The process of sketching, adding, subtracting and refining — until the final design was born.

Her familiarity with printing procedures enabled her to see it through the final production stage. By working in close cooperation with the printer and by an appreciation of his problems, she could anticapate and avoid them. On the other hand, he was sensitive to the effect she wished to achieve and was helpful in arriving at a mutually satisfying result.

Janet Schrock Jones, as she signs her work, received a Bachelor of Arts Degree with honors from the California College of Arts and Crafts in Oakland in 1952. Her major was commercial art and she was employed in the art department of a San Francisco advertising agency until the birth of her first child, Alison, now 8 years old. Three years later, a son, Douglas, was born.

While at home with her family, Janet turned to the fine arts, first winning prizes for her watercolors, and more recently with her oils.

A member of the Marin Society of Artists, she won first prize in watercolor in their annual exhibit at the Marin Art and Garden Fair in 1959. In 1961 she won the first prize in oil in the same show with an additional prize for the "most creative" work in the show. In 1962, she again took first prize in oils.

HER WORK has hung twice in the San Francisco Museum of Art. In December, 1961, she won honorable mention in the exhibit of San Francisco Women Artists there. More recently her oil, "Hot Landscape," was accepted for the San Francisco Art Institute annual exhibit in April of this year.

She has exhibited extensively in other group and one-man shows in the Bay Area, at the California State Fair and the Golden Chain Exhibit in Sonora, where she has received several awards for watercolors.

Although she has gone back to commercial art as art director for her husband's new photographic laboratory, she continues to paint when she can, mostly in oil. Her tendency is toward thicker and thicker paint with an increasing sculptural quality.

Music rates among her many other interests. She has played cello with the Marin Symphony, and plays piano for her own amusement.

Another Janet Jones design which will be appearing before the public soon is that of the silk screened posters for the forthcoming Christmas Gift Gallery, sponsored by the Family Service League. The topiary tree motif, a repeat of her last year's design, is aimed at keeping a continuity and recognizability from year to year, but a color change to the dark red and gold scheme of this year.

The Christmas Gift Gallery is a showing of a variety of gift items selected from leading Marin shops. These may be ordered at the show or many items may be bought directly from the new cash and carry department, making possible a one-stop shopping trip for the convenience of the shopper. The event will take place at the Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley and will be opened by a champagne preview next Friday evening.

THE BENEFIT cards will be on sale at the Gallery Friday through Nov. 12.

The Christmas card is also available at the "Cottage," the Family Service League's shop of "used usefuls" at 21 Madrona in Mill Valley. The shop is open on Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays from 10 to 4. Anyone interested in purchasing the cards may call Mrs. Leighton Hatch of Mill Valley, sales chairman.

The Christmas card, the Gift Gallery, and the Cottage benefit the Family Service Agency of Marin, a non-profit, professional family counseling service, and a member of the United Bay Area Crusade.

STEREO HI-FI

By C. J. Catania
Audio Engineer

NEW PRODUCTS. Last week we received two new model tape recorders, both by Craig. They are transistorized and completely portable.

The new Craig TR401 is a lightweight 1½ pound truly portable, pocket size tape recorder. Only 4 by 5½ by 2 inches and not much bigger than your hand. It is an electronic notebook with many uses such as business reports, family gatherings, vacations, school lectures, and party fun. It operates from standard penlight batteries, and comes complete with carrying case, shoulder strap, microphone, batteries, and full reel of tape for only $59.50. It records up to 30 minutes on one reel of tape.

The new Craig TR505 is a 5 inch reel, two speed recorder. It records up to 4 hours on a 5 inch reel, is all transistorized, has tone swtich, self contained AC adapter, and operates on standard flashlight batteries as a completely portable unit. The unit has fast forward, quick stop for editing, rewind, and comes in a handsome luggage type case 12 by 5 by 10½ inches. The TR505 comes with microphone, earpiece, AC adapter cord, batteries, and empty and full 5 inch reels for only $159.50. This recorder can save the business man, lawyer, doctor, architect, and engineer many hours of valuable time. Phone calls, conferences, spec discussions, interviews, notes while traveling, case histories, and lectures are just a few of the hundreds of valuable uses for a portable tape recorder.

Now for a report on our building expansion and remodeling program. We have just knocked out a couple of walls in the main store area and the final stages are in progress. Our new quarters for engineering offices, service department, etc., are completed and we are moving in. The sound room is being completely remodeled and will now be a STEREO THEATRE. Every day will be audio show time in our Stereo Theatre. When we are finished we will ask all of you to drop in at your leisure and treat yourself to relaxing stereo pleasure in our theatre. Again, I wish to thank all of you who have been in during the past few weeks for your patience. We know how difficult it is for you to walk into the congested mess and find what you want.

A Wall Full Of Surprises

Big Boon In Rental Art Show

By KARL BARRON

A wall thirty feet wide and fourteen stories high to exhibit paintings?

This will greet art lovers who are interested in renting paintings when the Marin Society of Artists opens its Fall Rental Shows on Sunday, Nov. 4, in the Marin Art and Garden Center.

No, there isn't really a wall like that, but a space just thirty feet long and twelve feet deep contains the equivalent of a wall with an area of 4320 square feet—or 30 by 144 feet.

How is it done?

It came as a bonus when the new addition to the Frances Young Gallery was designed last spring. Architect Cliff Hanssen, while he worked on plans to increase the wall area of the gallery by one third, kept wondering how it might be possible to further increase the wall space without adding to the floor area.

THE NEED was two-fold. The MSA Rental Gallery began in 1954 with 100 paintings in stock, and mushroomed to the point that today there are 510 paintings out on rental, valued at $83,000. Almost 300 people turned out for the Spring Rental Show's opening day, and rented the walls bare. Obviously, thought Hanssen, there must be a maximum of wall space to handle a business such as this.

Secondly, although the entire gallery is devoted to paintings for rent in May and November, the walls are used for various shows during the other ten months and up to now, the rental paintings were stored in closets, and had to be hauled out one at a time to show to the patrons.

This became increasingly tedious for the MSA volunteers who staff the gallery daily, and also tended to discourage renters because of the time involved. At the present time 138 artists have works on rental, which gives some idea of the number of paintings involved.

WALL PANELS on rollers solve the storage problem and also allow easy display for paintings in the Frances Young Gallery. Here, prospective art renters Robert Hendra of Sacramento and Stephanie von Buchau of Larkspur inspect the new addition which is the pride of the Marin Society of Artists. The society will open its Fall Rental Show a week from tomorrow.

HANSSEN KEPT going back to the idea that an ideal arrangement would allow the patron to see paintings as though he were leafing through a book. And from this thought came the fourteen story wall.

In the rear of the new addition, the place of one wall is occupied by eighteen panels, 10 by 12 feet, recessed side by side into a space twelve feet deep, and sliding out on nylon rollers like a closet door. However, these doors come out at right angles to the wall.

Framed of 2 by 4 inch material, they are panelled with "pegboard", which allows paintings to be hung at any desired position—and on both sides of the panel. Thus, each of the 18 panels has a two-sided area totalling 240 square feet.

Genevieve DeMartini and Eva Kamp, this year's co-chairmen of the Rental Gallery, say they've never had it so easy.

The saving in time and labor is important, for the gallery is open from 2 to 4 p.m. daily, including Sunday, and on Thursday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m. This totals about 68 hours a month. And few of these hours pass without a painting being rented. At last spring's show, 84 works were rented in the first two hours the gallery was open.

ALL WORKS available are juried. The jury for the show opening next Sunday consists of John Lynch, Henry Rasmussen, Ken Potter, Winifred Koch and Gwen Stone for paintings, while crafts will be juried by Bernice Brown, Marianne Rauschnaubel, Alton Raible and Sara Tuckey.

Sunday, Nov. 4, from 2 to 5 p.m., the entire Frances Young Gallery will be devoted to art works with the label "For Rent".

SKETCH in TAHITI

with Frank Kane
On November 14 from Honolulu via SOUTH PACIFIC AIRLINES an ARTIST SKETCHING TOUR
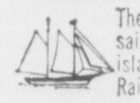
will depart for the South Sea Island Paradise of TAHITI. Frank Kane, well-known San Francisco artist will return to the Jewel of the Pacific to conduct a two-week tour, sketching by day the views that Gauguin found so intriguing. At night, Frank returns with members of the Tour to his dancing haunts of two years ago. WHY NOT JOIN HIM?
Tour costs can also include passage from Mainland to Hawaii by plane or ship.


The schooner "Maylis" will sail the group to the remote islands of Moorea, Bora Bora, Raiatea, etc.

HIKERS CAREFULLY follow stepping stones across Lagunitas Creek during long trek from Sonoma County line to the Golden Gate. The Girl Scout Heritage Hike in Marin County was one of hundreds held across the country this summer. The idea was to give girls an opportunity to know thoroughly the nature of their county. This picture and others on next two pages were taken by Mrs. Charles Geller, hike leader.

Long Walk Across County

BY ELAINE DAUM

Just how big is Marin County?

Thirty-eight Marin Girl Scouts who participated in this summer's Heritage Hike know its size exactly. They hiked the length of the county from the Sonoma County line to the Golden Gate. It took seven days.

Planned as an observance of the Girl Scout 50th Anniversary, councils all over the United States sponsored similar hikes to acquaint Girl Scouts with the history of their community and their heritage.

A cross-country hike of over one hundred miles is not planned overnight. Mrs. Charles Geller, leader of the hike, started making the preliminary plans over a year ago. By November, 1961, she had already started getting the signed permission from more than twenty ranch owners on whose property the girls would camp and cross.

THE TRAIL was hiked by the adult staff, Mrs. James Rowen, Mrs. Kurt Helmstedter, Mrs. Robert Mayer, Mrs. Robert Rohner and Mrs. Geller, during the spring. In this manner, the leaders were able to check the trails, become acquainted with the proposed campsites and know what problems could be expected.

Registration for the Heritage Hike was open to seventh and eighth grade Intermediate and all Senior Scouts. During the spring, they were required to take "warm-up" hikes to ready them for the hundred miles ahead.

To Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Schoff fell the daily job of meeting the hikers at their campsite with the Girl Scout truck. They were a welcome sight to the girls each afternoon. The Schoffs purchased the food, and hauled the cooking equipment and personal gear. Butane stoves were used for all cooking due to the fire hazard encountered in so many areas of Marin during the summer.

Food preparation was kept as simple as possible, but the dinner menus included barbecued chicken, stew and hamburgers. Bag lunches were prepared each morning to be eaten on the trail.

THE HIKE started at the bridge below Valley Ford at the Sonoma Conty line, where each girl made a point of touching the Marin County Line sign. During the leaders' practice hike, they had found it impossible to ford Stemple creek at high tide, so departure time was planned to reach the creek at low tide. The first night was spent camping on the Smith Ranch at Walker Creek.

The second night found the girls at the Bill Barboni Ranch on Marshall Road. Here they camped by a flock of newly purchased sheep which were penned prior to being vaccinated against disease.

The fog, which hangs low along the coastline during the summer, plagued the hikers the first few mornings. The third morning it was so dense it was impossible to see the fences on either side of the road. This provided real excitement. All landmarks were completely obliterated, and the girls missed a gate and had to retrace their steps. When the fog lifted the girls were back on course and only a little behind schedule. That night's camp was set up at Devil's Gulch in Samuel P. Taylor Park.

FENCES WERE sometimes a problem for Girl Scout hikers who walked from the north to south end of Marin County. Here, near Twin Peaks, Diane Swingle helps Mrs. Robert Rohner under barbed wire.

THE FOURTH night the girls camped at Laurel Dell on Mount Tamalpais. In the morning, the Scouts hiked to the Radar Station on the mountain, where, by previous arrangement, they were taken on a tour of the installation. Stopping at Alice Eastwood Park, the girls and leaders decided it would be best to stop the hike there, as severe blisters were making hiking quite painful for several girls.

This might have been the end of the hike for another group of less determined girls, but the Heritage Hikers had started out to hike from one line to the other, and although it meant waiting for school to start so they could all finish the trip together, finish it they did.

MEETING again at Mountain Home on Mount Tamalpais early on a Saturday morning last month, the hike was resumed. Their final night together was spent at Tennessee Cove, and the next day found them at the Golden Gate Bridge.

What did the hike mean to the Scouts and their leaders? It gave them a true picture of Marin County which no one can really get from a car window. This is their county, where they can hike for miles and miles, and still be in Marin. This is their heritage.

IT'S PROVEN AGAIN—
MAN IS A MIDGET

The recent deluge of wind and rain has left visual scars we'll be living with for many months, and even years. The ferocious force of the elements took us by surprise, and left little doubt that we are still slaves to the elements.

With each succeeding achievement in the world of science and production, man invariably seeks high grounds to stand in all his glory to bellow and thump his chest in self-adulation. Each failure fails to diminish the octave of the bellow or the persistance of the thump on the next success.

Man has created machines that travel faster than sound, and even think like humans. He has developed endless products aimed at providing more and more creature comforts. Nothing in the way of production or processing remains long unanswered or unattainable when the ingenuity of man is aimed at the problem.

We enjoy every conceivable benefit of the products of man's thinking, and we enjoy them with the casual air of one who is born to uncounted riches. It is unthinkable that there existed a time and people where such necessities were not available. To give up just one of these benefits would be nothing short of ghastly.

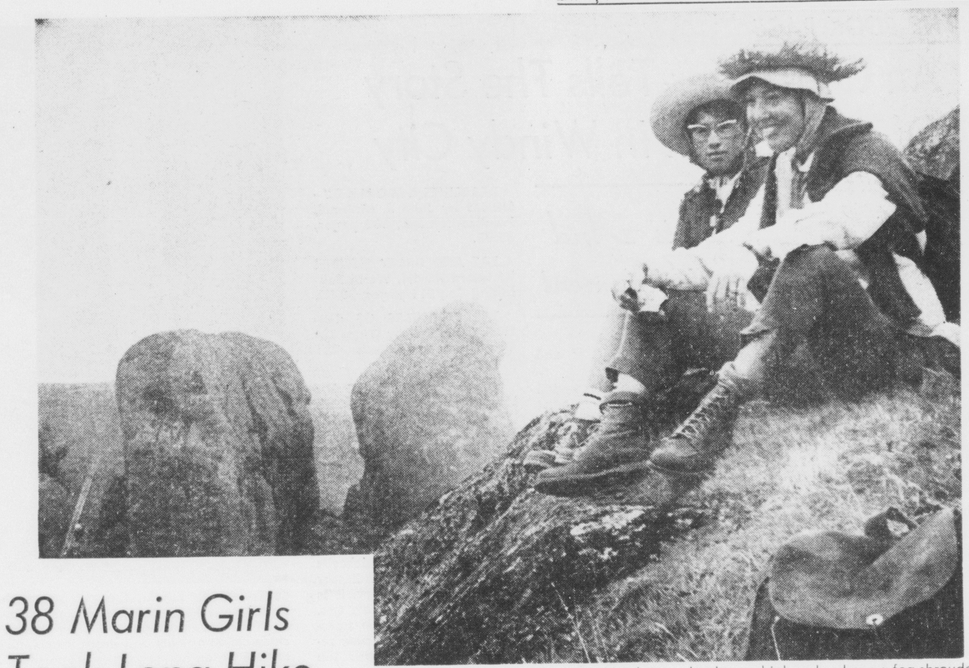
Yet, in our horn of plenty, protected by seemingly endless extent of man's ingenuity and ability to provide even more for our enjoyment, we are ill-prepared for an onslaught on our private world of security. When nature unleashes her fury in seeming retaliation for our smugness, we are virtually powerless to fight back.

Perhaps, it is better that this is true. If man were able to control the elements, or even retaliate effectively against the fury of nature, could he maintain a proper perspective toward his power? It is apparent we have failed to live peaceably with our present sphere of power and influence. How can we expect any more success if the power increases?

In the meantime, we'll sandbag the doorways and tar-patch the roofs at Ames Ford in a pathetically vain effort to deter the flood, just as our friends and neighbors have done to their homes and stores. And, we'll pray for the continuance of sunny skies.

COOLING OFF hot feet after 15 miles of one day's hike, girls take their time in crossing Nicasio Creek where it joins Lagunitas Creek. The hikers still have another five miles to go before they make camp.

HIKERS PAUSE to look through heavy fog at sheep corraled on the Bill Barboni Ranch. The sheep, which just arrived on the ranch, are about to be vaccinated against disease.



LUNCH AND REST stop finds Joan Voightlander and Mrs. Kurt Helmsteader, an adult leader, on high rocks above a fog shrouded landscape. Hike across Marin County was made in two stages.

38 Marin Girls Took Long Hike

CAMP TRUCK provided mobile base for hikers. It hauled food and bedrolls ahead to next day's camp site. The Girl Scouts did not ride the truck. They were out for the walk.

A NEVER ENDING job was picking burrs out of socks. Here the burrs have brought the hikers to a stop on an old bridge across Keyes Creek on Highway 1. Pat Rowen is girl in center of bridge.

BUSY CHEFS prepare dinner after hiking as far as the Bill Barboni Ranch on Marshall Road at end of second day. The cooks are Leslie Finke, Carey Phillips and Janice Thorn.

A FENCE is always a good place for hikers to stop and rest. Here, the trans-country hikers are getting to their feet again to resume the long walk. This picture was taken on top of Bolinas Ridge where Panfliglio Ranch joins the Rodrigues and Nunes Ranch. Ranchers were contacted ahead of the hike for permission to cross their land.

COOKING on butane stoves to reduce fire hazard are, from the left, Carol Ecker, Leonard Schoff and Doreen Phelps. Menus were never fancy except for one night when hikers had fried chicken.

By DON KEOWN

Old-timer John J. McPhaul has put together what is partly a history of Chicago journalism and partly a collection of anecdotes about Windy City newspapermen in his "Deadlines & Monkeyshines."

The opportunity for an inside look at an era of journalism that has now pretty well passed from the scene should be amusing—and perhaps enlightening—for many readers. For the Chicago colleagues of reporter McPhaul were more typical of their times than he would lead you to believe.

They were colorful and they were ingenious. But we suspect that most of today's newspaper readers, after reading this book, will be happy to settle for today's more competent, if less colorful, craftsmen. Newspapers have been a long time living down the antics and shenanigans committeed then by some of their brethren in the mad quest for larger circulation figures.

It's the much-repeated formula of the nutritionist for the overweight: Skip the foods with high caloric, low nutritional values. Concentrate upon the proteins, the fresh fruits, vegetables, etc.

Another Kordel point: The belief that added weight with increased years is permissible is a fallacy.

The book doesn't differ greatly from earlier works by Kordel and others in the field. But if you don't own one of them, then there is considerable common sense advice to be found in the pages of "Eat and Grow Slender."

THERE ARE any number of good Chinese cookbooks available, but Grace Zia Chu's new "The Pleasures of Chinese Cooking" boasts several special features.

Chief among them is the separation of recipes employing ingredients available at the general supermarket from those requiring ingredients found only in Chinese groceries.

Each recipe is followed by a number of helpful "tips" for the cook.

And the range of dishes is wide, from the simplest fare for the beginner to the most exotic concoctions.

Some other inclusions in clude instruction on the use of the Chinese cleaver, the technique of working with woks and chopsticks, advice on how to order in Chinese restaurants, a history of tea, the procedure for growing your own bean sprouts in your kitchen, a discussion of regional Chinese cooking, some full-course menus, etc.

At $4.95, it's an excellent value.

IF HARRY Carmichael's "Of Unsound Mind" is hardly an exceptional mystery, it is still quite an acceptable one.

Piper, the insurance assessor, and Quinn, the crime reporter, are faced with the problem of finding out just why seven average people with no apparent motives have resorted to suicide.

The scene is London. The pace is rather casual. The tone breezy. And the final deduction, satisfactory enough.

Case History On Young Gangs Well Done

ALL THE WAY DOWN by Vincent Riccio and Bill Slocum, Simon and Schuster, 191 pages, $3.75. Reviewed by Bill Hendricks.

Here's an exceptionally well done and vitally-presented case history of a worker in the tough districts fighting juvenile delinquency.

No holds are barred in this one, including the language, judgment on cops and criticism of judges. In general it's an honest, and sometimes raging, attempt to portray the need for help for the GIs of juvenile gang wars. It is told dead honest by a decidedly capable, extremely tired social worker.

SEVENTEEN OF Ray Bradbury's most popular science fiction stories have been included in a new Doubleday and Co. book for young readers—"R Is for Rocket." The stories include action aplenty and strange adventures. But the usual science fiction horror themes are missing. Jacket art is by Joe Mugnaini.

The Investigators

THE FEDERAL INVESTIGATORS by Miriam Ottenberg, Prentice-Hall, 343 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

There is quite an army of federal investigators, composed of quite a number of divisions.

Miriam Ottenberg, a Pulitzer Prize-winning Washington Star reporter who has done more than a little investigating on her own, catalogues and describes them all in "The Federal Investigators." Her book is an eye-opener.

The construction of "The Federal Investigators" is simple. Each agency's duties and history are outlined; then follows an account of an especially interesting case solved by investigators of that agency.

The research and know-how that went into the book are far from simple. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, in a foreword praising Miss Ottenberg's work, says: "She writes well and knowledgeably, after years of covering these agencies for the Washington Evening Star . . . She also has won the respect of the investigators about whom she writes—and whom she often assists with the results of her own digging for facts."

"The Federal Investigators" is essentially a "booster" book. The author touches only lightly on gaps in areas of enforcement and overlap of agencies in other areas, and not at all on investigative bumbling or the not-unnatural tendency of such agencies to proliferate investigations for their own sake.

But the book is an enlightening catalogue of the multiple agencies created to help enforce federal laws. And it is indeed a tribute to the author that it is also interesting and exciting to read.

German Exile

THE FEW AND THE MANY by Hans Sahl (translated by Richard and Clara Winston), Harcourt, Brace and World, 343 pages, $5.75. Reviewed by Richard Lyttle.

This is the story of exile brought on by Hitler's rise to power and his racial and political persecutions. There have been many recent books on the subject, but Hans Sahl's novel is more of a contribution to literature than it is to sociology.

His descriptive style reaches moving and poetic heights. The plight of his hero, Georg Kobbe, is everyman's plight. The philosophy of the exile is made universal and the story forces the reader into some provocative, searching questions.

Published in German in 1959, the first translation now makes it available to English-speaking readers.

The book contains a magnificent variety of styles, ranging from diary notes to a smooth stream of consciousness. Sahl's characters and dialogue are artfully handled and contribute greatly to the realistic foundation of the story.

The book is melancholy in its commentary, and yet there is humor and laughter, sorrow and tears, all the range of emotions. This can only be done by a skillful writer who has lived through the experiences he describes.

HE PLAYS the role of a boy who has been abandoned at a Texas river camp. Actually, he is Harry Matsinger III, and he lives in San Rafael.

WANTS TO PLAY BALL

Boy, 12, Has Leading Role In Dominican One-Act Play

By LILLIAN SEAVER

A 12-year-old San Rafael boy will take the lead in the title role of "John Turner Davis" in a program of two one-act plays to be opened next week by the Dominican College Troupers in Angelico Hall on Dominican campus.

Wednesday's opening night performance is reserved for students, but the other three performances, one at 8:15 p.m., Friday, another at 2 p.m. Saturday and the last at 8:15 p.m., Nov. 10, are open to the public.

Harry Matsinger III, a seventh grader at St. Raphael's, was tapped for the role following his early success singing the part of the boy Nicholas in two Christmas performances of the "St. Nicholas Cantata" by the Winifred Baker Boys' Chorale.

YOUNG HARRY turns in a realistic performance of the 12-year-old John Turner Davis who has been abandoned at a river camp in Harrison, Texas, in 1933 by his migrant-worker family. He is befriended by a kindly, childless couple and finally finds a home with them.

"It's pretty easy to memorize," according to Harry. "It's just easy talk. You just have to go slower and talk louder for the stage."

Harry's sister, Sue Matsinger, a junior at Dominican College, is playing what she describes as a "small role" in the same production. Their parents are Col. and Mrs. Harry Matsinger of 1318 Nye street, San Rafael.

THE COLONEL is with the Marine Corps and the family has made its home here for five years. Two other members of the family are Marianne, a senior at Dominican Upper school, and Anne Marie who is in the sixth grade at St. Raphael's.

"No, I don't want to be an actor when I grow up, I want to be a baseball player," Harry said. To keep in shape, he plays in the Little League and the St. Raphael's basketball team.

Harry has been rehearsing for several weeks with Sister M. Cyril, O.P., head of the Dominican College speech and drama department, and director of the two one-act plays.

The scene for this play has been designed by Elsie Harle, in competition with other students of the Dominican art department.

"The one-acts are a greater challenge," Sister Cyril stated, "because there are two separate productions to rehearse and two separate settings and moods. The link between these two is the theme of abandoned children."

"John Turner Davis" by Horton Foote was originally produced in 1955 on the Philco Television Playhouse and first staged this year in arena style in an off-Broadway playhouse.

Men's roles are played by Don VanEtten of Corte Madera, Don McLaughlin of Terra Linda, Larry Selma of Mill Valley and Stan Morris of San Francisco.

The "Impromptu" cast of four includes Maureen Minehan, Hansi de Petra, Tom Bertken of San Francisco and Monte Hickok of Honolulu, now attending College of Marin.

Sausalito: Jewel City On Hillside

It's Favorite Of Residents And Visitors

A GREEN OASIS in the heart of downtown Sausalito is the Plaza Vina Del Mar with its green lawns, trees, cool fountain and statuary. In front of it is the Bridgeway traffic, behind it the ferryboat Berkeley which has been converted into the Trade Fair store. Also to be seen in the background is the Sausalito Yacht Club. (Independent-Journal photo)

Back in 1836 a young Englishman, William Richardson, fell in love with the wildly beautiful land to San Francisco's north, separated by the waters of the bay.

Richardson applied to the Mexican governor for a land grant to the 19,500 acre Rancho Saucelito, but was doomed to initial disappointment. He was informed that the grant had already been awarded to one Jose Antonio Gallindo. But later Gallindo was to fall out of favor, and the grant was transferred to Richard's name in 1836.

Indians carried yellow adobe bricks on their backs up the Saucelito hills where Richard's first Marin ranch home was built. And in 1841 Richardson and his wife, the former Maria Antonia Martinez, moved to Rancho Saucelito from San Francisco to make their home. Richardson Bay is named for him.

In 1850 Richardson piped water from the springs under Saucelito's famous willows to a great cistern, reputed to still be under Richardson avenue, and thence to his boat, the Water Nixie, which transported it to San Francisco to be sold for 50 cents a bucket.

RICHARDSON was confident that his ranch would some day be the location of a twin city to San Francisco which was then burgeoning across the bay.

And Sausalito, as the town came to be spelled, did grow from cow town to fishing village to a wide open "Monte Carlo of the West."

At this point, many of its proud citizenry exceeded even Richardson in their optimism. Some day, they were confident, their city would shade even San Francisco.

Those expectations were never realized. But today's Sausalitan is quite satisfied with his city. And visitors—including many from metropolitan San Francisco—are invariably enchanted, and not a little envious.

Writers like to compare Sausalito to a Mediterranean village—and the comparison is apt. Its handsome homes perched on steep hillsides look down upon sparkling waters. In sharp contrast are the waterfront arks in which dwell other Sausalitans.

The shops and restaurants have a distinctive appearance and flavor of their own. Art galleries, little theaters, etc., contribute to the "arty" atmosphere which appeals to the tourists who pour into the town on sunny weekends.

BOATS OF ALL sizes and all kinds bob in the waters. A fountain splashes in the green oasis of a downtown plaza. And San Francisco glistens across the waters.

The setting, the view, the climate are all magnificent.

Even the visitor who plans to spend most of a day in Sausalito is not going to see it all. The sights are too many and too varied.

But here are a few of the principal attractions:

Bridgeway, "the street" in Sausalito, with its many interesting shops including The Village Fair with floor after floor of sparkling little arcade shops, art galleries, coffee bars, etc.

The Berkeley, an old ferryboat converted into a unique and fascinating store, The Trade Fair. As you meander through its aisles, you may find yourself harkening back to the days when crowds boarded the ferryboats for the trip to San Francisco when there was no Golden Gate Bridge.

The Plaza Vina Del Mar, a small but pretty and cool plaza in the heart of Sausalito named after its sister city, beautiful Vina Del Mar in Chile. There you can enjoy the splashing fountain and the statuary from a shaded bench.

The verdant and fragrant gardens that enhance many Sausalito homes.

The Poet's Bench at the top of a pedestrian lane where you can rest under the lacy branches of spreading pepper trees.

THE MOORINGS which serve as home base for both pleasure and fishing boats of many sizes ranging from the most elaborate to the simplest.

The waterfront walk along Bridgeway with the waves washing below and the San Francisco skyline in the distance. And at the end of that walk, Al Sebrian's famous seal sculpture.

The art galleries, gift shops and antique stores which abound in the city.

Jack London's house lies at the foot of Richardson Street, very much the same as when that fabulous adventurer and literary figure resided there.

Worth a trip in itself is Sausalito's Marinship District, a busy shipbuilding center during World War II and now a growing industrial area. There the big attraction is the Army Engineers' huge model of San Francisco Bay, housed in what was once the Marinship warehouse.

And at certain times of the year, there are special events that draw added throngs to Sausalito.

If you are there on a Friday or Saturday night, then almost certainly there will be a little theater production playing in one of the two playhouses on Bridgeway—Sausalito Little Theater and Gate Playhouse.

IN THE FALL there is an annual art fair.

In the sunnier months, there is boat racing off shore.

March usually brings festival days when Sausalito pays tribute to sister city Vina Del Mar.

In the winter the herring run brings scores to Sausalito where they scoop the fish from the bay with anything that will scoop.

But perhaps the best way to taste the charm of Sausalito is simply to drive at random through its hilly streets. Thousands of charming vistas will entrance you.

And there will come a time when you will want to park your automobile and take to the walks or paths for a closer view of the surroundings.

Very likely you will want to carry a camera along with you. Or better yet, if you are artistically inclined, a sketch pad.

You will have no difficulty understanding why Sausalito has become the home of many internationally known artists.

BY JUSTINA SCHUTTE

In 1947 a brilliant young pianist renounced worldly things and joined the Dominican Sisters of San Rafael.

The end of a promising career, lost to the world forever? Quite the contrary.

Born Joyzelle Ray in Burlington, Vermont, she came with her parents and older sister to Oakland at an early age, her father being professor of political science at University of California.

At the age of five or six she showed an interest in the piano and started to study at the age of eight. A few years later she lost a beloved teacher and for the ensuing few years did not take lessons.

"I just played the piano for my own enjoyment," she remarks with a smile.

When she was 16 she began lessons again, practicing long hours. Later she attended Cincinnati Conservatory of Music. She studied with Marguerite Melville and Karol Liszniewski and with George Gruenberg in Berlin.

SHE MADE her musical debut in San Francisco in 1940 and was acclaimed by the critics. Radio and concert commitments were many in the following years. She was also teaching a few pupils at Dominican Conservatory of Music in San Rafael. In 1945 this association led to her decision to join the Dominican Sisters of San Rafael.

Now, as Sister Mary Dominic, O.P., she is assistant professor of music at Dominican College. Sister Dominic's primary role is that of piano teacher; her absorbing interest is in early American music and the early American civilization program. The primary purpose of this course, offered to juniors and seniors in the college, is to develop an understanding and wise appreciation of American civilization and culture as a whole. One of the most interesting facets of early American music is Moravian music, originating in Bethlehem, Pa.

Dominican College has broadcast through KTIM programs highlighting this music and there have been several concerts featuring the music at Angelico Hall.

DOMINICAN College Music Club, Sister Mary Dominic, moderator, is a member of the National Federation of Music Clubs and participates in a nationwide contest known as "Parade of American Music." This contest is conducted during February of each year. Dominican Club has won six double ribbon awards, the most recent award being for contemporary American music, the preceding for research, public exhibits, broadcasts and live performance of the newly-discovered early Moravian music, period 1740 to 1860.

Under Sister Dominic's supervision the club has published and circulated more than 250 pamphlets on details of this music. It is believed that Dominican College was the first organized group on the West Coast to make this music known to Northern California.

On Nov. 23, 1962, at Marin Catholic High School music lovers will hear Sister Dominic as soloist with the Marin Symphony Orchestra, playing Beethoven's 4th G Minor Concerto for piano and orchestra. The program begins at 8:30 p.m. This is a "first" for Marin County.

It is not usual for a member of the religious order to give a concert "off campus." Permission for this appearance was not easily obtained. Negotiations were carried on for some time and Mother Mary Justin, O.P., Prioress General, gave her consent after deep deliberation.

Season tickets for the Marin Symphony Orchestra series, Nov. 23, 1962, Feb. 8, 1963 and May 3, 1963, may be obtained through the Symphony Guild of Marin, P. O. Box 144, Mill Valley.

"Can Concrete Splashes Be Removed From My Suit?"

Concrete or cement can be splashed on garments whether you are a "Sidewalk Superintendent" or not. And when it is splashed on you — beware! Get the garment to a drycleaner as quickly as possible. Concrete, itself, is alkaline and the color in your suit may be damaged permanently.

Concrete when set, is waterproof. It contains fine pigments which are insoluble and being highly alkaline, it is similar physically, to many indelible inks. Cement-stained work clothes can be handled more roughly, but dress garments present a special problem. Wools, for instance, often lose color quickly on contact with cement.

Your drycleaner has the proper cleansing agents and the skill to remove an alkaline spot without damage, if the color hasn't already been removed. He knows what to do and will do his best, but he cannot guarantee success. Much will depend upon the size of the splash as well as the fiber, the fabric and the color. An important point to remember is that a concrete-stained garment will still show stains even after redyeing.

STEREO SCENE

Playing This Record Delayed Reviewer

By JOHN SUNIER
Editor, FM & Cultural Guide

Some modern jazz:

VERY TALL—Oscar Peterson Trio with Milt Jackson—VERVE Stereo V6-8429:

I've been meaning to review this lp for months now, but I'm so busy playing and replaying it that I just found time to sit down and praise it in print.

It's undoubtedly one of the best jazz albums of the year. Peterson is a prolific pianist with fantastic technical skills. Milt Jackson is one of the top vibes-men in the business, and best-known for his work with The Modern Jazz Quartet.

From the opening "Green Dolphin Street" (on which Oscar reaches inside the piano to pluck some of the strings directly), the album captures an infectious swinging feeling which remains — along with warm and lovely melodic statements — until the final notes of the last "Reunion Blues."

LIKE WEST SIDE STORY—The Richard Behrke Trio—Atco Stereo 33-141:

Besides sounding hip, the title of this lp is designed to suggest that this jazz-West Side Story disc, latest of a long series, hews very closely to the original Leonard Bernsteined notes. For a first album, a real triumph for jazz pianist Behrke!

Latest in a group of recorded efforts to put some guts into West Coast jazz, this group fairly surges with power and almost justifies the dozen large exclamation points on the cover of the album.

Mitchell has been an important bass player on this coast, and Land a fine tenorman in the Coleman Hawkins tradition. Also in the group, and showing off with some fine solos during the course of the set, are Frank Strazzeri on piano; Carmell Jones, trumpet, and Leon Petties, drums.

SOULNIK—The Doug Watkins Quintet featuring Yusef Lateef—New Jazz 8238:

This older monophonic album is by all odds the most successful of a number of jazz cello lp's. Doug Watkins achieves a swing in his performance on this seemingly un-jazzable instrument which makes one wonder why more jazz cello isn't heard.

The quintet is rounded out by Hugh Lawson's piano; Herman Wright's bass, and Lex Humphries' drums.

The title tune is a blues by Yusef Lateef and features a cello-oboe duet that is gorgeous. Also striking is the slow-tempoed "Imagination," bringing the set of six to a close. An original and intriguing album any way you look at it.

THE SOUNDS OF YUSEF—The Yusef Lateef Quintet — New Jazz 8261:

The converted-Moselm Negro jazzman Lateef is here featured on such ridiculously varied instruments as the tenor sax, flute, argol, tambourine, balloon, and a 7-Up bottle! No, it's not a jazz Spike Jones—it's good honest international United Nations-type jazz.

The Eastern influence is uppermost in the music, as it is in Yusef's philosophical life. The rest of the group—including Wilburn Harden on fluegelhorn; Hugh Lawson, piano and various instruments; Ernie Farrow, bass; and Oliver Jackson, percussion—hails from, of all places, Detroit.

At the moment an integral part of Cannonball Adderley's Quintet, Yusef Lateef is an amazing musician, full of audacity and originality and a highly valued star on the jazz scene. This particular album shows him off better than any I've had the pleasure of hearing.

MARIN POETS' CORNER

PSALM OF NOVATO

I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills of Marin
Which surround the beautiful city of Novato.
Novato, city of friendliness, nestled in the beautiful green
And the golden brown hills of Marin.
Novato, founded by men of God as a way station for weary travelers,
Travelers who, as they rested, lifted their eyes unto the hills and thought,
"This is good"—so remained to till the soil and raise gentle animals
Which also thrived on the hills of Marin.
Praising God these ranchers lived on and prospered
And sang the praises of their homes to visitors from afar—
Visitors who came to see, and then came also to love the hills of Marin.
Hundreds came and enjoyed too the peace and the beauty.
Ranchers shared their land and many tiny homes sprang up
Homes where gentle families grew in peace and love
In the shadow of the hills of Marin.
And Novato became a city, a city of friendliness, enjoying the warm
Sunshine and the hills and the peace
Protected by the flying planes, soaring over the hills like huge gulls
Disturbing the quiet of the little city
And yet understood and so accepted by the gentle people.
Novato, city of churches, city of people who love the Lord
And try to follow his teachings.
People who have learned to lift up their eyes unto the hills of Marin.
Knowing that their help cometh, not from the hills but, from
Him who madeth the hills.
People of Novato who rejoice in the Lord and praise Him, knowing that Novato is Good!

LITTLE SELF

Like a pebble on the beach
Washed by the ebbing tide,
Smoothed and polished day by day
In it's daily ride.

So little self on you go
In your earthly ride,
Smoothed by the earthly tide of things
'Till you are pure inside.

Tear out your heart, cry bitter tears,
Give yourself away,
Smash down the walls that bind you
In this living day.

Climb upward out of strife that wrought
You out of earthly things
Send your heart to the stars
Let your soul have wings.

Like a pebble on the beach
Washed by the tide and sand
Go forth and smooth your corners off
Then climb into His hand.

A TIME OF TENTACLES

Make thou this day the daily beds
And bake thee, mom, the weekly breads.
For thine is kingdom gastronomic—
Laundress, maid and economic
Wizard elbowed in detergent:
Change those diapers; heed that urgent
Toddler's howl. Bleach out the scorch
On daddy's shirt and sweep the porch.
Brandish Brillo, scrub your sink;
Scour that kettle till you're pink.

Gloved in dish cloths, mom is found—
Not only rooted, but pot bound.

SAN RAFAEL — ANNETTE HERRINGTON

Seeding Your Own House Plants Provides Winter Day Adventure

If you've never tried growing house plants from seeds, you don't know what an adventure you've been missing.

For just a few cents invested in the seeds will give you many more plants than you could possibly buy full-grown for the same money.

Begonias and geraniums, fuchsias and primroses, gloxinnias, flowering maples (Abutilon) even cacti are only a few of the kinds of house plants that may be grown from seeds.

Such foliage plants as coleus and asparagus ferns are other possibilities. Actually, there's a long, list of plants that thrive in the home and are easy to develop from seeds.

SCRUB UP some flower pots to use as seedbeds and put half an inch of broken flower pots, coarse cinders or gravel in the bottom of each for drainage.

A mixture of equal parts of good garden soil, granulated peat moss and sand will make a good medium in which to start the seeds. Firm the soil after nearly filling the pots.

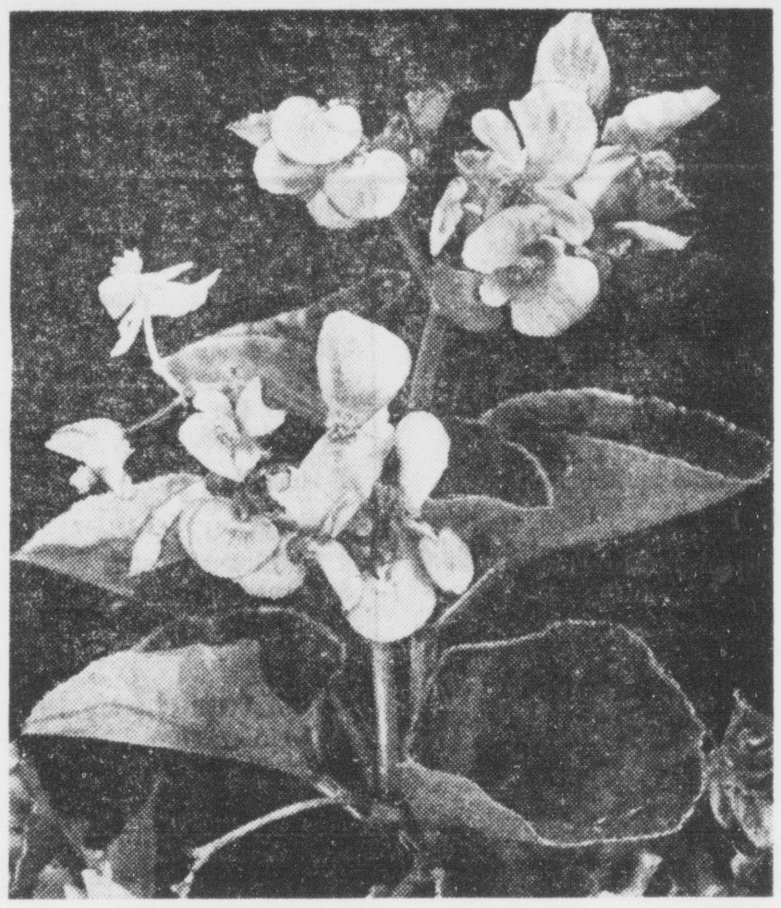
Over the top of the soil put half an inch of spagnum moss which has been rubbed through a sieve (or you can buy it already "milled"). Seeds sown in this moss will not be troubled by disease and their roots will grow down into the soil mixture.

DO NOT cover such very fine seeds as begonia or gloxinia. Just press them into the moss with the flat of your hand. Larger seeds may be covered with more moss to a depth that is twice the diameter of the seed.

Cover the pots with pieces of glass, set them in a pan of water until the soil on top shows it is damp, drain and then keep them in a shaded place until seeds sprout. Then move the pots to a sunny place, shading them with paper from the hottest sun.

AS SOON as the seedlings have grown their second set of leaves they can be transplanted to little individual pots which are set in a pan with peat moss stuffed between pots to prevent drying out.

Keep watering with a fine spray when necessary and repot when roots fill the little pots.



MANY TYPES of house plants are readily grown from seeds. Among them are the everblooming begonias and both single and double-flowered forms are available. Start them now for winter bloom.

Look To Barberries For Autumn Foliage

Lacking the abundance of color which fall brings to eastern gardens, the Marinites are ever on the lookout for shrubs and trees that take on autumn tones.

He finds them, too, in trees such as liquidamber, which produce brilliant foliage, or in one of our many berried shrubs such as the pyracantha.

If he looks at the barberry family he will find both berries and foliage that give him color when fall arrives. Moreover, he will find a family of shrubs that is too little used when one considers the merrits of its various members.

BARBERRIES are definitely seasonal showpieces in fall, but they offer interest in other seasons, too. In fact, they have a year-round charm.

This is a huge family of shrubs, both evergreen and deciduous. Of more than 100 known varieties, however, only a few are of interest to the gardener. These find their places in the foundation planting, in the mixed shrub border and in informal hedges. When used as a hedge, the barberries are guaranteed to discourage trespassing, for so thorny are they that even a mouse would have trouble in passing through.

One of the best barberries for home grounds is the Darwin Barberry. A neat and refined evergreen shrubs, it grows some five or six feet high and often as wide or wider, producing clean, glossy, dark green leaves of holly-like appearance.

IN SPRING, the Darwin barberry has striking clusters of golden-orange flowers, and in our milder climate it may continue to scatter these throughout the year. The flowers are followed by blue-black berries. In fall, when nights start to turn cool, the foliage takes on a bronze cast which carries over in winter.

Being evergreen, this barberry makes an attractive, informal hedge plant.. It seems indifferent to soils and asks only water for its best performance.

It is among the deciduous barberries that we find the pleasing combination of colored foliage and colored berries in fall. The Wilson barberry and the Japanese barberry are especially attractive, the latter having variations in leaf color and size which make it doubly interesting.

Both Wilson barberry and Japanese barberry are rather low, shrubby specimens for the border where the fall color will stand out. Their foliage is green from spring until autumn at which time it colors up vividly before dropping the leaves to unveil the masses of coral berries along the branches.

JAPANESE barberry has two variations which the gardener should get to know:

One is the Red Leaf Japanese barberry, which has bronze-red foliage in summer that turns to beautiful amber shades as nights cool off. The other is the Crimson Pygmy variety—a dwarf counterpart of the Red Leaf Japanese barberry.

Both of these need sunny spots to maintain the rich bronze tones of their foliage in summer. When the leaves drop in fall, the coral or red berries of these deciduous barberries linger on and on along the bare branches.

The holding quality of these berries is amazing. They hang on in the garden until the spring growth starts once again. And when cut for display in the house, they will last for weeks. Take care in cutting, however, lest the hand encounter thorns.

GARDENERS CHECKLIST

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- The recent rains by now have probably sprouted many grass and weed seedlings. This is an ideal time to pull them up while the ground is still soft. For unplanted areas, a good weed spray will save work.
- It is still not too late to plant bulbs for winter and early spring color in the garden. All types of bulbs can be planted at this time.
- If you want color now, you can still get potted chrysanthemums at the nursery.
- Shrubs and trees planted in the storm soaked ground now have a good chance to develop a strong root system. They will put on vigorous growth next spring and summer.

CANDIDATES for governor of California, Richard M. Nixon and Edmund G. Brown, meet on Channel 5 at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in "The California Battleground," a CBS Report special.

NUBIAN BOATMAN looks at the Temple of Abu Simbl on the bank of the Nile. The historic river is the topic of an NBC special at 10 p.m., Sunday, on Channel 4. "The River Nile," an hour program, will tell how the lake from the Aswan Dam will cover this spot. The temple, however, will be raised and preserved.
